LAD TEACHES PARENTS HOW TO CATCH FISH

15-Year-Old Boy Makes Best Showing on Party Trip to Lake Freeman.

BY LEFTY LEE
Times Fishing Editor

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rinard and family and Mr. and Mrs. L. Carey and their children enjoyed their trip to Lake Freeman, but it remained for 15-year-old George Rinard to put the meat on the table. This lad landed a 4½-pound small-mouth bass and the majority of the crappie and bluegill caught by them. George says he is going to try it again soon and he lands another big one. He is going to enter it in The Times contest.

Charles Dodge, in from Lake Freeman, claims that the anglers who used a No. 2 Pflüger spinner at the Dodge camp last Sunday, came in with limit catches.

The Em-Roe Sporting Goods Company is donating a handsome silver trophy to the winner of the 100-ounce bass-casting championship and the annual invitational meet of the Indianapolis Casting Club next Sunday. To gain permanent possession of this trophy an individual must win it three times.

We will not attempt to take credit for any of the following tips that may prove of value on your fishing trips, but merely are passing on some good advice by experts who know what it is all about: Do not gaff a pike, musky or any large fish too hurriedly. When the fish is played out, the gaff should be placed gently under the lower jaw. Salmon and lake trout should be gaffed behind the shoulder. A steady, but quick, draw always is safer than a wild jab.

It always is best to remove a hook that has accidentally been run into the flesh by taking a firm hold with a pair of pliers, and withdrawing with one quick yank. This method is far better than pushing the barb through and cutting it off.

If the ferrule of a rod sticks, a piece of waxed string or a piece of wet string around the metal top of the inner ferrule and attach the other end of the string to a fence post. This affords a better leverage than can be obtained by the fingers. Be sure to exert a straight pull. Never oil the ferrule of a rod, as this is the cause for joints sticking, rubbing through the hair before putting the rod together is the best way to make sure it will come apart again.

When casting from a boat, it is an excellent plan to have several different lures along the side of the craft within easy reach. It simplifies and speeds up changing the lure when this becomes necessary, and is much easier than opening the tackle box every time a different bait is desired.

Accidents will happen, and it is a wise idea to fasten the tackle box to the boat. A light chain dog lead, that may be obtained at any dime store, is easy to carry, and easy to fasten to the handle of the tackle box and the boat. By doing this, the spare tackle at least will be saved, in the event of a tipover.

Oldtimers who fish Canadian waters each year should read the new laws for fishing these waters carefully, as some important changes have been made. One new law in particular is the placing of a limit on the northern pike. The fighting qualities of this wonderful fish finally have been recognized, and the new law is the result.

Negro Alleged to Have Chopped Lumber From Vacant Houses.

Charged with chopping lumber from two houses in the 1900 block Yandes street, William Gentry, Negro, 31, living in the rear of 1937 Yandes street, was arrested today on a vagrancy charge.

Gentry, according to police, had chopped lumber from vacant residences at 1936 and 1934 Yandes street.

HOUSEWIVES PLEDGE AID TO NRA

In thousands of Indianapolis homes today blue eagles, signifying the intention of housewives to patronize NRA industries, are pasted on windows.

Volunteer workers are continuing their canvass of residences, aligning the home legion which will fight depression in accordance with the national code.

HUNDREDS OF WORKERS PUT ON PAY ROLLS

NRA Survey Shows Good Gain in Employment in City.

had been reported by the local workers.

"We are looking for two men who are attempting to frustrate the NRA program in Indianapolis," Fischer revealed. "One man went to an apartment house south of Fall creek occupied by thirty tenants Wednesday and told the occupants that the NRA was un-American in that it advocated 'boycott'."

"We have sent NRA officers to that house to explain the real projects of the NRA and point out that it is not an attempt to boycott."

Fischer said that NRA officers also intended to suppress the remarks of a man who has appeared nightly on Meridian street, near Eleventh street, to tell any one who stopped to listen that the Blue Eagle "was the bird of vengeance predicted in a passage of the Testament, come to destroy the world."

Completion of surveys in District 8, from Kentucky avenue to White river and from Delaware to South street, was expected today, according to Dr. Walter E. Hemphill, "lieutenant-colonel" in charge of the area.

100 Per Cent Return Expected

Earl Kiger, "major" in district 11, extending from Thirty-eighth to Fifty-second street and across town from east to west, also promised complete returns today.

Both NRA officers told Fischer that they expected to turn in "nearly 100 per cent results."

Francis Wells, Indiana Recovery director, stated that 7,295 business firms out of a possible 11,000 in Indianapolis had signed NRA agreements. Of these, 307 firms were wholesalers, 5,192 retailers, and 542 manufacturers. The remainder were miscellaneous.

Many Workers Added

That employers are actually adding workers to their payrolls was evidenced Wednesday when a survey of 124 Indianapolis business firms disclosed 210 workers have been added since the inception of the NRA with a total increase of $4,294 to weekly payrolls.

Indianapolis recovery officers were inclined to accept these figures as a good indication of the trend of the NRA program here as the returns came from widely scattered sections of the city. The figures were compiled from a half dozen census takers in the city and were not confined to any one locality.

PLOW MAGNATE OLIVER BEQUEATHS $2,000,000

South Bend Man's Fortune Estimated Once at $100,000,000.

SOUTH BEND, Aug. 24.—An estimated value of $2,000,000 was placed on the estate of the late J. D. Oliver, plow manufacturer, in a will filed for probate here late Wednesday.

Oliver, who died here Aug. 6, at one time was reported to be worth nearly $100,000,000. The bulk of the estate will be used to set up trust funds. The widow was granted $100,000 in cash; $25,000 each was granted to each of the sons-in-law and daughters-in-law and trust funds of $25,000 were established for each of three grandchildren.

The residue of the estate will establish another trust fund, one-half of the annual income going to the widow and the other half being divided among the children.

Three boys were injured while playing Wednesday. Jesse Paulk, 9, of 728 North Ketchum street, fell from the second story of his home, while attempting to retrieve a football from the roof. He incurred a fracture of the left arm and is in city hospital.

Tenth street, was cut on the head when struck by a stone hurled in Ellenberger park. He was given police first aid.

The ABC of the NRA

Below are given answers to questions sent to The Times by readers seeking information on problems arising from the National Recovery Act. Answers to other queries will be printed from day to day.

If you have problems to which you wish answers, write to The Times, or call Riley 5551, ask for the ABC department, and dictate your question. In giving your query, please state definitely the industry, business, or occupation on which your question is based. It will be answered as soon as possible.

Q—What are the wages and hours set forth in the code for florists? Doesn't displaying the blue eagle now by many companies simply mean that they have pledged themselves to support the President's plan generally? I mean that in many cases the eagle is displayed, but the company has not reorganized its help on the basis of the new plan.

A—Employers signing PRA agree to comply with the minimum wage and maximum hour provisions of this agreement pending adoption of a code for their industry. As no special code for florists has been approved, they operate under general provisions of PRA, with maximum work week of 40 hours and minimum wage of $14.50 a week.

Q—What is the laundry code? Does this include dry cleaners? I am a woman working in a laundry and I do dry cleaning work for the most part. My company has agreed to the terms of the code, but I am not paid a living wage. When is the code going to do me any good?

A—A temporary laundry code has been approved by NRA. It does not cover dry cleaning establishments. Under the laundry code, the maximum work week for productive labor is 45 hours and the minimum wage is 25 cents an hour. If your employer has signed the NRA, he should abide by these provisions.

Q—Are commissions counted as part of a wage?—J. A. S.

A—Persons selling solely on commission are exempt from operation of NRA. If base salary or guarantee is in effect, employer must abide by minimum wage provision. In other words, the base salary plus commission must be at least equal the minimum wage of $14.50 established by NRA.

Q—Advise a customer of bakery goods as to the number of hours and days that he should be employed and the wages that he should receive.—J. F. R.

A—Under the temporary code for the baking industry, outside salesmen are exempt from the maximum hours provision of the code. Minimum wage of 40 cents an hour, unless the hourly rate on July 15, 1929, was lower, in which case they shall be paid not less than the hourly rate on that date and in no event less than 30 cents an hour.

Q—An automobile dealer employs men on a fifty-hour week at 40 cents an hour, which paid a salary of $21.00. The company accepted the NRA, reduced the working hours to forty-eight hours a week, thereby raising wages 5 cents on the hour, but the weekly salary now totals $18, or $3.00 less than before accepting the code. Yet the company reduced hours and raised wages. What's the matter?—F. G.

A—No code for automobile dealers as yet approved by NRA. Operating under the NRA, signers agree in paragraph 7 "not to re-

LAKE POLLUTION BLAME PUT ON ILLINOIS FIRM

McNutt Defends Indiana as Not All to Blame for Condition.

Criticism of Indiana health policies resulting in pollution of Chicago's water supply from Lake Michigan, voiced by Governor Henry Horner of Illinois, today was answered by Governor Paul V. McNutt. McNutt said that the Calumet are as much to blame, if not more so, for this pollution, than Indiana industries, the Governor of Indiana said to the Governor of Illinois.

McNutt included in his letter a copy of a report on the station made by L. A. Geipel, state health board chief engineer, pointing out that where Lake county industries had spent $2,000,000 for phenol recovery plants, some of the neighboring Illinois communities had spent nothing.

"However," Governor McNutt wrote, "Indiana does not propose to make this a point of controversy with her sister state, but rather at this time desires to attest to sincerity and earnestness of purpose in lending co-operation to bring about a solution of this problem, which so aptly has been termed a grave one."

"Pollution of a public water supply is a condition which should not be tolerated by any municipality or state in this enlightened age."

He added that principal cities in Lake county have in their hands estimates for construction of sewage treatment plants and that several were listed among requests submitted for RFC loans on self-liquidating works.

They are: Hammond, $1,500,000; East Chicago, $1,500,000; Gary, $2,850,000; Michigan City, $400,000; Whiting, $300,000 and others.
