WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—In more than a dozen states preparations are being made for new legislation to control the return of liquor after the eighteenth amendment is repealed.

Several Governors have appointed commissions to study various methods of control. Canada's experience is being scrutinized. Experience there in handling liquor is expected to be reflected in some of the state legislation to be turned out in the coming months.

Plans in various states for future action are outlined in reports from United Press bureaus throughout the country as follows:

Illinois—Special session expected to be called for October or November. State enforcement act already repealed. Forecasts favor sale of beer and wine with food and whisky only in package form not to be consumed on premises.

Michigan—Legislative council of members of both houses appointed to draft control plan to be submitted at session in January. Expected to place liquor in hands of control commission which now handles beer. Governor Cockscomb favors state among first to have liquor as it was first to vote for repeal.

Missouri—Governor Park has named a special board headed by President Walter Williams of Missouri university, to make recommendations to special session of legislature to be called in fall.

Ohio—State enforcement act stands pending referendum on repeal of state dry amendment Nov. 7. Governor White is expected to call a special session about January to consider regulation. Pending new legislation beer control board would be in charge of liquor regulation after repeal in event dry amendment is also removed from state constitution.

Oregon—Commission of seven appointed by Governor Meier is studying control plans. Special session likely before November to arrange financing of schools and unemployment relief and liquor control may come up.

Pennsylvania—Governor Pinchot is expected to call a special session soon after repeal is ratified. State enforcement act becomes void with repeal because it rests on Volstead act. Therefore, pending new legislation, only the beverage law controlling licensing of beer and wine will be standing.

Wisconsin—State laws repealed. Legislature recently provided for interim committee to draft regulatory bill. As next regular session is in 1935, special meeting may be called sooner.

Wyoming—State will vote in November, 1934, on amendment to take prohibition out of state constitution. Last session of legislature repealed all enforcement laws so that the state virtually will be wet after repeal. Governor Miller is expected to appoint a committee of fifteen to draw up a liquor code for a special session of the legislature to be called in the fall.

20 Officers Guard Cell of Kidnaper

Harvey Bailey

Harvey Bailey Back in Jail After Daring Escape at Dallas.

By United Press
OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 5.—Twenty guards were placed around the cell of Harvey Bailey, notorious killer, kidnaper and bandit, today, as authorities anticipated the chance of a desperate underworld attempt to liberate the man who accomplished the seemingly impossible and escaped from the Dallas (Tex.) county jail Monday.

Bailey had only a few hours of liberty, but authorities were given a clear intimation of the cleverness and resourcefulness of his prisoner. While he was being captured at Ardmore, police fought a carload of underworld machine gunners at Enid, 150 miles north. The gunmen escaped. They were believed friends of Bailey, heading south to meet him.

Authorities opened a vigorous investigation of how he obtained the pistol with which he forced his way out of the supposedly escape-proof Dallas jail, where he was guarded heavily.

Bailey is to be tried here Sept. 18 for the kidnapping of Charles Urschel, oil millionaire, provided it is not decided to try him in Kansas City for the Union Station massacre, where he would be subject to the death penalty.

He has been identified as one of the bandits who escaped with $2,000,000 in the nation's greatest bank robbery at Lincoln, Neb. He was questioned in the 1929 St. Valentine's day massacre in Chicago, once was investigated in connection with the Linbergh kidnapping, and last December day led ten convicts in an escape from the Kansas state penitentiary at Lansing, where he was serving a bank robbery sentence.

Bars Sowed Out
Branding an old revolver which he said he "found" in his mattress, Bailey forced his way out of the Dallas jail at breakfast time Monday. He locked three attendants in cells and kidnapped Nick Tresp, a deputy jailer.

In preparation for his dash, Bailey saved out the bars between his cell and an empty one adjoining. To reach the street, he descended five flights in an elevator, overpowered Tresp, and forced him to lead the way to his auto. His was the fourth escape from the towering nineteen-year-old jail.

Sheriff Smoot Schmid returned by airplane to Dallas today from Chicago to investigate the source of the guns and saw blades. He said special federal guards placed over Bailey following his capture at Paradise, Tex., last month had been discontinued as a result of the change in administration at the United States marshal's office last week.

Bailey forced Tresp to accompany him in Tresp's automobile. Scores of automobiles and half a dozen airplanes were ordered in pursuit.

Flee to Oklahoma
Speeding northward, Bailey and his hostages reached Oklahoma without detection. Gainesville, (Tex.) officers heard they were in Hoxboro, Okla., and notified Ardmore officers, farther north.

Chief Hale Dunn of Ardmore and officers Bennett Wallace and Raymond Shoemaker sped south and encountered Bailey and Tresp at a filling station. Bailey started the car and raced into Ardmore, the police in hot pursuit. He zigzagged around business blocks.

Near the city limits, the officers fired several shots, aimed high for fear of wounding Tresp. A few minutes later they overtook the machine and forced it to the curb.

Bailey surrendered without resistance.

Loot from the home of Alva Romer, 1302 Congress avenue, was five packs of cigarettes.

JOHNSON PLANS FURTHER SLASH IN WORK HOURS

Intensified Drive Will Be Made to Assure More Jobs by Winter.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES
Times Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—General Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, is contemplating a possible further reduction of work hours in American industry to absorb unemployment before winter begins.

He plans to conduct a census between Oct. 1 and Oct. 15 of employment gains. If this does not show that 6,000,000 persons have gone back to work, another shortening of the work week will be attempted.

Johnson and President William Green of the American Federation of Labor agree on 2,000,000 as the number of jobs that have been provided. This is a big gain, but still leaves some 11,000,000 without work, according to federation figures.

Green has insisted upon a thirty-hour week throughout industry, repeating his plea at every case hearing. He has become, if anything, more insistent on this in the last few days and stressed it in his Labor day speech.

The blanket code originally provided a thirty-five-hour week for labor and forty hours for the "white collar" worker, but this has been modified by the substitutions permitted so that the general average now is forty or perhaps a little above.

The permanent codes approved thus far permit a spread from forty to forty-eight, and, in some cases, fifty-two hours, with few exceptions.

The re-employment drive has been retarded by "chiseling" under the President's re-employment agreements. Reports here show all sorts of devices which are used, staggering of workers and the like, to avoid hiring more people.

Johnson struck vigorously at these chisellers in his militant Labor day speech. He threatened withdrawal of the Blue Eagle, and hinted at other penalties provided by the law. He is expected to bring down his hand very strongly after the two week check-up of violations which he announced at Chicago, which will begin at once.

He is fixing a six-week test period before he shortens work hours further, to give industry opportunity to make good. But he is determined that the country shall not go into another winter with a staggering burden of unemployment, if he can prevent it.

Absorption of 6,000,000 unemployed still would leave 7,000,000, which is above the peak of the 1921-22 depression.

FERTILIZER ESTIMATED FOR WHEAT ACREAGE

By Times Special
LAFAYETTE, Ind., Sept. 5.—Indiana wheat growers who sign the United States government contract to reduce their acreage 15 per cent this fall will not use more than 200 pounds of fertilizer an acre and containing not more than 20 per cent available plant food, if they follow the recommendations of Purdue university.

A message received from the wheat control administration urged that fertilizer should not be used in excess of the normal fertilizer application, thereby preventing the use of large amounts of fertilizer and increasing production to such an extent that it would defeat the purpose of the act.

The Purdue authorities point out that 200 pounds is about the average amount used in this state and in line with good principles of farm management, and that this is the proper amount to be applied this fall.

The trio was charged with soliciting funds supposedly for a school benefit to be held at South Whitley. Questioning revealed that they had operated a similar racket at Warsaw, obtaining about $30 from thirty-three merchants, for another school benefit to be held at Pierceton.

The three were arrested by Sheriff H. O. Strickler, Columbia City. Prosecutor Seth Rowdabaugh and Sheriff Harley Person refused to turn the trio over to State Policeman Ralph Liggett, who demanded their custody on ground that they were wanted in a number of Indiana cities.

Authorities said Chevalier served a state prison term in 1903 for swindling an Indianapolis man out of $15,000.

Papers found on him indicated the trio planned other swindles in Huntington, North Manchester, Kendallville, Garrett, Auburn, Butler, Plymouth, Angola, Goshen and Dorchester, Ind., Bryan and Montpelier, O., and Sturgis, Mich.
