INTENSIVE PRICE STUDY PLANNED TO ASSIST NRA

Unprecedented Action Will Cover 1,500 Items in Common Use.

BY H. O. THOMPSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1933, by United Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The most ambitious investigation of retail prices ever undertaken in America was planned today as a part of the national recovery program.

Protection of consumers against runaway prices and the setting up of a wholesome supervision of price trends were objectives.

The research will be extended to some 1,500 items sold daily in crossroads stores and metropolitan markets. More than 400 cities will be covered by the survey, with emphasis on a true representation of what is happening in the retail field.

Scope Will Be Wide

For the present, the undertaking will be on an emergency basis. The long-range aspects of the plan contemplate a permanent organization in which twelve to twenty key points, with every one of the more than 400 representative towns and cities reporting retail price trends at least once each month.

As companion projects to the retail studies, other committees were attempting to reach a uniform formula for determining cost of production, and the effects of price fixing and price control.

It appeared probable that a broad system of price control, as differentiated from strict fixing of prices, would emerge from the program.

Like Plan Once Spurned

In many particulars the study of retail prices which was being pushed at the greatest speed was similar to one proposed by Professor William F. Ogburn of the University of Chicago before his resignation from the NRA consumers' advisory board.

Ogburn resigned because his plans were not acted upon. Now, weeks afterward, the NRA has found it necessary to rush the study through. Establishment of centers where price information is available will give data which will enable housewives to know fair prices on meats, vegetables, canned goods and other commodities. The study will be complete enough to include all the various outlets for retail goods—independent stores, chain systems, delicatessens and general stores.

TURNER MAKES NEW AIR SPEED MARK TO CITY

New York-Indianapolis Trip
32 Seconds Faster
Than Previously.

Roscoe Turner, air ace and winner of the Bendix trophy coast-to-coast dash, today was rejoicing in a new record for the New York-Indianapolis flight, although he bettered his own time by only thirty-two seconds.

Flying his golden, low-winged monoplane low from out of the dark clouds, Turner zoomed into the Municipal airport at 1:39 Tuesday afternoon in the record time of 3 hours 16 minutes from Roosevelt field, New York.

Encounters Storms

Jovial, military-garbed, and mustached, Turner dropped out of his plane, the Ring Free Special, as though it had been a little pleasure jaunt from Irvington. He left Roosevelt field at 10:23 Tuesday morning and ran into three severe thunder storms and head winds of from twenty to forty miles an hour. The heavy rains peeled the paint off the wings in spots and the fuselage was blackened with exhaust smoke.

Although he only broke his previous record by a few seconds, Turner said confidently he could lower the time in better weather. He plans to fly leisurely from here to his home in Los Angeles, after attending a meeting Tuesday night of officials of the Mid-Western Petroleum Corporation and the Macmillan Petroleum Corporation, joint sponsors of the flight.

Plane Weighs 3,300 Pounds

Turner was flying a Widdell-Williams plane with 800 horsepower and capable of a 300-mile-an-hour speed. The plane weighs 3,300 pounds fully loaded and used 150 gallons of gasoline on the flight.

He was expected to reach this city at 11, but was forced to change propellers in New York before he set off on his record-smashing trip.
