

COUNTESS TO
GIVE LECTURE
ON BOOK HERE

Former Maid of Honor to Empress Likes 'New'
Soviet Russia.

"I am happy that I went back, happy that I have been with the people, happy that I can return again and that I am no longer an exile."

Thus does the Countess Irina Skarlatina, former maid of honor to the empress of Russia and a direct descendant of Burk, first prince of Russia, describe her reactions to the United Soviet State of Russia as the first member of the former Russian aristocracy to return to her native land.

Countess Skarlatina, who now is Mrs. Victor Blakeslee, will be in Indianapolis Oct. 4 as the guest of the Bobb Merrill Company and L. S. Ayres & Co. She will deliver a lecture based on her experiences in the "new Russia" as told in her recently published book, "First to Go Back."

Revolution Takes Parents

Born and educated in Russia, the countess grew up under the old imperial regime. Following the World war and during the Russian revolution her father and mother were killed. She herself was sentenced to death by the Soviet for objecting to the desecration of the churches.

Escaping miraculously, she journeyed to England and America. At this point in her life, sad and disillusioned by her bitter experiences, she wrote her first book, "A World Can End," the story of the Russian revolution as she saw it.

During her stay in this country she married Victor Blakeslee, United States Navy, retired, and wrote her second book, "A World Begins."

Granted Soviet Passport

In 1932, the countess was granted a passport to re-enter Soviet Russia. With her husband she traveled there for many months, covering practically the whole of Russia except Siberia.

The Russia of 1933 is no more like pre-revolutionary Russia or Russia of the first years of revolution than day is like night. The old has been completely swept away, out of revolutionary chaos, an entirely new mold is being cast and Russia right now is a world in the making. I am tremendously interested in this new world and all it is trying to accomplish."

SUSPECT IS NABBED
AS ALARM IS SOUNDED

Alleged Drunk, Seized by Witness, Admits Pulling Box, Police Say.

Joseph Shanahan, 30, of 227 North Summit street, did not wait to be accused of turning in a false alarm from a fire box at Market street and Arsenal avenue, Thursday night, police asserted today.

Brooks Pate, 1515 East Ohio street, told officers he saw a man pull the box and pursued him. As Pate seized Shanahan in an alley, the latter, according to his captor, said, "Did it."

Did what? Pate asked.

"Pulled that alarm. Don't take me down."

In addition to a charge of turning in a false alarm, Shanahan is accused of drunkenness.

MISSING CITY MAN
SOUGHT BY RELATIVES

Police Without Clews Leading to Recovery of Resident.

Police were without clews today to the whereabouts of L. F. Farrell, 67, of 648 East Sixteenth street, who was reported by relatives to have disappeared Wednesday.

Mr. Farrell came here Saturday from Bedford, his former home, to reside at the East Sixteenth address with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Powell.

Police say they were advised by the son that he knew of no reason why his father should leave. The elder man weighs 167 pounds, is 5 feet 8 inches tall, and has white, wavy hair.

ARGUMENT IN DANCE
HALL ENDS IN JAIL

Eleven Stitches Taken in Lip of One; Police Hold Both.

Both principals of an argument are held today on assault and battery charges.

The prisoners are Harry Raja, 25, of 500 Harmon street, who has a cut on the upper lip closed by eleven stitches, and Joseph Renforth, 1945 Valley avenue.

Raja said he was wounded during an argument in a dance hall. Renforth said a street car, on which he was riding, was followed by Raja in an automobile, and that when Renforth left the car, a dispute arose and that he slashed Raja.
