

WAR MOTHERS WILL INSTALL NEW OFFICERS

Connersville Woman Named
National President at Convention.

Installation of new national officers elected Friday was to be the important feature of today's program of the eighth biennial convention of the American War Mothers, meeting in the Claypool.

In the election Friday, Mrs. William E. Ochiltree, Connersville, recording secretary of the War Mothers was elected national president. Mrs. Corabelle Francis, Cambridge, Mass., was the only other candidate for the presidency.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Howard C. Boone, Kansas City, Mo., first vice-president; Mrs. Elizabeth Martin, Thiensville, Wis., second vice-president; Mrs. R. E. Ridenhour, Concord, N. C., third vice-president, and Mrs. J. C. Scheider, New York, fourth vice-president.

Night Session Postponed
A night session scheduled for Friday night was postponed, and other national officers were to be elected during this morning's session which opened at 9 with Mrs. Lenore H. Stone, retiring president, presiding. Unfinished business also was to be cleared before adjournment of the morning session. A sight-seeing tour, through courtesy of the ladies auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, also was scheduled for this morning.

New business was to be discussed during this afternoon's session preceding the installation of the new officers. Last official business before "taps" was to be the placing of the national wreath at the cenotaph of the Indiana War memorial honoring Indiana's hero dead.

Membership Shows Gain
Much of Friday's sessions was taken up with the reports of national officers and committee chairmen. Mrs. Allie Manning, Los Angeles, membership committee chairman, reported that total membership of the organization now stands at 10,750, a gain of 859 during the last two years.

A dinner and entertainment program was held Friday night in the Claypool Riley room.

Mrs. Ochiltree, the new president, has been in active service to the War Mothers sixteen years. She has been engaged in club and social work for the last forty years, and for that reason is considered well fitted for the high position she has attained.

Two Sons in War

Mrs. Ochiltree was born in Williamsburg, O., but came to Connersville in 1889 with her husband, an attorney, and has resided there since. She helped organize the first free kindergarten and many social clubs there.

Two sons, Lieutenant W. N. Ochiltree and Sergeant Bert J. Ochiltree saw service during the World war. Both were of the Three hundred and fifty-fifth infantry. The former died several years ago and the latter still is living. He resides in Connersville.

IMPORTANCE OF LARGE X-RAY DOSES IS CITED

Small Amounts Injure Cancer, Is Warning of Scientist.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—The importance of using large doses of X-rays or radium in treating cancer of the lip was emphasized by Dr. Charles L. Martin of Baylor university medical school at the session here this week of the American Congress of Radiology.

The danger of giving small doses of radium or X-rays lies in the fact that the tumor soon becomes so radioresistant that radiation is no longer effective, Dr. Martin explained. The surgeon who then then be called in can not understand why he was not consulted in the beginning.

Dr. Martin cited statistics showing encouraging results with the type of treatment he recommended. In one group of forty-two patients treated between 1925 and 1928, forty-one were alive at the end of five years. The one who did not survive died of a recurrence of the disease in the glands of the neck. Dr. Martin also described methods of treating cancer inside the mouth with radium needles, and tumors glands.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Suffering from what he claimed was a mysterious tropical malady contracted in Africa while serving in the British Majesty's army, William W. Pender, 32, British subject, sought aid at a hospital.

Pender, who described himself as a widely traveled soldier of fortune, said his disease had baffled some of the best physicians in the world. The "strange malady" was diagnosed by Dr. Walter Goodale, superintendent of the hospital, as dandruff.

Moving Day

Negro Waives 'Squatters' Rights' in Court.

MRS. ETHEL LYLE, Negro, 543 West North street, "jes" moved in in May," she admitted today when she was arraigned in municipal court three before Judge Dewey Myers on charges of trespass.

Ethel was accused by Bert F. Callahan, 1636 North Illinois street, rental agent, with taking possession of the house at the North street address without the formality of obtaining consent or paying rent.

This was true, Ethel admitted, but she explained that an acquaintance of hers on Indiana avenue told her "it would be all right."

"Would you like to move before Tuesday or go to the women's prison?" asked Judge Myers. "Judge, I'll move if I have to find a coal shed," promised Ethel, and Judge Myers continued the case to Tuesday.

PERFECTS INSTRUMENT FOR NAVIGATORS' AID

New Device Tells Time at All Points on Earth's Surface.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 30.—Because of William Anderson's ingenuity, navigators and aviators now have a gadget which tells them "everything" they want to know.

Anderson has wrangled many sea-going brows here with a "calculating dial," which reduces more than 86,000 calculations to a mechanical process. It enables its user to tell the time of day, or night, at a glance from anywhere on land, air, or sea.

Set at any hour and minute, the actual time at that moment is shown for all degrees of longitude around the earth.

If Arthur Eads, 901 Gladstone avenue, upper left, decides to lead a bachelor's life after he reaches man's estate, he'll know how to take care of his own darning. Miss Augusta Walker, sewing instructor in the Boys Economic Club of Calvin Kendall school, is looking on.

The slightly embarrassed young gentlemen, upper right, are Robert Chapel, 1024 North Colorado street, left, and Thobert Frost, 834 North Grant street, learning the intricacies of the art of egg-beating.

It isn't a "battle of the sexes," but it's something bordering on that idea.

For boys and girls in junior high school departments in the public schools have been given an opportunity to change places at the Calvin Kendall school, East Tenth and Wallace streets, in the choice of their club work.

Manual training work, long recognized as the young male's own particular hobby, has been offered as an elective subject for girls in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades, while the boys are given an opportunity to don cooking aprons and headbands, and learn the culinary art.

When the selection first was suggested, school officials did not know just how much appeal there would be in this exchange.

But boys do yearn to cook and taste, and little girls want to know how to use a hammer and saw without calling in the help of the man of the family. This was demonstrated in the overcrowded conditions of both clubs.

Only just as you get to exert that "cooking club." When Mrs. Elizabeth Witt, principal, went on a tour of inspection of the club work, during the first week of school, she found the class was over-crowded, and she had to use her best "sales talk" to persuade a group of the boys to join another type of club.

The same situation existed in the manual training department. The girls showed a marked preference for working with pieces of wood, nails and varnish brushes to raising their voices in the chorus club. There was a decided lack of a desire for such a lady-like procedure.

"We want them all to be happy in this club work," Mrs. Witt explains. "After all, it doesn't make so much difference what you choose to do just as you get to exert that right to choose once in a while. For that reason, we dislike to influence any of the boys or girls to change their course, unless it is necessary. So far as possible, we shall let them retain their membership in the club of their choice."

organization reached wartime proportions. More than five hundred delegates attended.

Among the speakers at the conference were Miss Mabel T. Boardman, Washington, national secretary of the Red Cross, and a member of the central national committee; William Fortune, chairman of the Indianapolis chapter, and also a member of the central national committee and William H. Book, director of the state unemployment relief commission.

State activities closed Friday. Home hygiene instructors were to hold a conference today, under the direction of Miss Margaret E. Dimzey, nursing field representative, and Miss Helen Teal, executive secretary of the Indiana State Nurses' Association.

SILK IMPORTS FROM JAPAN TAKE JUMP

200 Per Cent Increase Over 1932,
Reported in "Frisco."

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30.—Activities of the tiny silkworm in far away Japan made hurly stevedores puff twice as hard along the docks here during the first part of 1933.

Collector of Customs C. O. Dunbar revealed imports of raw silk during June were 200 per cent greater than for the corresponding 1932 period. Shipping men report scheduled heavy autumn bookings, indicating buyers are confident that returned prosperity will enable Miss and Mrs. America to overlook the habit of mending stockings runs.

On the lawn of his home he built a small house separated into various apartments and containing doors and windows. He put the rabbits on the ground floor, the cats on the second, and the guinea pigs on the third.

Heaven?

'When Dollar Goes to Hell,' New Line.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—National issues are as a rule pretty heavy stuff for musical comedies. But one of the heaviest of them, inflation, inspires a series of appreciated gag-lines in one of this fall's most ambitious productions. In a revue of current affairs just opening in Philadelphia the Goddess of Liberty chants to an astonished array of foreign diplomats that "America will be in Heaven when the dollar goes to hell!"

This same revue sets another precedent for the American theater—ridicule of an American President. Herbert Hoover and Mrs. Hoover are the target for satire, with Ogden Mills, Andrew Mellon, Henry L. Stimson and Dolly Gann figuring in it.

The President and Mrs. Hoover are shown preparing to leave the White House on the day before inauguration. Mrs. Hoover argues in favor of taking some souvenirs from the White House.

"We'll never be back here again," she says plaintively, and the audiences in conservative Philadelphia, that gave Hoover one of his few majorities in the November election, cheered.

Drug Is Applied as Traps Fail to

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Sept. 30.—Rat traps, spring traps and box contrivances failed to capture a small weasel that entered a drug store here, taking refuge under a showcase.

Finally, the proprietor saturated a cloth with chloroform, shoved it under the case, and the animal was withdrawn unconscious a few minutes later. He recovered in a wire cage and appeared none the worse for the anesthetic.

MRS. TALMADGE, MOTHER OF 3 STARS, IS DEAD

Woman Who Led Norma, Constance and Natalie to Fame Is Taken.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 30.—Mrs. Margaret (Peg) Talmadge, who guided three daughters to motion picture fame, died in Hollywood hospital of pneumonia.

The mother of Norma, Constance and Natalie Talmadge was stricken last week at her Santa Monica beach home.

Her three daughters were at her bedside. Norma, estranged wife of Joseph Schenck, motion picture producer, arrived Wednesday by plane from the east. Constance, likewise, cut short a Chicago visit to rush to her mother's side.

Mrs. Talmadge, while never a professional herself, played a large part in the screen success of her daughters. She started them in motion pictures, Norma in 1914, and Constance and Natalie a year later. From the outset of their careers, she refused to be separated from them.

Natalie, the third daughter, is known to screen fans as the former wife of Buster Keaton, the comedian. Constance is married to Townsend Natcher of Chicago.

Mrs. Talmadge was a former resident of Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Brooklyn.

FILM COMPANY USES SHIP RICH IN HISTORY

Log of Nanuk Includes Voyages in North and Hospital Service.

SEATTLE, Sept. 30.—After years of fighting storms in the Alaskan waters, breaking through treacherous ice floes to carry food to starving Eskimos and acting as a hospital ship, the Nanuk, former Siberian trading vessel, has turned Hollywood.

She made her first movie bow in the far-north thriller "The Eskimo," and now will sail for Los Angeles where she will be made ready for the filming of the picture "Treasure Island." The Nanuk was brought by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

The veteran vessel is commanded by Captain E. Prestud, who was with Amundsen in the exploration ship Fram in 1910, when she cruised to the Antarctic and in 1911 made her way to Buenos Aires and Argentina.

The vessel will be re-rigged to resemble one of the seventeenth century. The winter will be spent filming "Treasure Island" and in the spring the Nanuk will be re-rigged to resemble herself. She will then head north to film the sequel to "The Eskimo."

FORESTRY CORPS BRING TREE PLANTING GAIN

Nearly Three Times as Many Will Be Placed in Season.

MISSOULA, Mont., Sept. 30.—The U. S. forest service will plant nearly three times as many young trees in 1933-34 as under its normal program, thank to the CCC workers and funds.

Ordinarily, some 6,000,000 trees would be set out in the period, but the service now contemplates planting 18,000,000—trees. Three million have been planted, and 6,000,000 now await planting.

CITY TO LAUNCH 'PICK UP' DRIVE ON STRAY DOGS

Campaign to reduce the number of stray dogs, without city tags, running over lawns and through streets, was started today as result of numerous complaints.

The action was taken following a conference between Captain Otto Ray, city license officer, and Dr. Elizabeth Conger, dog pound superintendent.

Police have received many complaints about stray dogs, and a number of persons have been bitten by dogs in the last few weeks.

The number of dog licenses issued this year is less than half the number issued last year, Captain Ray said.

From twenty-five to fifty dogs a day are being destroyed at the pound, Dr. Conger said.

EMPLOYEES MAY VOTE ON UNIONS BY NEXT WEEK

Collective Bargaining to Be Settled by Poll of Workers.

Elections in several city mills and factories to determine the attitude of thousands of employees on representation by a company union or an outside labor group for collective bargaining may be held next week.

Following an announcement made several weeks ago by J. W. Dewey, national labor representative of NRA, plans for elections in several Indianapolis mills and factories have been completed. Dewey, who made a preliminary inspection of industry in Indianapolis recently, is expected to arrive here from Washington Monday.

Stricken with an attack of bronchitis on his last visit to this city three weeks ago, Dewey was forced to return to Washington before finishing his work in Evansville, where he had been asked to attempt an adjustment of labor conditions.

Dewey Calls Elections

In an exclusive statement to The Times on his last visit, Dewey said he would be forced to call elections in several Indianapolis plants due to the divergent opinions as to whether employees wanted company unions or wished to be organized by outside labor groups.

Mr. Dewey, at that time, stated that NRA leaves the matter of representation for collective bargaining entirely in the hands of the majority of workers in a concern.

A mass meeting of employees of six Indianapolis plants has been called for Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. in Tomlinson Hall, according to an announcement today by Fred Galloway, state representative and labor organizer.

Give Ballot Instructions

Mr. Galloway stated that the meeting will be closed and will be held for the purpose of instructing employees in the use of the ballot and other instructions for the forthcoming elections to be held under auspices of Mr. Dewey and other NRA officials.

According to Galloway, employees of the Real Silk Hosiery Mills, the American Hosiery Mills Inc., the National Hosiery Mills, the P. R. Mallory Company, the United States Rubber Company and the Link Belt Company have been invited to attend the meeting.

Mr. Dewey already had an election at the P. R. Mallory Company plant for Tuesday.

If Telephone Service were sold by the yard

IT WOULD BE an easy matter to make comparisons as to the values built into each yard of telephone service, if you bought it that way.

But telephone service is a service; and must be measured by the steps it saves; by the contacts it makes; and by the convenient, ever-ready helpfulness it extends to you twenty-four hours a day.

In business, as well as in the home, use your telephone!
