

POLLUTION TO BE DISCUSSED AT CONVENTION

American Health Association to Meet Here Oct. 9 to 12.

Stream pollution and its problems, particularly regarding public health, will be discussed by prominent authorities of the nation at the sixty-second annual convention of the American Health Association at the Lincoln Oct. 9 to 12, inclusive.

Several sessions will be held for discussions in modern means of eliminating hazards of swimming pools and bathing beaches. Dr. James A. Newlands, Hartford, Conn., will present a report on "Water Pollution Studies."

A joint session of the public health engineering section and the Central States Sewage Works Association will be held at the Claypool Thursday, Oct. 13, at which C. K. Calvert of Indianapolis will preside.

L. A. Guepel of Indianapolis, chief engineer of the sanitary department of the Indiana state board of health, will lead a discussion on the "Sanitary Works of Indianapolis."

DIES AFTER ATTENDING FUNERAL RITES HERE

Former Resident Succumbs on Bus En Route to Florida.

Thomas Cohen, former Indianapolis resident, died yesterday on a bus at Somerset, Ky., while en route to his home in Miami, Fla., after attending funeral services a week ago for a brother-in-law, Hyman Cohen, 1247 Carrollton avenue. Relatives here have not been advised of the cause of death.

The body will be returned here for funeral services and burial. Services probably will be held today or Wednesday, but arrangements have not been completed.

FORMER CHIEF OF LINK-BELT BOARD IS DEAD

Charles Piez Succumbs in Washington, Company Officials Learn.

Charles Piez, 67, former chairman of the board of the Link-Belt company, died yesterday in Washington, according to word received in Indianapolis by officials of the local plant. Death was the result of an attack of pneumonia.

Mr. Piez, with Charles M. Schwab, directed the war-time work of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. He was a personal friend of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and his last official appearance in Washington was as a dinner guest of the President.

He was past president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and served twice as president of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association. He was selected in 1917 by Edward N. Hurley, then chairman of the United States shipping board, as vice-president and general manager of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, to carry on the nation's shipbuilding program. He later succeeded Mr. Schwab as director-general. In 1919, he resigned to take up his former business. He was president of the Link-Belt Company until 1924, when he became chairman of the board, and held this position until February, 1932.

Mr. Piez was a member of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers, Western Society of Engineers and Engineers' Society of North-eastern Pennsylvania.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Laura Sader Piez, formerly of Laurel, Md.; his sister, Ernestine Piez, of New York; five nephews, Karl and Vernon Piez of Boston, Casper Piez of Collingswood, N. J.; Richard Piez of Berkeley, Cal., and

RESTAURANT GROUPS DEFER PRICE TALK

Indiana Members Ask to Work on Permanent Code.

All discussion of price cutting among restaurant owners was deferred yesterday at a joint meeting of the Indiana State Restaurant Association and the Restaurant Association of Indianapolis at a meeting in the Hotel Severin.

Restaurant owners who are members of the associations consider the price-cutting practice a menace to observance of the NRA in the business, and the Indiana members have asked permission to operate under the permanent restaurant code, which is pending in Washington and which is said to settle the price question.

J. F. O'Mahoney of Indianapolis, vice-president of the state association, presided at the joint meeting.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO PLAY CHAMPIONSHIP BRIDGE!

● ABOVE—REAL CONCENTRATION AT BRIDGE is impossible, according to Mr. Barclay, if your nerves are jumpy. "I prefer Camels because of their flavor, and because I can smoke as many as I want without jangled nerves."

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

On the importance of healthy nerves to a bridge player, Shepard Barclay, the "authority on bridge authorities," has this to say:

"Every bridge player can and should learn every system of contract bridge...but it takes real concentration to play a different system with every partner. That kind of concentration naturally involves terrific nerve strain. Personally, I find smoking a decided help to concentration. I prefer Camels...I can smoke them steadily without experiencing jangled nerves...they're always mild!"

Steady smoking brings out what a cigarette's really got. Smoke Camels yourself. Make your own comparisons. Your own experience will confirm all that Mr. Barclay says. Camels are milder. And they never get on your nerves.

● ABOVE—SHEPARD BARCLAY, who in two months won twenty tournaments with twenty brand-new partners, smokes steadily while playing.

● LEFT—"THERE ARE TWO KINDS of bridge players—those who smoke while they play bridge—and those who play bridge while they smoke," Mr. Barclay says. Well—both kinds have a good time! Play either way, and smoke Camels—for more pleasure, for the sake of your nerves—and your bridge!

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. Leaf tobaccos for cigarettes can be bought from 5¢ a pound to $1—but Camel pays the millions more that insure your enjoyment.
