REAL SILK'S UNION UPHELD BY 2-1 VOTE

Government Satisfied, Says NRA Labor Chief After Election.

3,083 WORKERS BALLOT

Three More Plants Here to Be Scenes of Similar Events, Says Dewey.

Three more elections in Indianapolis plants may be held next week, according to J. F. Dewey, national NRA labor representative who announced that the government was satisfied with the election yesterday when more than 3,000 Real Silk employees voted 2 to 1 to retain their company union.

Dewey announced that he will leave for Washington today and may return before the end of the week. He said that he would not announce the names of the firms in which elections may be held, until his investigation is completed. Dewey personally will supervise any elections which may be held.

Vote is 2 to 1

The overwhelming vote of Real Silk employees to retain their company union, the Employees Mutual Benefit Association, surprised labor leaders in Indianapolis who expected employees of the company to follow the example of the P. R. Mallory & Co. employees, who voted Tuesday to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor.

The vote at Real Silk was 2,016 for retention of the company union to 1,054 for affiliation with the Full-Fashioned Hosiery Workers Union. Of the 3,083 employees who voted, 200 office workers favored the company union, and 30 the A. F. of L. Seventy-eight former voters for the E. M. B. A. and five for the outside union.

Statements were signed by both union officials and officials of the company organization that the election was fair. These statements were turned over to the NRA officials holding the election.

Leeke Gives Statement

Charles E. Leeke, president of the E. M. B. A., said: "I am gratified at the result of the election, as it proves decisively that the majority of our employees are satisfied that the E. M. B. A. is their true representative."

"In accordance with the result of this election, our employees' association is the recognized spokesman of all our employees during the life of the NRA. The election was held to determine the type of representation our employees wanted for purposes of collective bargaining, and the feeling is indicated by the vote."

Receiver Lawyer Ordered to Attend Hearing.

Thomas E. Garvin, receiver of the defunct Meyer-Kiser bank, and Frank B. Ross, local attorney, have been ordered to Miami, Fla., by Circuit Judge Earl R. Cox to take part in litigation there on affairs of the local bank.

According to a petition filed by Mr. Garvin, a hearing will be held in Dade county Saturday to name trustees for the Puritan Investment Company, of which the Meyer-Kiser bank owns $421,500 first mortgage bonds.

Garvin said Ferd S. Meyer, former bank official, refused to resign as trustee and as a result to start a business associate named in his place.

$480 DIAMOND PIN IS STOLEN

Two Young Men Sought by Police in Robbery at Local Club.

Theft of a diamond-set platinum bar pin, valued at $480, from the Little Knickerbocker club, 971 North Delaware street, was reported to police last night by the club hostess, Mrs. Kay Coffin, who said five pairs of silk hose also are missing. Mrs. Coffin believes that two unidentified young men who were at the club during a bridge party took the articles. She said they acted suspiciously and when she questioned them after they had been upstairs, one said: "We thought we were in the Legion headquarters."

Appeal Is Filed on 1934 Tax Levies for County

Score of Names Accompany Petition Presented to Auditor.

The expected appeal of tax reduction groups from the 1934 budgets approved last week by the county tax adjustment board was filed today with County Auditor Charles A. Grossart.

More than a score of names, headed by the signature of Harry Messie, secretary of the Indiana Taxpayers Association, appeared on the appeal petition.

According to law, the appeal must be certified to the state tax board by the county auditor within five days. All appeals must be on file by tomorrow.

The appeal filed today attacks the proposed rates for Marion county, the city of Indianapolis, the school city and Center township and school districts.

Mr. Messie announced several days ago that rates for the other eight townships in the county will be appealed. The Indianapolis Real Estate Board also is expected to appeal.

LEGION VOTES TO OPEN WAR ON CRIMINALS

Drive Against Communism Also Is Launched at Convention.

CHIEF TO BE NAMED

Illinois Man Favorite to Be Elected as New Commander.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—The American Legion today launched a strong campaign against communism and crime.

The legion's 1933 convention asked even stricter punishment for all agitators advocating overthrow of the government. It approved a vigorous resolution condemning recognition of Russia and extension of credit to that nation.

Efforts of supporters of the Hitler regime in Germany to organize a similar movement in the United States were sharply disapproved.

The legion also voted to restrict immigration sharply—suggesting a reduction to 10 per cent of the quotas allowed under the 1924 law. Alien communists and any person subscribing to revolutionary beliefs would be barred.

The legion voted itself opposed to war debt cancellation or reduction and to enter into the League of Nations or the World Court.

Far in front in the race for national commander was Edward A. Hayes, Decatur, Ill., attorney and vice-chairman of the legion's rehabilitation committee.

Closest to him, but granted only an outside chance to win, was George Malone, Reno, Nev. Admitted darkhorse candidates were Ray Murphy, Iowa, and Sam Reynolds, Omaha, Neb.

Smothered in committee were proposals for repeal of the national economy act, payment of the bonus, discharge of General Frank T. Hines, veteran administrator, and several other suggestions involving possible firework.

Possibility remained that some of these questions might find a hearing on the floor, but the strong forces supporting the administration program appeared to preclude chances that such a move would succeed.

Fair Enough And State Exhibit Board Is Back in Statehouse.

THE "heat" put on the state board last spring by Governor Paul V. McNutt wasn't enough to offset the chill of autumn.

Upon demand of the Governor the board last spring moved from the statehouse to the state fairground. But its quarters, far removed from the capital, lacked sufficient heat.

Today, E. J. Barker, board secretary, and his staff are back at the statehouse, with quarters in the senate chamber. Wall board partitions have been set up to separate the fair board from the barbers' examining board and other units.

The move was made in the absence of Mr. McNutt, but was sanctioned by Mr. Clifford Townsend, Lieutenant Governor, and state agricultural commissioner.

YOUR TURN, PAUL! Or, Maybe, It's for Pleas to Say

THE public controversy between Indiana's Governor and the Michigan City prison break reached the third round today.

Self-constituted referees say the "ex" is far out in front on points and can go the rest of the way under the rules.

When former Governor Harry G. Leslie voiced to friends at South Bend, the night before the prison break, the belief that such an event was likely to occur, Governor Paul V. McNutt took up the issue.

"If Mr. Leslie had reason to believe a prison break would occur, it was his duty as a good citizen to speak up," Governor McNutt was quoted as saying.

"Well," said Mr. Leslie today, the noted Leslie grin creasing his countenance, "I would have told the Governor about it, but I was afraid Pleasant Greenlee wouldn't let me in the statehouse."

Mr. Greenlee is the Governor's secretary in charge of patronage and performs the onerous duties of keeping unwelcome visitors from taking up Governor McNutt's time.

Mother of Twelve Dies Under Wheels of Train After Marital Quarrel

Barn-Storming Tip Given Cop in Convict Hunt Proves 'Bum.'

POLICE today went on a "wild goose" chase following a report that two men believed escaped prison convicts were seen near the Municipal airport.

A man came to police headquarters today and said that the men were making their headquarters in an old barn. Accompanying the informant, a squad of detectives followed the "suspect" to a house on the corner of the neighborhood.

Police have no record of an abandoned car with Michigan license plates, which caused a "wild goose" chase to Speedway City.

Obtained Court Order

Mrs. Patterson obtained the court order on complaint that her husband drank heavily, would absent himself from home for weeks at a time, and that while he had earned good money, it had been of little benefit to his family. He charged that once she attempted to attack him with a butcher knife. She denied, court records show.

The husband was ordered to give his weekly pay check to his wife, and she was to provide him $2.50 weekly for his personal use.

Gene, 16-year-old daughter, arose early today to replenish a fire in a stove. Her mother was missing. She called her father and he sent some of the older children to seek her.

Walked on Railway

It was the fate of the son William to find the mangled body.

The husband expressed a belief that Mrs. Patterson was killed accidentally while on her way to the home of a daughter, Mrs. Helen Neal, 2156 North De Quincy street.

He explained that in going to Mrs. Neal's home the family walked on either the railroad or tracks of an interurban line.

Besides William, Gene and Mrs. Neal, the latter 28, and oldest of the children, herself the mother of four. Mrs. Patterson leaves Glenn, 25; Mrs. Florence Lane, 23, of 2618 North Temple avenue, mother of two children; Harold, 18; John, 14; Katherine, 12; Robert, 10; Charles, 7; Phyllis, 4, and Rita, 3.

VIOLENCE FLARES IN STEEL PLANT STRIKE

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5.—Stoning and other violence invaded the steel strike in two widely separated sections of western Pennsylvania today as pickets continued their vigil at steel plants demanding union recognition.

Close to 700 pickets including women, gathered at the Carnegie Steel Company's plants at Clairton. Stones were hurled at every automobile and truck entering the gates. State police could make no arrests. They were unable to locate the throwers in the darkness.

CITY MARKET LIKELY TO END YEAR IN 'RED'

Taxpayers Will Be Forced to Make Up Losses for Season.

BY AL LYNCH Times Staff Writer

Rent delinquencies on city market stands and the costly operation of Tomlinson hall are cited by persons who have studied the 1933 city budget for possibilities of effecting economy.

More than one-third of the 635 market stands are delinquent and the average annual stand rental is $30. Safety board members admit the city market probably will produce a "substantial loss" this year.

Budget observers seeking economy possibilities point out that the city's business should be conducted like the affairs of any well managed, privately-operated business where nonrevenue producing departments are put on a paying basis or abolished.

Hall Upkeep Is $10,500

With an anticipated $3,000 loss in stand rentals faced, it is pointed out that ill feeling exists in the market management and that several thousands of dollars have been spent in litigation.

In this year's budget, $22,321.24 has been set aside for market house maintenance. This figure includes refrigeration, salaries—and all other expense, but does not include the upkeep of Tomlinson hall.

Upkeep for the latter is lumped in a $37,267.40 budget provision for public buildings, of which $10,500 "is believed" by works board employees to be spent on Tomlinson hall.

Tomlinson hall produced a total revenue of $250 last year, according to the city controller's report.

Thus, it is pointed out, the city faces an approximate loss of $13,000 in the operation of the market house and hall.

An additional loss of $11,859.50 was sustained by the city when the safety board removed outside stands at the market on the theory that they would be moved inside.

Sticker Fees Fewer

This hope was not realized, however, as the stands moved across the street to a privately-owned market, which is showing a profit.

Study of the city controller's report reveals some data on the city's loss from miscellaneous receipts and the thirty-nine special licenses issued by the office.

From the first of the year to Sept. 30, the special license receipts reveal a $19,902.84 loss over last year's same date figure of $151,441.84.

Comparison of the miscellaneous receipts figured on the same date basis shows an $18,792.45 loss from $112,140.87.

Among the latter losses are $2,063 from traffic sticker fees and $3,122 loss from abolition of the city's traffic tow-in. City court fines and fees dropped from $5,775 to $1,951.

One of the outstanding losses shown by the controller's figures is on taximeter inspection. No receipts have been collected this year as against last year's figure of $7,373.35.

William L. Veeck, Chief of Chicago Cubs, Is Dead

Famed Baseball Man Is Taken After Fight Against Influenza.

By United Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—William L. Veeck, 56, president of the Chicago Cubs and one-time baseball writer, died shortly before 8 a. m. today of influenza complications.

Mr. Veeck had been president of the Chicago baseball club for twelve years. He took over the leadership of the club at the request of the late William Wrigley Jr., then owner of the Cubs. He was one of the best known figures in baseball.

For ten days Mr. Veeck's condition had been critical. Desperate efforts were made to save his life, but he died after oxygen had been resorted to to aid his breathing.

Under Mr. Veeck, the Cubs were piloted to two National League pennants and during almost the entire time were contenders for the championship.

The last act of the Cubs' president before being stricken with the influenza attack which led to his death was to sign a new contract with Charley Grimm, Cubs' manager in the past year, to manage the team during 1934.

Mr. Veeck was born in Boonville, Ind. As a youth he started in newspaper work in Louisville, Ky., where he wrote sports for the Louisville Courier-Journal. Later he came to Chicago and wrote for the American under the name of "Bill Bailey."

At his bedside at the time of his death were his wife Grace, his daughter, Mary M. Veeck; his son, William Jr., and John O. Seyes, vice-president of the Cubs.

WORST AHEAD, SAYS PRESIDENT

Catholic Conference Hears Plea for Renewal of Courage.

By United Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The hardest part of the fight for national recovery is ahead, but the courage of the American people will bring complete victory, President Franklin D. Roosevelt told the closing session of the National Conference of Catholic Charities last night.

The chief executive warned that "it is for us to redouble our efforts, to care for those who still must depend upon relief, to prevent the disintegration of home life, and to stand by the victims of the depression until it definitely is past."

Credit for what already has been accomplished must be given to the people of the country because of their warm-hearted response, rather than to the administration's leadership, he said.

"Not for a moment have I doubted that we would climb out of the valley of gloom," Mr. Roosevelt told the 3,000 conference delegates. "Always have I been certain that we would conquer, because the spirit of America always springs from faith—faith in the beloved institutions of our land, and a true and abiding faith in the divine guidance of God."

Bandit Makes Sure Victim Will Not Feel Loss.

By United Press

A CONSIDERATE bandit, who first asked Robert Aichorn, attendant at the Lubrite Oil Company filling station at Madison and Troy avenues, whether he would have to make good the money, took $15 at the point of a gun last night when Aichorn said the money was insured.

Following Aichorn's glum confession that he would not have to make the money good, the six-foot bandit forced him to drive his car west on Troy avenue and robbed him of the money before putting him out of the car at Pennsylvania street.

The bandit is believed to be the same man who stole a revolver from a filling station attendant at 446 White River boulevard Sunday.

FITZSIMMONS IS HURLER

Opposes Earl Whitehill as World Title Games Are Resumed.

By United Press

GRIFFITH STADIUM, WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Under cloudy skies which drizzled rain in starts, the New York Giants and the Washington Senators resumed world series championship play here this afternoon.

President Roosevelt arrived at 1:33. He was driven directly into the ball park. Before stepping from his automobile, he shook hands with Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis and Clark Griffith, owner of the Senators. The ball players stood at attention, holding their caps over their hearts. The band played "Hail to the Chief" and followed with "The Star-Spangled Banner."

The American flag was run up back of center field.

Senators Are Favorites

Despite successive defeats in the two games played in New York, the Senators were favored to capture today's third contest, although the Giants were heavy betting favorites on the series as a whole.

Partly because of the unfavorable weather and probably because of the unhappy start made by the home club only a relatively small crowd was on hand as game time neared. It seemed likely that about 5,000 of the 34,000 seats would remain vacant.

Fat Fred Fitzsimmons, Giants right-handed pitcher, and Earl Whitehill, one of the Senators' aces, warmed up in front of the dugouts at all of the Washington players gathered around the President, begging him to favor them when he threw out the first ball.

Manush Catches Throw

The President made a stout peg and Heinie Manush leaped high, making a perfect catch. The crowd cheered wildly.

The umpires held a conference at home plate in which Manager Bill Terry and Joe Cronin joined.

Fitzsimmons and Manush for the Giants and Whitehill and Sewell for the Senators were officially announced as the batteries.

First Inning

GIANTS—With the count two and two, Moore sent a high foul fly which Goslin speared near the stands. Critz grounded out, Bluege struck out. The Senators were showing much more pep and dash than they did in New York. Bill Terry also grounded out, Myer to Kuhel. NO RUNS. NO HITS. NO ERRORS.
