1 Dead, 29 Hurt in New Steel Strike Outbreak

By United Press

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 6.—New threats of violence hovered over the western Pennsylvania steel and coal sections today. Authorities were determined to break the steel strike at Ambridge where one man was killed and twenty-nine injured in fighting among pickets and deputy sheriffs yesterday.

Fifty thousand coal miners remained on strike, refusing to return to work and tying up a large section of the industry. At Clairton, up the Monongahela river from Pittsburgh, pickets held a close vigil over the plant of the Carnegie Steel Company.

The situation was tense over a wide area.

Adam Pitrusaka, 50, a bystander, was slain. Nine men received bullet wounds. More than a score were beaten and eleven picket leaders were clamped in jail.

The Ambridge and Clairton strikers both were demanding recognition of their unions.

UTILITY VALUE SLOWS HEARING

1929 Appraisal Demanded of Firm by Service Commission.

Fight to get a 1929 appraisal of Insull properties that were merged to form the Public Service Company of Indiana and price paid for the common stock was continued at the public service commission rate hearing today.

Company attorneys are demanding a $50,000,000 property valuation, as opposed to the $40,000,000 claimed by Sherman Minton, public counselor, who launched the rate reduction case.

At the hearing yesterday they declined to produce an appraisal of the properties made in 1929 by Stone and Webster, industrial engineers.

Commissioners asked that this be presented today.

These figures will be used to oppose the book values of the company upon which the $50,000,000 figure is based. The book value method of providing a rate base was attacked vigorously by Chairman

Perry McCart of the commission.

He contended that book values

now bear no real relation to the replacement new costs, which the utilities for years have built up as a rate base through court decisions.
