

GARDEN EXHIBIT AT SCHOOL 72 LAUDED HIGHLY

Planting Movement Started
Four Years Ago to Help
35 Families.

Pupils, parents and teachers unite in terming the annual garden exhibit of School 72, which last week culminated the year's gardening efforts of both school and community, as the most successful in the history of the event both in the quality of the products and in the originality of the exhibits displayed.

Those who displayed the results included not only pupils, and patrons of the school's gardening projects, but also other gardeners of the district. The exhibits covered a wide range since everything that demonstrated interest and success in gardening was displayed.

Each room of the school had its own table in the general exhibition on which were shown vegetables, flowers, canned goods, and other products of the particular room. It was required that each individual exhibit be plainly labeled in order that their might be no confusion about by whom it was displayed.

Originality Is Shown

Besides the room tables, pupils were encouraged to show originality and offer their own individual exhibits. Among the most interesting were a spread lunch table with samples of five appetizing dishes made from potatoes by Berdine Rudel; a table laid for four by Loren Hartman and Pauline Waldkötter bearing the caption "Four Appetizing Salads"; a miniature house with well-kept grounds and a hedge fashioned from corks by Kenneth Johnson, and a vegetable exhibit worked out in the letters NRA by Daniel Summers.

Mildred Pfister, a pupil of the school, told the story of the thirty-three pole beans given her at school last spring, which produced four meals for her family, four quart jars of beans for canning, and still gave 150 seed beans for next year's planting.

Varied Types Exhibited

Several exhibits varied from the general type. An interesting table contained salads and vegetable plates made up with regard to appearance as well as food value. A table labeled "Products From Our Kitchens" held jellies, canned tomatoes and fruit, in addition to a tempting display of a dozen different types of vegetable salads prepared by the girls of Class 7B in their day's cooking class.

Other interesting exhibits were a "Little Dutch Garden," worked out in connection with a geography and music; a table bearing specimens from the community gardens of the school; and a stage showing by the 8A class of a home beautified by vegetable, flower and rock garden.

The exhibit this year marks the attainment of four years' stimulation of interest in gardening. The movement began in a small way by the attempts of teachers to interest pupils in home gardening as a wholesome activity. During this period of widespread financial difficulty it was felt that the garden might be one means of helping relieve the burden in many homes.

Encourages Gardening

In addition to encouraging gardening throughout the district, the school planned for community gardens on a tract of ground adjoining the school which belongs to the school board.

Under the supervision of the principal, Miss Ida Helphinstine, her teachers, and a custodian, the movement was organized, ground plotted, and gardens allotted to thirty-five families. The project was given impetus by connecting it with the bi-centennial celebration, and the gardens were dedicated with ceremony as the Washington Bicentennial Gardens of School 72. Heads of families were made responsible for the gardens, but many pupils worked in them under the direction of their parents and took a just pride in the results of their efforts.

According to Miss Helphinstine, teachers, and parents, the greatest value of this undertaking lies not in the fact that it has increased the food supply of nearby families, but because it has proved of greatest interest and educational value to the children, and has promoted a spirit of goodwill and sympathetic understanding in the school community.

Last summer seventy-four families gardened seventeen and one-half acres, thirty-five of them raising all the vegetables they needed for the summer.

GARDEN DISPLAY AT SCHOOL 72 IS GIVEN HIGH PRAISE

Betty Fields, 10; George Weber, 13, and Jimmy Wanglin, 10, are shown with some of their products before one of the many exhibits at the annual garden display of School 72.

R. O. T. C. Cadets Will Camp at Mounds Park

Shortridge and Washington
Corps Will Have 4-Day Outing.

Fifty R. O. T. C. cadets from Shortridge and Washington high schools will camp jointly at the Mounds estate park at Anderson, Ind., Oct. 19 to 22. The trip will be under the supervision of First Sergeant Gustave Wolff, Washington R. O. T. C. instructor, and Sergeant Melton Rhine, Shortridge R. O. T. C. instructor.

In addition to directing the trip, the two instructors will prepare all meals, which will be served in army mess kits. Each cadet will share in kitchen police and guard duty.

Each day's routine will be as follows: Reveille, fifteen minutes setting up exercises, breakfast, general policing of camp, and one hour of close order drill. The remainder of the day will be spent in hiking through the park. Taps will be played at 10:30.

On Wednesday, Oct. 18, an advance detail of six men, three from each of the two schools, will go to the park to establish the camp. The outing will be concluded with a dinner Sunday, to which the parents of the cadets are invited. This is the second camp which the two schools have engaged in as one group.

INDIAN-STUDY MADE BY SCHOOL 48 PUPILS

Costumed Dolls Interesting to Children.

The children of 1A and 2B classes at School 48 at 1356 Reiser street, have been making a study of American Indians, under the direction of Miss Frances Hellman.

Indian exhibits were obtained from the Indianapolis school office and from the Children's museum. Among the displays, the pupils were intrigued by two dolls, a chief and his squaw with her papoose, both dressed in true Indian costume. The exhibits also contained pottery, pictures, arrow heads and a small canoe.

Many of the Indian symbols are being studied both as to design and meaning. Discussions of Indian warfare, costumes, beads, moccasins, leggings, fire-making, paposes, medicine-men, and Indian food and cooking have led to many original stories and poems by the pupils.

Wayne Hash and Eugene Jennings brought in an Indian head dress and a bow and arrow, respectively, for display.

Why the World is returning to liquid laxatives

CONTROLLED ACTION, EXACT DOSAGE, NO BOWEL STRAIN

If you have ever been a patient in any hospital, you are probably familiar with the advantages of a liquid laxative.

Doctors know the value of the laxative whose dose can always be measured, and whose action can be controlled.

The public, too, is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that a properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied with the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it.

Can Constipation be Overcome?

"Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say thousands who have followed this sensible medical advice: 1. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Take the dose you find suited to your system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving regularly without aid.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is one of the approved preparations.

and the most widely used of any liquid laxative. It usually has the bowels as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time. Why not try it? Some pill or tablet may be more convenient to carry. But there is no "convenience" in any cathartic taken so frequently that you must carry it wherever you go!

In buying any laxative, read the label. If it contains one doubtful drug, don't take it. If you don't know anything about a preparation, ask some doctor about it.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescriptional preparation with nothing to conceal. Its ingredients are stated on the label. By using it, you may avoid that constant worry about the bowels.

Parents:

The fact that a gentle liquid laxative does not cause bowel strain to the most delicate system and cannot irritate the kidneys is of the utmost importance to expectant mothers and to every child.

All mothers are urged to try the gentle regulation of the bowels with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. A delightful tasting laxative of delightful action, made of fresh
