

BANDIT GANG SLUGS TWO IN $65 STICKUP

Trader's Point Tavern Is Invaded by Mob of Five Gunmen.

Five noisy, cursing bandits, fired one shot and slugged two men early today in a holdup of the Old Church Tavern, a barbecue and beer stand at Trader's Point, and escaped with between $65 and $75.

A shot was fired at the feet of Elmer Glidewell, one of the proprietors, because he was slow in opening a safe. He also was struck twice on the head with the butt of a revolver.

Stanley Harding, 29, night attendant of a filling station operated in connection with the place, also was struck with a revolver.

Glidewell, his father, Grant Glidewell, 70, and Harding, were alone on the first floor when the bandits arrived. Upstairs, a partner of the younger Glidewell, Ed Rosemeyer, Mrs. Rosemeyer and Miss Alma Marshall were sleeping.

Three Enter Tavern

Three men entered, leaving two companions in an automobile at the gasoline pump.

A large man, apparently the leader of the gang, remarked to the younger Glidewell:

"We can get beer here, can't we?"

Told that beer was sold, the man inquired:

"Anything stronger?"

"No, we handle nothing but beer," Glidewell replied.

"Is that so? I'll just take a look," the man said, as he walked around the end of the bar and drew a large revolver.

Forced to Open Register

Glidewell was compelled to open the cash register. In the meantime, the two men left in the automobile in the tank of which Harding placed eight gallons of gasoline, were engaging him in a conversation.

"Where's the other fellow?" one of the men asked, apparently referring to Rosemeyer.

"He's upstairs asleep," Harding replied.

"Let him stick his head out and I'll pop him," the bandit replied, shoving a revolver against Harding's side and compelling him to go inside.

Telephone Is Torn Down

The elder Glidewell and Harding were forced to go into the kitchen and stand with their faces to the wall, while Elmer Glidewell was taken into a small room and forced to open the safe. A telephone was torn down.

Awakened by the curses of the robbers, Rosemeyer reached the lower floor just as they were leaving, and arming himself with a shotgun gave chase in his automobile. He lost the trail at Thirtieth street and Road 52, as the robbers continued driving into Indianapolis.

The bandits appeared familiar with the place, and arrived shortly after seven truck drivers had left after having lunch.

U. S. Supports Claim Winters Grow Milder

Rising Average Temperature Indicated in Study of Records.

By Science Service
WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Maybe Grandpa was right, after all, about winters being so much colder and longer when he was a boy. Recent statistical studies by J. B. Kincer of the United States weather bureau lend support to the claim that winters have been growing milder during the last fifty or sixty years. Spring and fall weather also has averaged warmer during the same time.

"When we examine the winter temperature data for Washington, for example," said Mr. Kincer, "it is found that for the last twenty-one winters, eighteen have been warmer than normal; that every one of the last thirteen have been mild, and that the warmest winter of record, going back considerably more than a century, was that of 1831-32. This is in marked contrast with 'grand-day's day,' say, for the nineteen winters from that of 1854-55 to 1872-73, fourteen of which were colder than normal, with 1855-56 the coldest in more than one hundred years."

The record for New Haven, Conn., may be cited as another example. Here every one of the last ten winters have averaged warmer than normal; also, eighteen of the last twenty-one, and thirty-three of the last forty-five. This record, by the way, goes back to near the close of the Revolutionary war. Farther west, we pick up, at random, the St. Louis record, which shows thirteen of the last fifteen winters with above normal temperature. These are typical of others over the central and northern portions of the United States east of the Rocky mountains."

In St. Paul, Minn., Mr. Kincer continued, more than 75 per cent of the fall seasons for the last forty-three years have been relatively warm, in contrast to the thirty-

ROOSEVELT IS AUTOCRAT, SAYS BRITISH OFFICER

Cabinet Member Expresses Doubt NRA Will Be Success.

By United Press
LONDON, Oct. 12.—Walter Runciman, member of the British cabinet, was revealed today as an open skeptic of the success of President Roosevelt's NRA program.

One of the greatest industrialists in England, Runciman, despite his official post, attacked the American NRA program in a speech at St. Ives, and called President Roosevelt "the greatest autocrat in the world."

Perhaps because he was speaking in his home constituency as a member of the house of commons, Runciman was very frank.

"President Roosevelt, the greatest autocrat in the world, has chosen to make a huge experiment," he continued. "It is conceivable that the experiment would be successful if the United States were a little world all its own."

"But it is also involved in foreign trade, in which it can not compete with the rest of the world."

Referring to the refusal of the United States to stabilize the dollar, he said:

"America could have made a considerable contribution to world financial confidence by stabilizing. I say without hesitation that before long United States authorities will be anxious to have the dollar as stable as the pound sterling."

C. C. C. WORKERS ARE 'STARS' AT MESS TABLE

Millions of Pounds of Food Are Consumed Over Nation.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Reports from the civilian conservation corps indicate that the boys are getting plenty to eat.

The huge bill of fare, including five and one half million pounds of beef, nine million eggs and one and one-fourth million pounds of bacon per month, has been a stimulant to trade in communities where the camps are located as well as in the wholesale markets.

The healthful out-of-door work required has built up the health of the men in the C. C. C. to such an extent that it has been estimated that twelve pounds per man, or about 3,600,000 pounds, have been put around the ribs of the workers.
