MOBSTERS PUT REST OF NEWS ON BACK PAGES

Mr. Dillinger and His Boys Keep the Limelight in Indiana.

BY TRISTRAM COFFIN

Times Staff Writer

Raids and rumors of the dreaded Dillinger gang scared other news into relative obscurity this week. Even President Roosevelt's far-reaching gold policy, France's political shakeup, air adventures of the Graf Zeppelin, and the Lindberghs' flight to Paris were dimmed for Indianapolis by alarming criminal news.

What might be called a hopeful sign for those who despair of law and order was the killing of a thief yesterday. Deaf to police commands, fugitive Gilbert Tuggle fled wildly through the streets, was shot to death by pursuing officers.

Indiana's escaped convicts continued to frolic through the state, giving citizens a good case of nervous hysteria. Worried state police scoured miles after mile hunting the phantom gang. Banks at Greencastle, South Bend, Fillmore and Modoc were raided. The only ones apparently enjoying the fun were the mobsters.

"Cherchez La Femme"

Meanwhile, local Scotland Yarders were working on the "cherchez la femme" theory. Federal agents, some of whom ran down "Machine-Gun" Kelly, were working carefully and secretly, thanks to efforts of The Times.

President Roosevelt's gold-buying order launched a system of controlled currency that aims to increase commodity prices. Economists joyfully hailed this measure as a vital step toward maintaining a variable dollar as a stabilizing factor against a fluctuating market.

Little show owners were protected by the President's retail code, which would also prevent the cut-throat practice of selling below invoice costs.

News Files to Life

Slumbering news files suddenly came to life as government agents arrested suspects in the Lindbergh kidnapping case. Tough-looking John Gorch, ex-wrestler, was held on a $50,000 bail.

Jovial Tugboat Dr. Hugo Eckener, pilot of his cigar-like Graf Zeppelin, safely and calmly into Akron, O., then to Chicago and promptly back to Akron.

Ex-soldier Albert Sarraut was chosen to form a new French cabinet after the Daladier cabinet thudded over budget questions. Deladier, who challenges Hitler, was retained as war minister.

Publicly-shunning Lindy made a return flight to Paris with his quiet, attractive wife. Joyfully greeted by Parisians, the flying couple fled to their hotel rooms where they made plans for returning to America.
