

HASTY LUNCHES HABIT TERMED HEALTH MENACE

Physician Urges Leisurely
Noon Meal as Aid to Afternoon Work.

By Science Service
NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—"The 'eat and run' meal may be as much of a menace as the 'hit and run' driver," declared Dr. Leverett Dale Bristol of this city.

He warned workers against this type of meal in his recently published book, Industrial Health Service.

Haste makes the daily luncheon of the average business girl or man at "eat and run" affairs of a hurried sandwich and a few gulps of coffee. Sandwiches are all right for lunch but Dr. Bristol recommended varying the usual "ham on white" with egg and lettuce on whole wheat or tomato and cheese on rye for the sake of the vitamins to be found in these other combinations.

He also suggested a cup of hot chocolate with whipped cream or a cream soup as a more nourishing luncheon drink than tea or coffee.

A better attitude toward the afternoon's work, better digestion and no need for a mid-afternoon snack will result, in Dr. Bristol's opinion, from a more leisurely luncheon eaten in pleasant surroundings while chatting with friends.

Moving in a Hurry

Uruguay's Varela, Dean of the Ministers, Sails for Home, Probably Never to Return.

By GEORGE ABELL
Times Special Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Silver-haired Minister Jacobo Varela, envoy from Uruguay and dean of ministers (he has been here since 1920), has left suddenly and unexpectedly for Montevideo—probably never to return to his post in Washington.

The abrupt departure of the veteran diplomat was almost unknown to official circles here. So hastily did Minister Varela leave that he had time only to call the State Department and several close friends at the Pan-American Union.

"Good-by. I am taking a train to New York and will sail tomorrow on the Northern Prince for Montevideo," was Varela's farewell message.

Some supposed that the envoy has been appointed a delegate to the seventh Pan-American conference at Montevideo, but they are mistaken. Varela's unheralded leave-taking was a purely personal move and did not concern any official action of his government. He has not been appointed a delegate to the conference, and goes to Montevideo without credentials of any kind.

THE truth is that Varela has been "indisposed" for some time, so far as his relations with his government are concerned.

An official protest by the Argentine foreign office over a remark attributed to the minister and widely published in Latin America, started the trouble. Since then, the mutual misunderstanding has increased rather than diminished.

The failure of his government to appoint him a delegate to the Montevideo conference was bitterly resented by the envoy.

If Varela does not return—as seems highly possible—Swiss Minister Marc Peter will automatically become dean of ministers.

Varela arrived in Washington on May 12, 1920, and Peter arrived on May 25, the same year. Both are affable, agreeable gentlemen, with literary tastes and an optimistic viewpoint.

Varela was always a conspicuous figure at diplomatic receptions in the White House, when, glittering in his blue-green uniform trimmed with gold lace, he led the procession of states.

LATIN AMERICAN diplomats are departing en masse for the Pan-American conference at Montevideo. Secretary of State Hull and most of the Americans aren't sailing until Nov. 11.

Dr. Leo Rowe, Pan-American Union director, packed his silk hat and morning coat and his straw hat—and seven other hats and suits, departing last night with a happy smile. He was described by one official diplomat as "an augury for the success of the conference."

Styles Suggested by U. S. Bureau Displayed in Ayres' Exhibit.

Clothing designed for easy making and easy laundering, as well as the kind in which it is easy for the child to dress himself, will be shown this week at L. S. Ayres. The clothing selected is being shown by the Shover Nursery School, in connection with the book and toy exhibit at Ayres, under the auspices of the American Association of University Women.

Freedom and comfort for the active child, encouragement to self-help, and the saving of the mother's time and energy all have been the objectives sought in the designs of the clothing displayed. These have been furnished by the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States agriculture department.

Most of the fabrics are cotton, although some are of washable wools. They are chosen for all-round practicability and include play suits, sun suits, and sun suit ensembles for boys and girls. Included also in the display are dresses for little girls, infants' wear and rompers for creeping babies.

These garments were designed by the staff of the division of textiles and clothing in the bureau of home economics at Washington. Four similar exhibits constantly are in circulation throughout the country.

While the bureau does not distribute patterns for the garments, several pattern manufacturers have adopted the suggested designs.

SUSPICIOUS ACTIONS CAUSE ARREST OF TWO

Pistol, License Plates Found in Room of Pair in Hotel.

Two men, giving their names as Albert McIntyre, Augusta, Ga., and Huey William Davis, Jacksonville, Fla., are held for questioning today, following their arrest last night at the Washington.

An automatic pistol, sets of Georgia and Florida license plates, and a set of dies were found in the men's hotel room after police were notified by the night clerk, who became suspicious of the men's actions.

Each man was carrying a large amount of money when arrested, police reported. Although questioned by detectives, neither would talk, it is said.

After registering at the hotel, the men attempted to rent an automobile, but were refused. They were arrested when they returned to the hotel.

A LIQUID LAXATIVE BEST FOR CHILDREN

(For three reasons explained below)

Do you know a laxative that works just right for you, can work havoc with a child?

That the laxative habit can be contracted at the age of six?

And that the wrong laxative can give children chronic constipation before their tenth birthday?

You wouldn't give your children a powerful headache powder! You shouldn't give them a violent cathartic.

Parents Aroused at Last! Doctors urge the use of a liquid laxative for children; preferably one with senna. A liquid laxative can be regulated as to dose. The natural laxative action of senna does not weaken the bowels.

Druggists report increasing sales of liquid laxatives.

Give Them a Chance!

The preparation most favored for child use is California Syrup of Figs. It is a fruity syrup with the right amount of senna for gentle stimulation of a child's bowels. It gives the right kind of help.

If the bowels aren't moving regularly and thoroughly, don't give any medicine that drains the system dry. Give a liquid senna preparation like California Syrup of Figs. A little every day, and reduce the dose each day. At the end of one week—stop. You'll be surprised how long it will be before the bowels need any further help. It may be months.

Be sure you get the real California Syrup of Figs, with "California" on the label. If you get the right preparation, and use it the right way, you can absolutely end all worry over constant sluggish spells, bilious attacks, constipation.

All druggists keep California Syrup of Figs, ready for use. It is highly recommended for regulating children, and to undo the mischief done by habit-forming laxatives.

ELEVATION OF TRACKS ASKED BY WEST SIDE

Raising of Three Crossings
Sought by Civic Organization.

A request by the West Michigan Street Civic Club that railroad tracks crossing Belmont avenue, Holmes avenue and West Michigan street be included in the track elevation project, was made to the board of public works yesterday.

It was explained by the delegation submitting the request that the West Michigan street crossings of the Baltimore & Ohio and the Big Four railroads are extremely dangerous and have perhaps the highest fatality rating of any in the city.

The public works board asked Luther Shirley, spokesman for the Civic Club delegation, to supply statistics showing how many persons cross the tracks in vehicles and on foot.
