Comedy to Be Given by Civic Group

'Rebound' to Be Offered as Second Event at Playhouse.

The Civic Theater announces that "Hedda Gabler," which originally was set for production Nov. 28, has been postponed until the second week in December and that Donald Ogden Stewart's gay comedy, "Rebound," will be presented as the second bill of the current season.

It is scheduled for four nights at the Playhouse, opening Wednesday, Nov. 22.

"Hedda Gabler" is to be offered as a special production starting Dec. 14 for a three-night run. With the announcement that coupon books may be used for this special production, the management points out that it increases the number of plays guaranteed to subscribers from six to seven.

"Rebound" is one of the lightest and most amusing of the popular high comedies. It moves swiftly and smartly from a country home not too far from Wall street to Paris and back again, explaining who marries, who and why.

Mr. Stewart has devoted himself to presenting a group of smart young people, who prefer not to take life seriously at all, unless it is absolutely necessary. "Rebound" has its solemn moments, but the smile is not very far behind the tear.

Mr. Stewart is said to be the type of humorist who gathers his material where he finds it, and if the fields he is occupying are not fertile he seeks those that are.

As a traveler, after he had graduated from Yale in 1916, and served as a seaman, quartermaster, and chief quartermaster in the war, he capitalized his travels in "Mr. and Mrs. Haddock Abroad," and "Mr. and Mrs. Haddock in Paris."

Interested in amateur theatricals he agreed to give his talents to the world as a professional when Arthur Hopkins offered him a place in "Holiday."

From this experience he was in-

Though she is but 22 years old, she has had a notable stage career and is credited with being Broadway's favorite ingenue.

"Only Yesterday" is a romantic drama directed by John M. Stahl, the man who made "Back Street."

spired to try playwrighting and produced "Rebound," built around the personality of Hope Williams, a fellow-player in the Hopkins company.

Mr. Stewart was born in Columbus, O., in 1894. His books include: "A Parody Outline of History" and "Aunt Polly's Story of Mankind."

He continued his adventures by playing a role in his own play, "Rebound."

Hale MacKeen has selected a cast which includes Marjorie Patterson, Walter Pfaff, Lilith Baur, Elsiebeth Funk, Dick Grotenick, Mary Alspach, Delmas McConnell, James Larmore, Lionel Wiggam and Rita Connors.

Kentucky Man Finds Mother Believed Dead

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 11.—Lieutenant-Governor A. B. Chandler of Kentucky came here searching for his mother's grave, but instead yesterday he found his mother alive after having been separated from her for thirty-one years.

It was a strange saga that the two had to relate to each other, the happenings in the thirty-one years since they had separated, story of how the son had achieved political recognition in the state where the two had separated.

Chandler came here on a rumor that his mother was buried in Jacksonville. He made inquiries concerning a family named "Fortune."

There were persons who knew a Lawrence Fortune, a constable here. So Chandler went to him and in great surprise learned that he was a half-brother to him and that his mother still was alive.

Chandler and his mother were brought together in a happy reunion. They told each other their stories. Then Chandler learned how his mother had left their home in Cordova, Ky., in 1902, leaving behind Chandler and a brother.

Some time later she had married a man named Fortune, who had drowned. Following the death of her husband, Fortune, she remarried a A. W. Chamberlain.

GRAND JURY TO PROBE ROBBERY IN REFORMATORY

Action Believed Result of Demand Made by Governor.

A Madison county grand jury, to be convened at Anderson probably, will investigate the Indiana state reformatory plants and shirt theft, state officials said today.

Hundreds of dollars worth of shirts and pants made at the Pendleton institution were trucked to Indianapolis and sold through a "fence," according to A. H. Miles, reformatory superintendent.

Mr. Miles discharged John Mahoney and W. H. Thiesing, new guards appointed by Pleas Greenlee, McNutt patronage secretary, for alleged participation in the plot whereby the bundles were smuggled from the reformatory factories.

Truck Driver Barred

Both are from Indianapolis. A truck driver from Anderson was barred from the institution. Mr. Miles' investigation was said to hold him as somewhat innocent of the affair although he took money for the loads.

Two prisoners who were charged with participating were placed in solitary confinement.

Mr. Greenlee investigated the matter, but failed to order arrests or report to Governor McNutt until some days later when the affair was disclosed by The Times.

Alleged Fence Held

Governor McNutt, at that time, said that if guards were guilty, he would urge arrest and punishment. This stand is said to have inspired the probable grand jury action.

Meanwhile, Robert D. Davy, 557 West Morris street, was arrested by state police and taken to Anderson last Tuesday. After being questioned there he will be returned here to face charges of receiving stolen goods as a realigned "fence," police said.

According to German experts, high-explosive shells are the most dangerous and gas shells the least dangerous of the various forms of air attack.

COURT DENIES FREEDOM PLEA FOR KIRKLAND

Appeal Prepared in Attack Case After Ruling at Valparaiso.

By Times Special. VALPARAISO, Nov. 1.—Appeal to the Indiana supreme court was being prepared today by attorneys for Virgil Kirkland as result of decision by Circuit Judge Charles W. Jensen denying Kirkland's plea for freedom from the Indiana state reformatory.

Kirkland, who was sentenced to one to ten years in connection with the death of Arlene Draves during a drinking party in November, 1930, contended he was committed to prison illegally.

Overruling a motion of Attorney Oscar B. Thiel, Gary, Judge Jensen refused yesterday to grant a petition for Kirkland's release.

Thiel had contended that Porter circuit court, where Kirkland was tried twice in 1931, was without jurisdiction, and that the jury in the second trial violated the law by finding him guilty on charges of assault when the indictment charged him with murder.

Judge Jensen said he could find no authority in Indiana law to support the contention, and that he refused to be a party to any action which would allow Kirkland to go free by reason of an erroneous judgment.

Thiel was given permission to file a bill of exceptions and ninety days to seek appeal to the state supreme court.

Miss Draves died after a drinking party in 1930. It was asserted during the trials that while she was in a semi-conscious condition she was attacked criminally by Kirkland.
