

WORKERS' BACK NRA: CRITICISE REACTIONARIES

This Is No Time to Hold Back, Say Unions in Defense of Roosevelt.

By Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance
WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Organized labor has rallied to the defense of NRA and scored "reactionary groups in finance, industry and politics, who are turning their abusive criticism" on it.

The Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, through its general executive board, went on record "as supporting every activity of the NRA administration looking to readjust industry so that it will bring a larger measure of return to those who work in it and serve the consumers more efficiently and justly."

It declared that "this is not the time for any portion of the workers in industry to hesitate for a single moment in upholding the hands of President Roosevelt and the NRA in every attempt made to lessen the hardships which have fallen heaviest upon the workers and to readjust the industrial life of the nation so that it will serve the interests of all the people in place of only a few selfish employers who seem to think that both workers and consumers exist only to be exploited to the limit of human endurance."

Take Stand After Attacks
The Amalgamated statement follows repeated attacks on the industrial recovery program, which caused the administration to send General Hugh Johnson on a speaking tour through midwest agricultural districts, accompanied by Edward P. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor. Other members of the NRA staff are accepting speaking engagements in various cities.

"There is ample room for constructive criticism of NRA, criticism which aims at making it more effective in carrying out the objects for which it was instituted," say the workers. "This, however, is not the sort of criticism indulged in by reactionaries who fear that the putting into action of all the provisions of the act will interfere with their privileges of exploiting both the producers and the consumers to the limit."

No Better Plan Offered
"The same Tory groups, who for more than three years of the depression refused to back up any constructive plan to put industry back, even to a basis where it was before 1929, are now doing their utmost to destroy what already has been accomplished and to prevent any further progress from being made along the lines provided for in the NRA."

Collective bargaining provisions of the recovery act, which labor regards as its greatest gain, have been under heavy fire by employers who prefer to negotiate through company unions.

Employers also are working to block revision of codes to establish a shorter work-week in the face of census returns showing that reemployment has not reached the goal set.

Governor Opposes False Economy in Address at Trenton, N. J.

By Times Special
TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 14.—"Roads and buildings may wait, but not children," declared Paul V. McNutt, Indiana Governor, in addressing a large meeting sponsored by legionnaires and teachers last night. Governor McNutt pointed out that America's future prosperity and happiness depend on continuing the high standard of youth's education.

Admitting the need for rigorous, but not false, economy, he declared that "without public education, we turn our backs on painfully accumulated wisdom of the ages and start back on the road to barbarism."

MAJOR SHEPARD WEDS AFTER TRIAL

Three years of agonized waiting has brought a double reward to Major Charles A. Shepard, Denver hospital physician—virtual vindication of murder and the hand in marriage of the woman who has kept faith in him. Major Shepard is shown here with his wife, formerly Mrs. Alice Watte, rich Denver widow, after he had received news that the United States supreme court had reversed his 1930 conviction of slaying his former wife in 1929. With the reversal, Major Shepard and his bride revealed they were married secretly in July while he was under life sentence.

Pastor at Broad Ripple Offered Another Pulpit

Call of University Park Church Voted to the Rev. James Tilsley.

Congregation of the University Park Christian church has voted unanimously to call the Rev. James H. Tilsley, for three years pastor of the Broad Ripple Christian church, to their pulpit. He will assume his duties Dec. 15.

The Rev. Mr. Tilsley came to this city three years ago to begin work on a B. D. degree in Butler university. During his pastorate in Broad Ripple, the congregation erected a new building at Carrollton avenue and Sixty-second street.

The University Park church has been without the regular services of a pastor nearly a year. The Rev. Lee S. Sadler, former pastor, was given a six-week leave of absence because of illness, and resigned on his expiration.

Irwin Renews Attack on Democratic Legislation

Republican State Chairman Says Reaction Is Setting in.

The 1933 general assembly acted not in the interests of the people, but in the interests of Governor Paul V. McNutt, Don B. Irwin, Frankfort, Republican state chairman, said today.

Mr. Irwin spoke before a group of Tenth district G. O. P. leaders at Newcastle.

In a stinging denunciation of the present administration, which he said is nothing more than a "playground for politicians, and a device for furthering the Governor's own political ends," Mr. Irwin declared that it will take the state a long time to live down the disgrace of this year's general assembly.

"People Not Represented"
"The laws it enacted," he said, "did not, as our forefathers intended, represent the will of the people, but the will of Paul V. McNutt. That assembly was nothing more than a mill which ground out legislation each time the Governor blew the whistle. It sold it to him for a mess of pottage."

Mr. Irwin pointed out that in town elections held last week, eighty-four towns chose Republicans over Democrats, the latter winning but thirty-eight victories.

Reaction Is Starting
"This is evidence that there can be little doubt of how the people of this state are reacting to government by a dictator," he said.

Mr. Irwin further asserted that under the present administration, citizens of Indiana have suffered the worst crime wave in the history of the state, and that the public is groaning under an unheard-of tax burden.

STATE MURALS TO 'REST' AT WAR MEMORIAL

Nomadic Paintings Finally Find Home After Much Debating.

Indiana's vagabond murals, the Benton world's fair painting, apparently are to abandon their nomadic life and settle to a quiet home existence amid the exotic marble of the War Memorial shrine.

Although the World War memorial commission still is a bit vague about bringing the beauties to its lair, Frank H. Henley, secretary, admitted today that the board had considered the proposition favorably.

In the meanwhile, the murals, like a temperamental actress, must retire from the maddening crowd and the Chicago triumphs and criticisms, to the prosaic state highway garage, where are lovers must beat their path through trucks and oil cans.

The state had discovered woefully that it had about the same problem on its hands as if the Florida sextette suddenly had fluttered into the statehouse and refused to budge, when the architect's plans for the memorial in the basement room of the shrine could house the murals.

The murals have been a delicate subject ever since the contract was awarded to Thomas Hart Benton, famous New York artist. Local artists fumed about Housley loyalty. The paintings were criticised, too, as being too modern. Objectors charged that while they might be all right for a fast New York crowd, weren't they a little too liberal and intellectual for home-spun Indiana?

However, all further scandal will be avoided in the righteous atmosphere of the World War memorial shrine, where the murals properly will be lighted and labeled.

SCHEDULE ON OIL IS DELAYED

Code Date Delay Until Jan. 1 Is Expected at Washington.

By Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance
WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The effective date of crude petroleum and gasoline prices fixed Oct. 17 by the oil administration probably will be postponed from Dec. 1, the date originally set, until about Jan. 1, it was learned today.

Important changes probably will be made in the price schedules before they are effective.

Under present plans, all who want to protest the proposed prices have only until Nov. 15 to do so. Hearings on these complaints will start as soon thereafter as possible. That something less than two weeks would separate the start of the hearings and the date the prices were originally to have become effective.

If the Dec. 1 date were not changed, the oil administration would have to make snap judgment on the facts revealed at the hearings. It is not inclined to do this.
