

CITY ARTISTS EXHIBIT WORK IN IRVINGTON

Display of Paintings at Carr's Hall to End Next Sunday.

Irvington artists opened the sixth annual exhibition of their paintings in Carr's hall, 5400 East Washington street, yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Irvington Union of clubs. The display will continue through the week and close next Sunday afternoon.

The gallery will be open from 2 until 10 daily. Special programs have been arranged for each night and next Sunday afternoon.

Artists included in the exhibition are William Forsyth, Constance Forsyth, Simon P. Baus, Robert Craig, Frederick Polley, Dorothy Morlan, Robert Selby, Charles Yeager, Clifton Wheeler and Hilah Drake Wheeler. Miss Helen Hibbert is to be represented with sculpture.

W. D. Peat, director of the John Herron Art Institute, opened the exhibition with a talk in which he praised the artists for modestly continuing their work despite the depression.

Clifton Wheeler will speak tonight on "A Sketching Trip" in which he will review experiences in the Great Smoky mountains of Tennessee. Simon Baus will give a portrait painting demonstration with William Forsyth as his model.

"Cruiser Indianapolis at Camabell" is one of an interesting series of marine paintings by Mr. Craig, who has been associated with the eminent water colorist, George Pearse Ennis, in the Eastport school of art.

Mrs. W. W. Ward is president of the Irvington Union of Clubs. Mrs. Clarence Forsyth and Miss Katherine Layman have charge of the exhibition.

DEMOCRACY REVIVAL URGED BY DR. SMITH

International Friendship Alliance Head Speaks Here.

Necessity of a revival of fidelity to the principles of democracy was sounded yesterday by Dr. Fred B. Smith, executive committee chairman of the World's Alliance for International Friendship in an address before the Y. M. C. A. Big Meeting at English's theater.

Dr. Smith's topic was "America Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow."

Contract Bridge

Today's Contract Problem

South has the contract for four hearts. West leads three rounds of clubs. East ruffing the third and returning the queen of diamonds. When South starts running trump, what is the most important card for West to protect?

Solution to Preceding Contract Problem

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
Secretary American Bridge League

WONDER how many of my readers were successful in working out the preceding problem hand. It is a beautiful example of the triple squeeze. If you make the mistake of ruffing a diamond, your contract is defeated.

C. F. Waltman of Reading, Pa., was sitting in the North. His partner, South, was the dealer and opened the contracting with one heart.

Waltman, using the one-over-one, did not have to jump the contract, as one spade was a force. Since all South had was his original bid, he simply showed his five-card suit by a bid of two hearts. The bid of four spades on the part of Waltman was a definite slam try.

South now felt that the information most valuable to his partner would be showing the ace of diamonds. So five diamonds was his next bid. Since South did not bid diamonds at the first opportunity. North knew this bid of diamonds was purely a cue bid.

Waltman now made a nice bid of six clubs. South went to six spades to show at least three spades and Waltman went to seven.

THE play is unusually interesting. The three of hearts was opened, and Waltman won in dummy with the ace. Two rounds of spades were taken—the second spade being won in dummy with the jack. This picked up the outstanding trump.

Now, of course, if the heart suit broke, Waltman knew that he would have no trouble in making his contract. But after playing the king of hearts, and West discarded a diamond, he saw that this line of play would not succeed.

Now, of course, if the heart suit

COUNTIES DRIVE TOWARD CHILD IMMUNIZATION

Medical Societies Lead in Disease War; Parents' Aid Urged.

The movement toward immunization of all children under 10 against diphtheria and smallpox before Christmas is being undertaken on a co-operative county unit plan, the state advisory public health council has announced.

County medical societies will take leadership and will receive the co-operation of parent-teachers' associations, the American Legion, the Forty and Eight and school health and welfare authorities.

Family physicians will administer the immunization treatments. The educational program is aimed toward urging parents to take their children to their regular doctors at once. Those unable to pay for treatments will sign request cards by which the physician will be able to obtain the state's free immunizing materials.

Behind the state-wide campaign are the state advisory public health council, the state health division, the Indiana university school of medicine and the diphtheria control committee of the Indiana State Medical Association.

There are approximately 32,750,000 telephone users in the United States.

Held on Liquor Charge
Marlin McCrystal, 121½ North Alabama street, was arrested on intoxication charges last night as result of an argument at the Central Housing Committee, 222 East Washington street, in which Walter Wright sustained a severe gash on the head. Wright was treated at city hospital.
