Cubs 'Loaded' With Indianapolis Men

Hoosiers Are in Favor With the Bruins

THE Chicago Cubs are going for Hoosiers in a big way. The purchase of outfielder Chuck Klein from the Phillies puts four Indianapolis men on the Bruin pay roll and there is another Hoosier on the infield, Billy Herman of New Albany. The head coach of the Cubs is Johnny Corrigan of Indianapolis, former manager of the Indians. He was employed by Rogers Hornsby, and when Rogers was ousted, the succeeding pilot, Charlie Grimm, retained the red-thatched lieutenant to help on the lines.

Barney (Mike) Kelly, Indianapolis, is a recent addition to the Cubs' coaching staff. He was manager at Jersey City this year, but jumped at the chance to return to the majors. Mike was coach of the Chicago White Sox for two years when Owie Bush, Indianapolis, was manager. Kelly resigned the Jersey leadership despite efforts made by the Skeeter directors to induce him to return.

Another well-known Indianapolis man with the Cubs is Andrew Lotshaw, club trainer. Andy has held down the job for many years and also has served as trainer for Chicago professional football and ice hockey teams.

THE heavy-hitting Klein said he regretted leaving the Phillies, but added that now that baseball calls for him to shift to the Cubs, he will continue to give his best efforts and endeavor to do for the Bruins what he accomplished for the Quakers. Chuck said he always was treated in royal fashion by the Philly management and Quakertown fans, and will hold a warm spot in his heart for the many friends he made there and for the valuable advice and splendid treatment given by his old manager, Burt Shotton. The Hoosier slugger stated that he realizes, like the average fan, that he has been moved into an opportunity to earn more money with the Bruins and naturally is happy over the new turn in his big league career. He talked with a close friend over long distance last night from Louisville, Ky., and the local idol said he planned to penetrate the hill country on a hunting trip for at least another week. Chuck made a hasty departure from Indianapolis Tuesday shortly before official announcement of the big deal involving his transfer was published.

A STRANGE fact came to light in the wake of the Chuck Klein deal. He is the champion high percentage hitter of the majors, one of the highest salaried regulars in the National League and is rated a $100,000 ball player, yet his name is not carried in the directory of his home town! It's a curious world. The big fellow visited a bat factory in Louisville Wednesday and selected a stock of bludgeons for the 1934 season.

THE football selections coupon for Times readers was published yesterday and early "returns" indicate the list of sixteen games carries more "shooting pains." Anyway, some of the fan experts remarked they were compelled to send out after another load of aspirin before daring to forecast the scores of several clashes. Perfect Picker Pete of Pickerville is sure to be crowned, though, the fans aver, and they don't intend to let a few toss-up contests stand in their path. There are rivalry battles galore this coming Saturday and nearly everybody has a favorite. Clip the score blank and fill in the brackets. You may hit it right on the nose up and down the list. It's THE big week of the collegiate football season and all grid followers are invited to join in the fun, hop the experts' band wagon and sing I Told You So. Mail or bring coupons to Football Score Editor, The Times. Saturday noon is the deadline for reaching this desk with the selections. Coupons will be locked up shortly after the noon hour Saturday and kept under key until Monday. If you missed the coupon in yesterday's Times, it's up to you to find one or make out your own list, but it must be the official group of games that was carried in this column on Wednesday.

ON Saturday, at South Bend, Notre Dame will be out to defend its one-game and two-point margin over Southern California in the series which started in 1926. The Irish have won four of the seven games played and scored eighty-eight points to the Trojans' forty-six. Southern California has won the last two games, breaking Notre Dame's winning streak with the famous 16-14 fourth-period victory in 1931, and triumphing again last year, 13-0. Four of Southern California's eleven defeats during the past ten years have been administered by Notre Dame, three of them by one-point margins. The series has produced some of the greatest thrills in football, among them: Art Parisen's left-handed pass for a touchdown in the last minute; 13-12 victory in 1926; Russ Saunders' ninety-five-yard touchdown run in the 1929 game which Notre Dame won, 13-12. Jack Elder's fifty-five-yard run to Tom Conley for a touchdown in the same game. Bucky O'Connor's eighty-yard run for a touchdown in the 20-7 victory in 1930. Johnny Baker's winning field goal in the last two minutes of play in the 16-14 Trojans' victory in 1931.

THE most activeistic stable in the state, managed by Kelse McClure, is Indianapolis, will be represented on glove programs in Kentucky and Illinois Monday night, Nov. 27. At Louisville, Rosy (Kid) Baker, the local middleweight puncher, will trade wallop with Bill Thomas in the main event, ten rounds. In other scraps on the same card, Clem Reed, Indianapolis welter, will tackle Joe Euer in the eight-round semi-windup, and in a six-rounder, Jimmy Fox, local bantam, will face Sonny Brentz. In LaSalle, Ill., on the same night, four other McClure lads will perform, three in eight-round features. Honeyboy Brown, Indianapolis welter, will meet Laddie Tonelli, and Paul (Tennessee) Lee, local bantam, and Young Shannon, Hoosier lightweight, will battle opponents to be named later. In a six-round go at LaSalle, Eddie Allen, Indianapolis Negro middleweight, will tackle an Illinois mauler. At Chicago, also on Monday, Jackie Purvis, McClure welter, will clash with Henry Rother, eight rounds. Henry Hook, local bantam, will appear in the semi-windup at Chicago. Boss McClure is able to keep his boys booked up by urging them to throw gloves when they fight, thus assuring aggressive entertainment and future dates. Nine of his lads are dated for Monday night.
