

2 WOMEN ARE KILLED IN CITY AUTO ACCIDENTS

Eleven Others Injured in Mishaps; Drivers Are Sought by Police.

Auto toll of Indianapolis soared for the year to 110 today with the death of two women in the city hospital early this morning.

In the meantime, police were searching for the driver of a roadster with red wire wheels, who fatally injured Mrs. Mamie Walters, 52, of 1007 East Michigan street, last night.

Mrs. Walters died at the city hospital at 2:30 this morning. At 5:20 this morning, the hospital reported its second death from injuries suffered in an auto accident as Mrs. Bettie (Aunt Mary) Golligher, 66, of 423 East Ohio street, succumbed in a hospital ward.

Eleven other persons were injured in car accidents last night and police were hunting a second hit-and-run driver who struck Merrill Rockefeller, 16, of 226 North Delaware street, as he crossed the street at Tenth street and Chester avenue. The youth is in the city hospital in a critical condition.

Driver Is Sought

Mrs. Walters suffered her fatal injuries as she crossed the street with her husband, Bert Walters, at 1000 East Michigan street.

The driver of the roadster, with the red wire wheels, knocked down Mr. and Mrs. Walters and sped from the accident scene.

Mr. Walters suffered broken legs and his condition was reported critical at the hospital today.

In the accident that resulted fatally for Mrs. Golligher, a 91-year-old woman, Miss (Aunt Mollie) Mary E. Thompson, of 514 East Miami street, suffered serious injuries as she and Mrs. Golligher crossed the intersection of Ohio and New Jersey streets and were struck by a car driven by John Schultz, of 1806 North New Jersey street.

Miss Thompson is aunt of Floyd Williamson, state auditor.

Slick Streets Blamed

Schultz was driving slowly. Witnesses said the women stepped in front of his car. The wheels of the auto did not pass over them. They sing in the Cadde tabernacle choir and were on their way home when the accident occurred.

Streets, slick from a misty rain, were blamed by police for some of the accidents.

Other accidents were:

William M. Rhodes, 71, of 1521 North Rural street, suffered body bruises and left leg injuries when a sedan knocked him off of a bicycle he was riding last night at Thirtieth street and Keystone avenue. He was treated by a private physician.

Miss Hattie Bacon, 28, of 2105 Boulevard place, sustained lacerations and bruises when she jumped in the pathway of a car driven by Glenn Neese, 26, of 658 Hampton drive, at Thirty-eighth and Meridian streets. She was taken to the city hospital, treated, and then taken home.

Maywood Resident Hurt

George Breedlove of Maywood suffered a dislocated shoulder when the car which he was driving collided with an auto driven by Denzel Paddock, 21, of Greenwood.

Mrs. Virginia McComb, 30, of 5020 East Tenth street, suffered cuts and bruises and Cecil Short, 39, of 525 East Fifty-sixth street, a passenger in the car driven by Mrs. McComb, sustained lacerations when the auto sideswiped a tree in the 200 block on East Ninth street.

Police said Mrs. McComb and Short were drunk. They were booked on drunkenness charges. In the crash the McComb car struck a parked auto owned by Frank Kissel, 3703 Washington boulevard.

Other persons hurt in accidents last night were John A. Hart, 51, of Beech Grove; Herbert P. Matles, 23, of 4433 East Morris street; Oliver A. Henry, 58, of 2931 Highland avenue, and Tom Miller, Negro, 40, of 1223 North Capitol avenue.

Gun Victim's Brilliant Talent, Striking Beauty Are Lauded by City Friends

Musical Ability and Vivid Personality Recalled
by Teachers.

BY HELEN LINDSAY
Times Staff Writer

Nothing but fond memories remain with members of the faculty at Arsenal Technical high school of Rheta Gardner Wynekoop, for whose murder Chicago police are searching.

A talented violinist, the victim of one of the most baffling recent murders, is recalled as a girl of remarkable beauty and unusual brilliance.

Her records in the school office show that she was an honor pupil during the years she attended Technical high school.

One card discloses that she was recommended by her senior sponsor, Miss Hazel Doyle, for the Barton Bradley scholarship. Listed under the qualifications for this honor, Miss Doyle wrote: "High scholarship, fine ideals, eager to respond to any call; generous with talent; clear cut vocational objective, music."

Favorite With Teachers

Both Miss Doyle and Mrs. Elizabeth Kaitz Cochran, head of the music department of the school, recalled clearly the vivid and pleasing personality of the girl. Each commented on the shock the news of her murder would be to V. E. Dillard, who directed the Technical orchestra at the time the girl was concert mistress.

"She was a favorite with all her teachers," Miss Doyle said. "I never shall forget with what pride Mr. Dillard bowed and turned the direction of the orchestra over to her at the fifteenth anniversary banquet of the school. It was given in the Columbia Club, in May 1927, before Rheta was graduated in January, 1928."

"Rheta was particularly lovely that night. She wore a green evening gown and silver slippers, and her grace and poise were outstanding," Meredith Nicholson, who was seated at the speakers' table, turned his chair about, that he might watch her closely as she directed the orchestra.

Nicholson Pays Tribute

"When he was called upon to speak, Mr. Nicholson commented laughingly upon his inability to keep his attention from straying to the attractive young figure."

Miss Doyle recalled her recommendation for the scholarship.

"Rheta was a person you couldn't forget," she said. "She was so beautiful. Her hair was a mass of red gold curls, and her skin was that peculiar milk-white that is sometimes seen with that shade of hair. Every motion she made was graceful and her talent could not be denied. Yet with it all, she had a most gracious and obliging personality. At the time that I was with whom she studied violin at the Arthur Jordan Conservatory of Music, and upon whom she called each time she visited Indianapolis after her marriage.

"Her hair was like spun gold," Mr. McGibeny said, in describing her. "The most unusual thing about her, however, was her eyes. They had golden lights in them which seemed to penetrate the person at whom she was looking."

'Suited for Stage Career'

"I was deeply concerned when I heard of her marriage, for I felt that she had talent. In addition to her gift in music, she had a personality which would most likely have made her successful on the stage."

When she was in Indianapolis last summer, Mrs. Wynekoop called on Mr. McGibeny as was her custom on visits to this city.

"She still was as lovely as ever," Mr. McGibeny said, in recalling the visit. "I have a deep interest in all former pupils, and often serve in an advisory role with them as a father would. But so far as I could tell, Rheta was very happy in her marriage, though still interested in music."

Romance Started Here

Earle Wynekoop, husband of the young woman, was as deeply impressed by her beauty as her former teachers. When he first saw her, she was a member of a trio from the Irvington School of Music which furnished a part of the program at a reception in the home of Dr. Amelia R. Keller, 3515 Fordford avenue. The reception was given in honor of members of Nu Sigma Phi, medical sorority, which he was attending with his mother, Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop.

The following day, young Wynekoop telephoned the Irvington School of Music, to learn Miss Gardner's name and address. The acquaintance which was made at that time culminated in their marriage, Aug. 31, 1929.

SURVEY URGES AUTO LICENSE DATE CHANGE

March or June Expiration Would Aid Business, Is Prediction.

Change of the automobile license year to bring its expiration on March 31 or June 30, instead of Dec. 31, would keep more than 2,500,000 normally stored cars on the highways during 1934 winter months, speed recovery by an estimated $10,000,000 in new business and result in increased revenue to the states, according to a study by The Gasoline Retailer.

The study shows a gain in gasoline gallonage and auto service trade effecting delay on registration at the beginning of 1933. With the expiration of licenses on Dec. 31, when motorists often are hard pressed for money, many automobiles are not licensed until April or July.

Ten States Make Change

In six of the ten states showing gasoline gallonage increase during the first six months of 1933, postponement was effected in some form or other, the study shows.

Arkansas, Delaware, Kansas, Minnesota, Mississippi, New Mexico, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Utah and Virginia showed increase in taxable gasoline gallonage over 1932. Maryland, which did not delay the licensing period, suffered a gallonage decline of 3,596,000.

Compares Benefits

The significance of this move, according to H. Preston Quadland, survey author, is comparable to the trade benefits from the recognition of Russia.

This year has been the first in which delayed auto licensing was begun by a number of states, the study reveals, and the figures shown indicate the opportunities for increased trade.

The only drawback thus far encountered in general licensing on April 1 or July 1 seems to be in bookkeeping changes necessitated in the tax collection agencies of the states.

Dolly—Literary Lion

Dolly Invades New York—Says She was 'Petrified' on First Airplane Trip.

BY H. ALLEN SMITH
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Dolly Gann, whose fame in the past has been largely confined to Washington, today became New York's current literary lion by appearing at a Brooklyn department store to deliver a speech and to autograph copies of her opus "Dolly Gann's Book."

Prior to her appearance on the lecture platform, Mrs. Gann graciously received a few reporters in the tearoom of the store, where she announced that she had not read Alice Roosevelt Longworth's new book.

Since she is being feted as a literary figure, the reporters asked her questions about her intimate literary life and sought to determine which authors are her favorites.

"I have no favorites," she smiled. "I read a few books, yes, but mostly I read the papers. I actually devour the papers."

"Did you dictate your own book?" she was asked.

"Oh, no," she replied. "I wrote it in longhand with paper, a pencil, or sometimes a fountain pen." In her speech Mrs. Gann explained that she had come to New York by plane—"My very first trip in an airplane."

"To think," she exclaimed, "that men have invented a machine whereby they could fly through the air like birds! Was I nervous? My friends, I was petrified! But I," she continued wearily, "am air minded."

She said that while she is in
