Solution to Previous Contract Problem

BY W. E. MCKENNEY
Secretary American Bridge League

THIS is the last of the four interesting hands given to the writer by the team that will represent the Auction Bridge Club of Chicago at the Vanderbilt cup match. It was played by A. B. Brown, a member of the Chicago team when it tied for the Vanderbilt cup the last time the event was played in the west—in 1928.

Mr. Brown long has been rated one of the outstanding players—not only in Chicago, but in the country.

While South's hand is rather weak, his partner has bid and re-bid spades and has shown a second suit. Therefore, South is justified in taking the contract to four. In the face of East's bid, and holding four spades to the queen, jack, ten, West hardly can be blamed for doubling the contract.

However, it was the double that gave the situation away and allowed Mr. Brown to make his contract.

THE king of diamonds was opened and followed by another diamond, which Brown, in the North, trumped. A small heart was played and East went in with the ace. He returned another diamond and again Brown trumped.

Declarer now played the jack of hearts and won in dummy with the king. A small trump was played from dummy and West played the queen.

North won the trick with the king. He now led the king of clubs and then a small club, winning in dummy with the queen. At this point, the remaining cards were as follows:

Declarer now had the eight of spades, the five of hearts, the diamond nine and the ten and seven of clubs. West held three spades, jack, ten, five, no hearts, the diamond jack, and the club nine.

Dummy had three spades, ace, nine, seven, and the ace, five of clubs. Out of spades, East held four times hearts, ten, nine, eight, seven, and the diamond queen.

Declarer now led the nine of diamonds from dummy and trumped in his own hand with the seven of spades. He re-entered dummy with the ten of clubs.

The losing heart now was led and West was helpless. If he trumped with an honor, Brown would discard the ace of clubs and win the last two tricks with the ace and nine of spades.

However, if West trumped low, Brown then would win two trump tricks and his contract would be made.

These leagues will shoot again tonight, the shoulder to shoulder teams shooting at the Tomlinson hall range and the out of town boys shooting on their home ranges.

The Marion County Fish and Game Association is putting on a drive for members now. This club has reduced its membership fee from $3 to $1 a year.

Until the present time hunters never have been classed with the fishermen when it comes to telling stories that stretch the imagination but when they do break loose, it would seem that they try their best to reach the peak. You be the judge. We are going to give you the story without any names being used, so here goes.

A hunter stepped into one of the downtown sporting goods stores and when he left he had the complete outfit that the up-to-the-minute hunters were wearing, and a costly gun. This set him back $150. He then paid $25 for a beagle hound. When some one told him that he should have a ferret along, if he really wished to get the game, he spent another $5 for said ferret. Having permission to hunt on a farm about eighty miles away, he loaded him out, placed his hound on a leash, the ferret in a box and started for the train. The train crew would not permit the dog to ride with him, so he took him back to the baggage car and tied him to a crate. When the baggageman tossed the crate off at one of the stations along the line, the dog, being tied, followed in a hurry and broke his neck. On his arrival, he explained his hard luck to his farmer friend and Mr. Farmer loaned him a nondescript hound that stayed around the farm. Getting into the field the ferret was placed in a hole and the dog ordered to watch the other end. In a short time the ferret poked his head out of the hole at the other end and the dog grabbed him by the neck, killing him instantly. The hunter really was aware about this time and chased the dog until he fell in a creek after which he decided to call it a day, return to the city and visit a pawnshop.

All summer long Garry Winders has promised Stan Morgan some real quail hunting, when the season opened. Early this week Morgan left Barbee lake and came to the city to make the trip with Winders. They started out full of hopes for a bag limit, but upon their return, the bag held one quail, shot by Morgan. To make matters worse, a keen rivalry contest between Stan Morgan and his dad, always is being waged in both hunting and fishing, so Stan decided he could not go back home without game and the latest report is that he is staying over to take to the field with Cecil and Jim Flynn. If these boys do not find the game for him, we expect Stan will become a resident of Indianapolis.

The boys over at the Fletcher Trust Company are being kept busy listening to Frank Ditzinger tell them how he killed two rabbits with one shot on a recent hunting trip near Zionsville.

One pleasing feature of the hunting season is the respect for the law that hunters are showing. Of course there are exceptions but, as a rule, the pheasant that were planted by the conservation department this year are being protected very well and in many cases, the hunters themselves are stopping hogs from shooting them.

A wire received from Morgan's Lodge, Lake Barbee, reads as follows: "Bass are biting. Caught the limit today. Morgan."

HIT THAT COLD

WHERE IT LIVES—in the m!

Don't fool yourself about a cold! It's nothing to be taken lightly nor treated lightly. A cold is an internal infection that will quickly spread within the system unless promptly checked. The wise thing to take for a cold is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

First of all, it is distinctly a cold remedy and not a "cure-all". Secondly, it is an internal treatment. Thirdly, it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. That's the treatment a cold requires and anything less is taking chances. All druggists sell Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine, 30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and reject a substitute.—Advertisement.
