

—Let's Go Hunting— 5 MORE FOREST CAMPS OPENED IN STATE TODAY

24 Centers Will Be Occupied With Conservation of Lands.

BY LEFTY LEE
Times Hunting Editor

The nineteen civilian conservation corps camps have been working consistently along conservation lines for six months. Five more camps are authorized for the second period. All are to be occupied today. Of the twenty-four camps which will be in operation twelve will be working on state forests and state game preserves, and twelve will be conducting soil erosion preserves.

Indiana is in a fortunate position to take advantage of this important program because the forests and game preserves are comparatively new and undeveloped. The state forests have increased from 3,500 acres in 1926 to 24,000 in 1933.

During this period funds available have been used to establish three state nurseries with an inventory of 20,000,000 trees, to establish forest fire protection over 1,000,000 acres of state and private timber lands and wastelands, and each dollar which could be devoted to state forests has been used chiefly for buying land.

Achievements Listed

Roads, trails, administrative buildings and recreational facilities are being developed now with the camps. A report of the work accomplished by all of the camps for the last two months includes the completion of the following projects: In addition to a large amount of work devoted to completed projects:

Five miles of fire breaks were constructed, fire hazards were removed from 227 acres, seven miles of roads were cleared, forty miles of truck trails were cleared, nine and one-half miles of truck trails were constructed, 450 acres were improved according to scientific forest practice, three miles of existing highway were maintained. During the same two months three headquarters buildings, five toolhouses and three office buildings were constructed. Nursery work, chiefly in growing black locust trees for reforestation eroded lands, received 13,000 man days of work. Insect and pest control for forest trees was carried out on 660 acres of state and private lands. Seventy-five miles of boundary line were surveyed and marked, two bridges were completed, four acres were cleared for public camp grounds, one and one-fourth miles of stream were improved, two reservoirs were constructed covering eight acres, for fish, birds and forest water supply. Fifty-six miles of trails were mapped and 76,000 board feet of timber was sawed to provide lumber for state forest and game preserve buildings. This is an impressive total for two months.

Check Dams Built

An estimate was made, supported by field research investigation, to show that southern Indiana has lost enough top soil to cover a county the size of Fountain county twenty inches deep. This is a terrific soil loss for the first century of land utilization!

The soil erosion camps are building check dams for gullies of logs, brush and stone to hold back the soil until reforestation on these lands completely will revegetate the area and afford a permanent soil cover. It is planned to plant 25,000,000 trees next spring. Black locust is a useful tree to the farmer as it provides a good cover for game, and because its fruit is similar to a bean pod with several edible seeds, it makes a good food tree for birds and small game.

Under the new public works employment plan projects have been submitted for approval to use 3,000 more men in the state forests and game preserves, and 5,000 more men on soil erosion work. If these projects are approved, as there is good evidence that they will be, this large force of men materially will supplement and increase the splendid work being accomplished by the forest and erosion camps. The fish and game, park and forestry divisions are co-operating closely in every manner to develop the lands under the supervision of the department of conservation for forestry, recreation and fish and game purposes in order to best serve the public.

Two Protestant Sects Plead for Temperance

Warning to Episcopalians,
Presbyterians Issued
as Repeal Nears.

By United Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Two Protestant sects, the Episcopalians and the Presbyterians, cautioned adherents today to observe temperance and prevent the legalized liquor traffic from becoming a national menace.

The Presbyterian pronouncement, issued in Philadelphia by the Rev. J. A. Stevenson, termed repeal "a defeat," and warned members "to look to God in earnest prayers rather than to politicians in Washington."

The Episcopal statement, an encyclical issued by the House of Bishops, and read in all of the denomination's churches throughout the country, urged "a finer type of Christian faith and courage" to aid "the establishment of the new economic order."

FARMINGTON, Mass., Dec. 5.—Charles W. Floyd, president of the Farmington Chamber of Commerce and clothing merchant, today inserted in a local newspaper an advertisement for his store which read, in part, as follows:

"Al Smith says our money is baloney dollars, but Al was defeated at the convention and it may be possible he just is a mite prejudiced. We are gambling he is wrong. For a limited time we will accept baloney dollars for our good merchandise."

He then listed "bargains in baloney dollars," including men's overcoats for "ten baloney dollars."
