This City Is Writing Own Legitimate Show Fate

Oberfelder's Many Visiting Stage Stars Makes Plea for Continuance of Dramatic Productions.

BY WALTER D. HICKMAN

RIIGHT now Indianapolis is writing its own legitimate road show fate. These are not idle or meaningless words as there actually are only a few road shows on tour out of New York.

The legitimate road show stage here would be as barren as Old Mother Hubbard's famous cupboard if it was not for Arthur M. Oberfelder.

In the last four weeks Mr. Oberfelder has brought to English's New York stage successes with actors of proven ability. Many of them have been stars on the stage or screen, or both, for years.

First, we had "Dinner At Eight" with James Kirkwood. That was followed by "Double Door" which was splendidly acted, but which drew little at the box office.

Then came the delicious "There's Always Juliet" with Violet Heming, an important figure on the New York stage. Now we have "Dangerous Corner," magnificently acted by Herbert Rawlinson, Miss Beverly Bayne and associates.

The box office response to the last three attractions have definitely raised the question—How long can Mr. Oberfelder and his associates hold out?

Columbus, O., did not respond to the Oberfelder productions and that city was taken off the list and Louisville, Ky., put in its place. Kansas City, Cincinnati and St. Louis are doing splendidly from a support standpoint.

"Because of the low price charged and the large operating expenses of sending these companies over the country it is necessary to play to capacity in small seating theaters," Mr. Oberfelder told me at the beginning of the season.

Mr. Rawlinson, in appearances before the Bell Telephone Club at the Indianapolis Athletic Club, and in press and radio interviews, has explained the significance of the revival of the road which Mr. Oberfelder is trying to bring about.

The star also visited the Riley hospital for children and performed tricks of magic for the kiddies. This is just one of the many ways the stars have exerted their personalities on the city while here.

It has been my critical opinion that Mr. Oberfelder has been giving us productions of $3 size for prices far below that.

It is not the purpose of this department to try to force people into the theater but to proclaim that some offerings are great bargains.

Tomorrow night, the Lyric will present a special showing of Billy Purl's "Heart of Harlem." The performance starts at 11:30 p.m.

NOTED WOMAN JOURNALIST IS FORUM SPEAKER

Dorothy Thompson to Talk on Germany at Dec. 10 Session.

Dorothy Thompson, distinguished wife of Sinclair Lewis, will speak on "The Crisis in Germany" before the Indianapolis Open Forum at 8:15 Sunday night, Dec. 10, at Kirshbaum Center, Twenty-third and North Meridian streets.

World famous as a foreign correspondent for American newspapers, Miss Thompson is ranked as the foremost woman journalist of the present day. Although she has served in every country in central Europe, Miss Thompson, in the last few years, has devoted her attention almost exclusively to Germany and has gained note for her magazine articles on the subject.

Her articles on the reich's problems are regarded as exhaustive studies of the situation. Miss Thompson just has returned from Europe with some first-hand impressions of the present war-like trends in England, France and Germany.

castle where he was held prisoner. It was a "scoop" and the next day the story was sent speeding around the world.

She was born near Buffalo, the daughter of a Methodist minister. She spent several years as a social service worker before entering journalism.

The lecture Sunday night is the third of the Forum series. Following her lecture, she will answer pertinent questions put to her by members of the audience.

ARMY CHIEF

HUEY TO NAME WOMAN DESPITE VOTE UPRISING

Citizens to Hold Private Election to Pick Own Representative.

By United Press
NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 6.—Mrs. Bolivar E. Kemp will be presented to congress by the Huey P. Long political machine as the duly elected successor of her late husband as representative from the Sixth Louisiana congressional district, it was indicated today.

Mrs. Kemp was elected yesterday, although no votes were cast in three of the district's twelve parishes. She was the only candidate, but she polled approximately 5,000 in a district which ordinarily has a vote of 40,000.

Citizen's groups, opposing what they termed the political domination of Senator Long, organized for a "people's election" Dec. 27 which will be held without sanction of the state government, but whose winner will be presented to congress as legally elected.

The hectic election, marked by scattered violence, closed last night with the burning of effigies of Senator Long in two towns. Anti-Long leaders had sought to keep voters away from the polls and in three parishes tied up voting by court injunction. Many of the votes recorded were cast by employees of the state which is dominated by the Long machine.

Long was burned in effigy in Plaquemine and Denham.
