

COUNCIL CUTS REGISTRATION FUND BY $6,000

Acts on Ralston Estimate;
Defers Appropriation
Till Feb. 5.

A further delay of registration of Marion county voters became evident yesterday when members of the county council announced that final action on obeying a court mandate to appropriate funds to finance the undertaking would not be taken until Feb. 5.

The council tentatively fixed $98,000 as the amount to be appropriated for the registration.

Rent Money Saved
Glenn B. Ralston, county clerk, who will have charge of the registration, petitioned the council to eliminate $6,000 from his original $104,000 request because he will not require $6,000 for registration headquarters rent as had been originally contemplated.

In explaining postponement until Feb. 5, John Newhouse, council vice-president, said the meeting to appropriate the money was delayed because no money is available.

"The council has no concern as to where the money is to be obtained," Judge James D. Ermon said. "They must appropriate it and it becomes the duty of the auditor to provide it from the county general fund."

Many Delays Encountered
Voters' registration, scheduled under the 1933 law to begin Jan. 15, already has had a number of setbacks, originating last fall when councilmen refused to appropriate the money. A suit to mandate them to provide the money then was filed in superior court, room four, where special Judge James D. Ermon issued the mandate order.

The case was appealed to the Indiana supreme court, which last week handed down an opinion sustaining the lower court and holding the 1933 registration law constitutional.

FEENEY'S PROPOSALS USED IN U. S. BILL

State Safety Director Returns From Washington Parley.

Features of law enforcement suggested by Al Feeney, state safety director, will be incorporated in a bill proposed to congress, Mr. Feeney announced today upon his return from Washington.

Mr. Feeney conferred with Senator Royal S. Copeland, chairman of the committee on preparing crime curbing legislation, Senator Frederick Van Nuys and department of justice officials.

Proposals were that the federal government could arrest gangsters traveling with guns and doctors who treated gangsters and did not notify authorities.

ATTRIBUTES PSYCHIC FEAT TO DUMB LUCK

Pittsburgher Disclaims Ability at Mental Marvels.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 31.—William J. Farrell, recently pensioned city employee, once drew the attention of the country's psychic experts, Farrell, now 63, telling of the story, says it was really only a joke.

"But it seemed I was a mental marvel," he said. "The key to a safe was lost, and no one knew where to look for it. I dreamed that Jim Brennan had the key. The next day I asked him for it and it turned out that he had it."

Letters and telegrams from all over the country were sent Farrell, but he attributed the feat to "dumb luck."

'MYSTERY' OF P. K.'S SOLVED AT I. C.

Two "P. K.'s" Miss Dorothy Cooper, of Wabash, Ind., left, and Miss Treva Miser, Muncie, placarding the platform of Indiana Central's unofficial club as some folk at least would have them be.

They're 'Preacher's Kids,' 11 Per Cent of 'Em, and Proud of It.

The question "Are You a P. K.?" at Indiana Central college has nothing to do with chewing gum or turned backwards an old army term, "kitchen police."

An Indiana Central "P. K." is a full-fledged "preacher's kid," students at the school will tell you. Eleven per cent, forty-three in number, out of 385 enrolled in the college are sons and daughters of ministers.

"Goody-goody" and "piety-pie" are two expressions the "P. K.'s" are forced to "live down"—or live up to. "But we're really not," they chorus. "We're just college students like any one else."

Long faces, always attending chapel, are denied by the feminine contingent of the unofficial club. "We're just what we are—P. K.'s—and we don't discriminate whether we go to parties with a bricklayer's son or a banker's boy, so why should they?" they assert.

PRESIDENT NAMED BY STATE NURSES' GROUP

City Hospital Education Director to Head Association.

Mrs. Margaret Culbertson, city hospital educational director, was elected president of the new Central district of the Indiana State Nurses Association, formed yesterday. Nearly eighty nurses from eleven counties attended.

Other officers named were Miss Marie Schulz, first vice-president; Miss Josephine Doup, second vice-president; Miss Florence Sayce, secretary; Miss Aurelia Willers, treasurer; Misses Esther McClain, Elizabeth Candy and Emma Stoll, directors. Misses Emma Hannafin, Indianapolis, and Miss Anna Lampkins, Bloomington, are hold-over directors.

'BE NICE BOY,' WOMAN SHERIFF TELLS DILLINGER

Expert With Guns Herself,
She's Prepared for All Emergencies.

BY SHERIFF LILLIAN HOLLEY
(Written for United Press)

CROWN POINT, Ind., Jan. 31.—John Dillinger may be able to fight his way out of some prisons, but he won't break the Lake County jail. After all the warnings I received that John Hamilton and other Dillinger gang members were planning to rescue Dillinger, I was glad enough to see him locked up in a cell.

We have taken every precaution now against Dillinger breaking out or an attempt to rescue him. We brought out the machine guns when we heard that Dillinger and the others had been captured.

Deputies on Guard

Every day the deputies have practiced with these machine guns since then and I have little fear that anything short of an army could take the jail. I can handle one of these machine guns myself.

It's nothing new for us to have desperate men to guard. Recently James (Fur) Sammons was held in the Lake county jail until he received a life sentence. Although Sammons, somehow or other, successfully gained liberty from Illinois jails, he was safe here.

I'm not afraid of any gunfire, if it does break loose. I'm down in the shooting gallery with the men every day and I can handle a gun well enough to hold my own in a fight.

Promises Fair Treatment

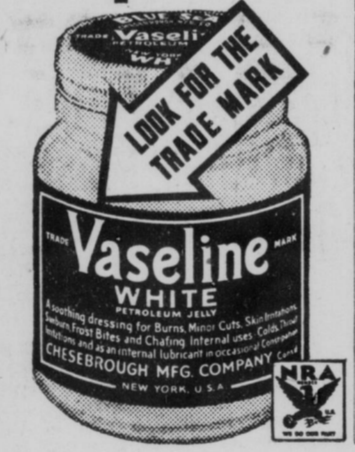

I've been interested in guns ever since my husband was killed by a demented Gary farmer. I was appointed sheriff in his place and I made up my mind that a sheriff should know something about guns.

Dillinger went to sleep last night right after he was placed in a cell. He'll get good treatment here as long as he behaves himself.

I have twenty deputies placed about the jail. They will not do any special favors for Dillinger or communicate with him in any way.

Although cactus plants are found in many parts of the world, they all trace ancestry to American cacti.

TRACE CHILD RHYME TO ANCIENT EGYPT

Counting Game Traced
Back to 12th Dynasty.

By Science Service

LONDON, Jan. 26.—When mothers play "This Little Pig Went to Market" with babies' fingers and toes they are repeating a spell which may date from countless ages. Dr. Margaret Murray of University college, London, has made a study of modern Egyptian nursery and children's rhymes in which she traces some of them back as far as the twelfth dynasty of ancient Egypt, about 2000 B. C.

When the modern Egyptian mother plays with the fingers and toes of her baby instead of singing of little pigs she sings "The Song of the Egg."

It goes like this: "This is the Egg. This is the one who brought it. And this is the one who boiled it. And this is the one who peeled it. And this is the one who ate it all up." And as she pulls the last toe she sings the last line on a high note just as in the English game—the ritual note which completes the spell.

Dr. Murray traces this counting game back to the twelfth dynasty, when the soul of a sorcerer or learned man was not allowed to enter the kingdom of Osiris until he had shown his ability to count his fingers.

"Her face was covered with Pimples"

reports DR. ANTOINE of Paris

A "case history." From the records of one of France's leading diagnosticians, Dr. Edouard Antoine, who numbers a king and other royalty among his patients! If you or anyone you know is suffering from skin trouble, read what this eminent doctor says . . .

"THE PATIENT," states Dr. Antoine, "—age 25—had for years suffered from eruptions on the face. Had employed ointments, lotions, etc.—without result . . .

"EXAMINATION SHOWED she had a bad condition of the intestines . . . constipation . . . which she had treated by means of purgatives. Obviously her auto-intoxication was the cause of her bad skin . . .

"I FORBID CATHARTICS and prescribed diet. It quickly brought about the desired result." (Note, above, chart showing intestines, where yeast works.)

"SKIN TROUBLES," says Dr. Antoine, "—like bad breath, coated tongue, loss of energy—are danger signals." Signs, usually, of sluggish intestines!

"In my opinion," he adds, "eating yeast is the most effective way to combat this evil. Skin disorders such as pimples and furunculosis (boils) respond to yeast's purifying effect."

Fleischmann's Yeast, you know, is not a medicine but a food—possessing very amazing properties.

Added to the diet—3 cakes a day—it actually stimulates and strengthens the intestines. It also softens the wastes that collect in the body daily, helping you get rid of them more easily.

Then, as yeast acts to expel the harmful poisons that form in your system, you notice you feel so much
