

INDIANA GRANTS FROM PWA GAIN SOLID SUPPORT

Hoosier Congress Delegation Will Urge Approval of Projects.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The solid support of the Democratic delegation in congress was enlisted today behind a number of applications for loans and grants for Indiana improvements, now pending before the public works administration.

John N. Dyer, member of the public works advisory board for Indiana, discussed the pending applications at a conference yesterday with Senator Frederick Van Nuys and all Hoosier members of the house.

Members of the delegation agreed to accompany Mr. Dyer in a visit to the office of Harold F. Ickes, secretary-administrator, and there urge greater speed in approving projects, and attempt to override the secretary's legal objections to loans to counties for road purposes.

The $1.50 tax limit law in Indiana is the stumbling block that is holding up several projects.

The conferees decided to concentrate on a few typical projects, including the completion of the war memorial in Indianapolis and a loan for a new sewer system in Washington, Ind.

CHICAGO EDITOR WARNS AGAINST BUREAUCRACY

Governmental Interference Said Facing Advertising.

Advertising faces the immediate future dangers of too much governmental interference with business and impending legislation to set up more bureaus. A. J. Fehrenbach, Chicago, told members of the Advertising Club yesterday at the Columbia Club.

Mr. Fehrenbach, advertising editor of the Chicago Journal of Commerce and formerly service editor of the Indianapolis branch of the Western Newspaper Union, praised the Roosevelt new deal program as a benefit to business.

He warned, however, that the government must not progress too far into the operation of business. The Tugwell bill, representing drastic revision of the federal pure food laws, was cited by Mr. Fehrenbach as an example of bureaucracy.

G. W. Cunningham, editor of the Sears, Roebuck & Co. catalog, will address the club next Thursday.

With the understanding that a loan would be negotiated, the county council made an appropriation of $35,000 to the fund at a meeting in January. M'CARL, ICKES END DEADLOCK ON SLUM PLANS

Several Projects Will Proceed at Once, Is Announcement.

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The government's $100,000,000 housing and slum clearance program deadlocked for several weeks by a ruling of Comptroller-General J. R. McCarl, will proceed without further delay.

Public works administrator Harold L. Ickes announced that after a "general understanding" with Mr. McCarl, he had ordered the Federal Emergency Housing Corporation to "go ahead with two or three pending projects."

The government soon will start the purchase of land in several communities, unnamed by Mr. Ickes.

Building will proceed when titles have been cleared, and operation of the new developments will be turned over to the housing corporation.

Mr. McCarl had refused to approve any expenditures by the housing corporation, holding that it had been created in contravention to principles of the federal Constitution.

Mr. Ickes said he expected a complete understanding with Mr. McCarl would result from further negotiations.

"We have," said Mr. Ickes, "arrived at a general understanding with Mr. McCarl which will make it possible to go ahead with the housing program."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Limitation of this year's wheat harvest to 45,580,000 acres, in conformity with the international agreement adopted at London last summer was sought by the farm administration through supplementary crop control measures today.

Methods of removing from production an additional 5,422,000 acres with a potential yield of about 73,000,000 bushels were studied. Proposals included:

1. Outright rental of wheat land.

Winter wheat already seeded would be plowed under in the same manner that growing cotton was destroyed last year.

Estimate Brings Decision

2. Increase in the reduction allotments of farmers already under contract and corresponding increase in benefit payments.

3. Removal of surplus varieties, particularly in the Pacific northwest, where the oversupply problem is keen.

Administrator Chester Davis said decision to seek additional reduction was based on an informal estimate by George E. Farrell, chief of the AAA wheat section, that the 1934 harvest would total 51,200,000 acres, 33,352,000 acres in winter wheat and 17,870,000 acres in spring varieties.

No Compulsory Control

Under the London agreement the United States is committed to limit harvested acreage to 85 per cent of the 1931-32-33 base of 53,933,000 acres.

The AAA's acreage reduction program, it is currently indicated, will result in a crop reduction of only 7.2 per cent instead of 18 per cent, as originally planned.

Violation of the London agreement will not be risked, but compulsory control measures are not under consideration, Mr. Davis said.
