

FLIERS CLIMBED OVER 13 MILES BEFORE CRASH

Russian Trio Reached Unprecedented Height, Barograph Shows.

By United Press
MOSCOW, Feb. 2.—A barograph ribbon, rescued from the wreckage of the gondola from the stratosphere, in which three valiant Soviet aeronauts plunged to their deaths, showed today that they had reached the unprecedented height of thirteen and two-thirds miles before they crashed.

The ribbon, registering pressure within the gondola, was intact and undamaged. It showed that Commander Paul Fedosenko and his two companions reached their highest altitude at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday. In addition to the barograph ribbon, the investigating commission also recovered the joint diary of the three men, Commander Fedosenko, Ilya Ususkin and Andrew Vasenko, who constructed the balloon.

In the opinion of the commission, the accident was caused by the "excessive and progressively increasing speed of descent, which started at 12:45 p. m. and became alarming at 4 p. m."

"At a height of 12,000 meters," the report said, "this caused a break in part of the ropes supporting the gondola and severed the remainder, whereupon the gondola became detached from the balloon and struck the ground with great force, at 4:23 p. m."

The balloonists were thus approximately seven and one-half miles above earth when their gondola became detached.

The reported radio message of information on the gondola was discontinued today.

The Order of Lenin was conferred upon them, posthumously, and the Soviet Aviation Society decided to erect a monument to them near the Moscow Air Club.

"In China fans are equally used by both sexes, those for men being larger and having particular forms," says Dr. Berthold Laufer of the Field Museum.

Fishing the Air

The most recent happenings in the nation's capital, in addition to chief events in Europe, South America and the far east, will be dramatized in the accurate and true-to-life fashion during the March of Time over WFBM and the Columbia network Friday from 7:30 to 8 p. m.

Frank Simon, director of the Ironmaster concert band, will direct his organization in one of his own compositions.

Initial program of the Legion-Times Golden Gloves boxing tournament Friday, will be broadcast by Steve Wilhelm over WFBM at 9:15 p. m. The next two programs, including the finals on Feb. 16, also will be on the air.

Diversified selections from musical comedy, light opera, and opera will again prove a capable vehicle for the combined talents of Mary Eastman soprano, Howard Barlow and his concert orchestra over the WABC-Columbia network, Friday from 9:45 to 10:15 p. m.
