

Pious Ideas Often Back Cruel Acts

Emma Goldman's Remark on Shot at Roosevelt
Is Illustrative.

BY GRETTA PALMER
Times Special Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Miss Emma Goldman is in town—stopping, we are informed by the papers, at the home of a friend, where the veteran anarchist interviewed the press.

"Some one asked her if she was pleased by the attempt to assassinate President Roosevelt at Miami, in which Mayor Cermak of Chicago was killed," according to a newspaper account.

"Now, listen," she said, "I would have to know what kind of man the assassin was, what he did for. To understand an act of violence, you must know the motive of the man."

"Perhaps, but even if the assassin was acting with the very highest motives Mayor Cermak is no less dead for that. In fact, the amount of suffering and slaughter which has been occasioned since the beginning of the world by persons acting from the very highest motives makes one inclined to prefer a world made up of those with less exacting ideals."

Inquisitors Thought of Heaven

It seems altogether probable that the Roman emperors threw the whole object lesson to the impiety involved in joining such a fanatical sect. It is almost certain that the leaders of the Spanish Inquisition felt that they were making themselves fine names in the annals of heaven.

The Salem divines who hanged every mad old woman in the county under the delusion that she was a witch meant very well, too. But the flames were no less hot on that account.

The most superb self-exaltation, indeed, seems an almost inevitable accompaniment to the maddest and cruellest orgies of history. Perhaps it is impossible for a man to retain his sanity and do these things unless he is convinced that he has the full approval of his gods—that the responsibility, after all, lies on their shoulders and not on his own. He is merely the instrument of vengeance.

Hitler Avoids Appeal to Self-Interest

The war which is carried on with the very finest humanitarian motives is no modern invention. "Making the world safe for democracy" is merely a refrain of the splendid slogans which the Crusaders mouthed as they made their way to Jerusalem—of the high-minded sense of a difficult duty well done with which men have labored in every pogrom in the history of the Jews. Even Hitler, you know, is too wise to appeal to the self-interest of his followers; he makes them all into staff officers in a holy war.

The man who is in possession of his senses does not torture or mutilate his fellows; he wishes them happiness and keeps his idealism to himself, as a pattern for his own individual conduct.

But if we wished to win a man or a nation to the commission of a completely inhuman form of abuse we should convince him that only by such an act of cruelty could he win the excessive nobility which weak men feel impelled to attain.

She Feared She Had a Serious Disorder

What She Really Had Was
"Acid Stomach"
Easily Corrected

Authorities now tell us that one of the frequent penalties of middle age is acid stomach. A rebellion, of the stomach, after years of faulty diet.

If you have Acid Stomach, you can easily trace it. Headaches, stomach pains after eating, "gas," "upsets," nausea are the usual indications.

To get rid of it, all you need do is this:

Take—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed. Or—you can take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets; substituting one tablet for each teaspoonful of the liquid and get the same result.

Try It—You Will Be Amazed

Try this and, chances are, it will make a great difference in your life. For this small dosage of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia acts to neutralize the stomach acids that cause your distress.

After-meal pains and discomfort go. You feel freedom from dull headaches. That "afternoon fog" you think is depletion or "nerves" is

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

BY W. E. MCKENNEY
Secretary American Bridge League

A GREAT deal has been said regarding biddable suits in contract and some authorities have set fairly high standards for four-card biddable suits.

However, in modern contract we find it very difficult to adhere to any particular rule governing biddable suits. What you should try to do is to find a fit with your partner. An example of how this was accomplished is given in today's hand, played by Mrs. A. C. Hoffmeier of Cleveland, newly elected president of the women's auxiliary of the American Bridge League.

West's negative double over the bid of one club informed his partner that he held support in hearts or spades, or had a side suit strong enough to permit him to play the hand at two.

Mrs. Hoffmeier in the East first responded with her five-card spade suit. Then, when her partner passed, she knew that the hands did not fit as yet. So she decided to try the other major—and we find a bid being made on a weak four-card spade in the hand. But since they are not vulnerable, the risk is not so great.

It was useless for West to bid three hearts—his proper bid was a jump to four hearts to take the strain off the hand, as partner had done a great deal in bidding two suits.

SOUTH cashed the king and queen of clubs and then, rather than set the club suit, led a small club. Of course, if North had trumped in with the jack of hearts, he would have won the trick.

When the hand was played, however, North trumped with the eight and Mrs. Hoffmeier in the East overtrumped with the ten. She then led a small heart and finessed the queen.

The ace of hearts was led in the hope that the hearts were split, as they were.

The king of spades was cashed and a small spade led. The third spade was ruffed in dummy with the seven of hearts, the nine of clubs was ruffed by Mrs. Hoffmeier with the five of hearts.

She cashed her two good spades, discarding two losing diamonds and two losing hearts.

On what looked like a very weak odd! Mrs. Hoffmeier had made five odd!

CWA ADVOCATES READY TO WAGE SENATE BATTLE

Continuance of Projects
Aim of Independents' Amendment.

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Advocates of continuance of the civil work administration and the pouring of huge new sums of government money into this form of emergency relief were prepared to wage a spirited battle on the issue when it reaches the senate today.

An effort of this kind proved abortive in the house and collapsed in the face of overwhelming administration support and imposition of a rule preventing amendments.

The situation in the senate is different. The bill under consideration passed by the house Monday with only one dissenting vote, is an appropriation of $950,000,000 for CWA and relief grants. The administration plan is to use $450,000,000 of this in gradual demobilization of the CWA, ending that part of the recovery program early in May.

Senate independents, believing that the throwing of some 4,000,000 workers back into the ranks of the unemployed would seriously handicap all recovery endeavors, plan an amendment which would appropriate $2,000,000,000 for continuance of the CWA.

The amendment would carry a total of $2,000,000,000, leaving intact the original plan for $500,000,000 for direct relief work.

The business in the senate is the John bill, aimed at curbing the avenues of delay now open to public utilities in rate cases through the federal court. However, on the ground of an emergency necessity, Majority Leader Joseph Robinson intends to have this bill aside temporarily so that the CWA appropriation measure may be considered.

Senator Robinson said last night he expected the CWA bill to be passed in the form favored by the administration.
