

MRS. JENCKES ASKS FARM AID FOR FOOD BILL

Congresswoman in Radio Talk Explains Merits of Her Measure.

Mrs. Virginia E. Jenckes, member of congress from the Sixth Indiana district, is appealing to farmers, and especially farm women, to support her in a campaign for adoption of the foods, drugs and cosmetics bill.

Asks Support of Women

"I am calling on all women throughout America to co-operate with me and support my measure. It was designed to protect and benefit our homes and also to be genuine assistance to American manufacturers and distributors of foods, drugs and cosmetics; who are loyal to public interests and patriotically co-operating to help the nation climb out of the depression."

"This bill," Mrs. Jenckes continued, "is not to be confused with the so-called Copeland and Tugwell bills to which there has been widespread and, as I believe, proper objection."

State Restaurant Men Ask to Draw Own Code

Impossible to Fill National Trade Pact, They Tell General Johnson.

Members of the Indiana State Restaurant Association yesterday, decided to present a petition for a code of their own to General Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, it was learned today.

Action of the restaurant men is based upon strenuous objection to the restaurant code conditionally signed by the President, it was learned. The restaurant association will ask that its own code be substituted for the national code which is to be placed in effect today.

Chief request in the new petition of the association, it was learned, is that a code be submitted that will contain variable provisions of hours and wages to cover variable conditions of operation and ability to pay with the plan to raise the standards of fair competition by eliminating "loss leaders and bait selling" in all types of places where food is sold.

RICKETS TREATMENT CURES TROPICAL FISH

Aquarium Invalids Given Vitamin D in Concentrated Form. CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—Too many of J. I. Spira's tropical fish were dying; they developed a sort of softening of the spine, grew pale, and at last turned belly-up. Dr. Sidney Brown borrowed an idea from his practice, and suggested giving them viosterol, which is ergosterol rayed with ultraviolet, which in turn constitutes it a concentrated form of the rickets-preventing vitamin D.

Mr. Spira carried out his friend's suggestion, adding the oil-dissolved viosterol to the regular fish ration of dried shrimp, beetle and ground fresh liver. The sick fish grew healthy again, although the ones that had become deformed did not recover normal shape. Mr. Spira relates his experience in the current issue of Science.

FAT SALARIES OF EXECUTIVES ARE REVEALED

Story of Big Pay and Heavy Bonuses Bared in Board Report.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The story of fat corporation salaries and bonuses that enriched executives during boom years, and in some cases continued through the depression, was laid before the senate yesterday in a 5,400-page report by the federal trade commission.

One of the largest payments revealed was that of President Eugene Grace of the Bethlehem Steel Company, who, in 1929, received a salary of $12,000 and a bonus of $1,623,753. In 1929 he received $180,000 salary and no bonus.

The commission's report was in response to a senate resolution. It covered salaries and bonuses paid by 887 corporations whose stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange or the New York Curb Exchange. Following are 1929 and 1932 salaries and bonuses listed for some major companies:

American Machinery and Foundry Company—L. Patterson, president, 1929 salary, $50,000 and bonus, $220,980; 1932 salary, $42,500, bonus $101,282. American Smelting and Refining Company—F. H. Brownell, president, 1929 salary $115,000, and bonus $8,000; 1932 salary, $100,600, no bonus.

American Tobacco Company—G. W. Hill, president, 1929 salary, $144,500 and bonus $46,114; 1932 salary, $210,000 and bonus, $705,607. Anaconda Copper Company—C. F. Kelly, president, 1929 salary, $345,000 and bonus $3,610; 1932 salary, $249,232, bonus $3,438.

Bethlehem Steel Company—E. G. Grace, president, 1929 salary, $12,000, bonus $1,623,753; 1932 salary, $180,000 and no bonus. C. M. Schwab, chairman, 1929 salary, $150,000 and no bonus; 1932 salary, $250,000 and no bonus.

Coca-Cola Company—R. W. Woodruff, president, 1929 salary, $109,000 and bonus, $60,000; 1932 salary, $120,000 and no bonus. E. I. du Pont Nemours & Company—Du Pont, president, 1929 salary, $99,999 and bonus, $1,600; 1932 salary, $84,750 and $240 bonus.

Firestone Tire and Rubber Company—Harvey S. Firestone, president, 1929 salary, $100,000, no bonus; 1932 salary, $64,000, no bonus. General Foods Corporation—C. M. Chester Jr., president, 1929 salary, $75,000, bonus, $131,324; 1932 salary, $69,325, bonus $1,320.

COOK SMASHES AT AIR MAIL CANCELLATION

'Slick Political Move,' Hints Legion Flier at G. O. P. Meeting.

Insinuations that the cancellation of air mail contracts was a "slick political move" were hurled last night by Lieutenant-Colonel H. Weir Cook, chairman of the American Legion aeronautics commission, at a meeting of the Irvington Republican Club.

Stating that he was basing his opinions on accounts read in the newspapers, Mr. Cook said the government's allegation of collusion probably was a political maneuver to pave the way for the cancellation of the private contracts.

"Don't misunderstand me," the speaker said, "I don't know I made one trip to Washington recently and I don't want to make another."

Recently, Mr. Cook was called to Washington as a grand jury witness in connection with an investigation of a war department automobile truck contract.

Termining the charges made by Postmaster-General James A. Farley against the aviation company officials at the time they abrogated the contracts as "ridiculous," Mr. Cook stated that there was no need for collusion among them.

Most of the aviation company officers already had their air mail contracts before they attended the meeting, he said.

Mr. Cook said that nothing will come of the air mail investigation except ammunition for use in the political campaign this fall.

Pliny H. Wolfard, vice-president of the club, presided.

SLAIN 'PROBERS' FILES POINTS TO STAVISKY AIDS

Swindler Paid $3,000,000 to Halt Prosecution, Papers Show.

PARIS, Feb. 27.—Magistrate Albert Prince, whose testimony in the Stavisky banking scandal threatened run to a score of politicians, probably was alive when he was tied to the railway tracks at Dijon, surgeons reported today.

But if, as the government believes, Prince was murdered to silence him a few hours before he was to have started the testimony calculated to blast the careers of some of the most prominent men in politics, his murder was in vain.

Important Stavisky documents were missing from his yellow leather brief case found near his body. But he spoke as from the grave today. A parliamentary commission of forty-four members, investigating connection of politicians with Alexandre Stavisky, fraudulent banker, was presented by the ministry of justice with a voluminous dossier containing a detailed report which Prince finished just before his fatal trip to Dijon.

This report told all that can now be known of the manner in which the fraudulent banker obtained nineteen adjournments of a fraud charge brought against him in 1926.

Time after time, over a period of nearly eight years, Stavisky obtained adjournments of the case.

At the same time he was socially friendly with politicians of high degree—and was spending money on a scale that led to the $30,000,000 failure of his Credit Municipal Bayonne.

The parliamentary commission named by the new Doumergue government to investigate the case held its first meeting yesterday. It learned the names of beneficiaries of checks totaling more than $30,000,000 issued by Stavisky.

PRESIDENT OBJECTS: SMILE FADES FROM OFFICIAL PORTRAIT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—President Roosevelt does not want his official portrait, which will hang in the White House, to show him with his practically omnipresent smile.

Mrs. Bay Emmett Rand painted the portrait, with a smile on the President's face, last summer. The President wanted the smile erased. When the mouth was changed, no one liked the picture, and so Mrs. Rand continued working on it.

THREE COMMUNISTS DEPORTED BY NAZIS

Bulgarians Acquitted in Reichstag Fire Sent to Moscow. BERLIN, Feb. 27.—Three Bulgarian Communists, acquitted Dec. 23 of complicity in the Reichstag burning and since held by secret police, were freed today.

The Bulgarians were said to have been sent by airplane to Moscow. They are Georg Dimitroff, leader of the Bulgarian Communist party; Wassil Taneff and Blagoi Popoff.

Ernest Torgler, German Communist leader acquitted with the Bulgarians, still is held.
