

85 HOOSIERS INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

Federal Probers Name Six Muncie Men in Bogus Money Charge.

Eighty-five persons were indicted by the federal jury yesterday in the report made to Federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell.

Among those indicted were six Muncie men who are alleged to have flooded Indiana with hundreds of dollars of counterfeit money bought in New York and circulated in the state through a counterfeiting ring.

Those named in the Muncie conspiracy are Robert Campbell, Orville Himes, Cecil Swain, Ralph Richardson, Robert Shephard and Floyd Foster, alias Frank Fogarty.

Mrs. Mae K. Brinton, former cashier of the First National bank of Clay City, was indicted on an embezzlement charge. She is alleged to have diverted approximately $1,500 from the bank's funds for her own use.

Among those charged with embezzlement are three Indianapolis postal carriers. They are Stephen H. Byrum, Walter Wilson, 1437 North Holmes, a downtown carrier, and Raymond F. Sheldon, former carrier out of the East Michigan street station.

Sixty-one indictments were returned by the grand jury after a week of investigation. Approximately the same number of "no bills" were returned. The defendants will be arraigned before Judge Baltzell on March 21.

POLICE ORDER AUTO LICENSES MADE LEGIBLE

Chief Acts to Stop Escape of Criminals in Cars With Dirty Tags.

Another blow was struck at the criminal element when Chief Michael Morrissey issued orders today to his department to stop motorists whose license plates are illegible.

Chief Morrissey, in issuing his order, pointed out that it is a common practice for criminals to smear the numbers on their license tags so that they can not be read at a distance.

He cited instances in which hit-run drivers have escaped arrest because their plates were illegible and of robberies in which bandits were able to flee because of dirty tags.

The law will be put into force, which states that plates must be kept clean and legible for a distance of sixty feet day and night. The rear plate must be so lighted that it can be read at that distance at night, the law requires.

The chief said: "I believe that the citizens of Indianapolis will respond to the appeal for clean plates in such a manner that within a few days a dirty license plate will arouse suspicion in any part of the city where it may appear."
