Daunted by Dillinger

By Times Special

KOKOMO, March 14.—Political observers say that several Kokomo women who had intended to seek nominations for offices in the May primary have decided not to become candidates as a result of the escape of John Dillinger, bandit from the Lake county jail at Crown Point.

The women, it is said, fear that public sentiment is against women in office, basing their belief on criticism of Mrs. Lillian Holley, Lake county sheriff.

Conceding that the sheriff's office is hardly a woman should hold, the Kokomo feminist group asserts women could serve well in many other offices.

DILLINGER JURY BEGINS PROBE OF JAIL BREAK

Murray Recalls References to Himself in Asking Vigorous Inquiry.

By United Press

TERRE HAUTE, March 14.—After a series of delays necessitated by failure to seat a grand jury, investigation of John Dillinger's escape from the Lake county jail was undertaken today.

Personnel of the jury was completed late yesterday when Mrs. Louise Young, wife of a Crown Point bank employee, was qualified as the sixth juror.

In his charge to the grand jury, Judge William J. Murray of criminal court demanded a thorough investigation of the sensational escape.

"It has been inferred that graft or collusion, or both, were responsible for the break," Judge Murray said.

Permits Full Inquiry

"It has been said that politics might have something to do with it. It has been inferred that neglect and cowardice were responsible and I now charge you members of the grand jury that it is your duty to make full and careful investigation of all facts obtainable and in addition to any indictment, if any is found, to report to this court your finding concerning the entire affair."

"I also charge you that owing to the fact that one of the officers of this court, who is an appointee of myself and has been named in connection with said jail break and notwithstanding that you are a grand jury of this court, I urge you to make the most vigorous inquiry of that particular phase of the investigation."

"As judge of this court, having refused to make an order for transfer of prisoner Dillinger from the Lake county jail to the Michigan City prison on petition of the sheriff and the insistence of the prosecutor, having been criticised for refusing said request, I therefore request you to make an examination of said jail and report to me whether or not in your opinion said jail is in a proper place to harbor hardened criminals under proper guard."

Broad Powers Outlined

"If you find that it is not, I suggest that you include in your report recommendations for such additions or remodeling as you may find necessary. I also charge that it is your duty, if you can from this investigation, to name the party or parties responsible for said jail-break, whether they are criminally liable or not, and, if you can from your investigation, suggest ways and means of preventing a similar occurrence."

Among the chief witnesses are Matt Brown, a guard, and James Posey, negro cell mate of Herbert Youngblood, who escaped with Dillinger.

Two men are under arrest on charges of aiding the escape. They are Sam Cahoon, a turnkey, and Ernest Blunk, a deputy sheriff employed by Judge Murray's court as fingerprint expert in the jail.

13 SAILORS ON JAPANESE SHIP FOUND ALIVE

100 Others on Capsized
Vessel Believed Dead;
45 Bodies Found.

By United Press

SOSEBO NAVAL BASE, Japan, March 14.—Japanese navy officials late today abandoned hopes of finding more than thirteen sailors alive in the water-filled hold of the torpedo boat Tomozuru, which suddenly capsized during naval maneuvers.

The thirteen survivors of the crew of 113 officers and men were rushed to hospitals soon after they had been delivered from the dark, foul- aired compartments in which they had been trapped for thirty hours or more. Some of them were unconscious.

Continued search of the interior of the warship convinced authorities that the fifty-five men still unaccounted for had perished, either by suffocation within the ship itself or by drowning. The searchers found forty-five bodies in the hold.

The formal investigation of the disaster was held in abeyance until the exact toll of the accident could be determined.

When word was first flashed that the Tomozuru, newest fighting unit of the imperial navy, had overturned, it was believed that all aboard had perished. But when the boat was towed here, with its keel upright, faint tappings were heard on its steel walls. The boat was righted and three survivors plucked from a hatch.

He said that the Tomozuru, moving proudly to its appointed place in the maneuver, was struck suddenly by a terrific wave. Darkness swiftly descended on the interior. The three men, trained for work in heating and ventilation.
