

WHOLE M'NUTT SCHEME AWFUL. CRY OF G. O. P.

Governor a Democrat Which May Explain Club's Opposition.

All criticism ever levied against the administration of Governor Paul V. McNutt was bundled together and adopted as a platform by the Irvington Republican Club last night.

Governor McNutt is a Democrat. The club members opposed centralization of power into the hands of the Governor; appointment of the attorney-general, and beer importers. They approved the "merit system" for state police, return of power to the two-year elective officials and utility rate making under the "prudent investment" plan.

Return of the bipartisan board control of state institutions also was recommended.

Merrill J. Woods, former district commander of the American Legion, charged that Governor McNutt rose to power through using the legion for political purposes.

All political machines in Indiana have been constructed through some fraternal organization, he declared, and pointed out that weakening of the order has resulted in each case.

Republican primary candidates who spoke were Vinson H. Manifold, juvenile court judge; Walter L. Carney, Superior Room 5; Frank Ott, county commissioner, Second district, and James L. Kingsbury, Warren township assessor.

IMPROVEMENT SHOWN IN INDIANA BUSINESS

Employment Higher Than Last Year, Review Reports.

By United Press
BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 20.—General improvement in Indiana business during February was reported today in the current issue of the Indiana Business Review.

Employment other than CWA was well above the corresponding months of one and two years ago, the report said.

Substantial improvement was reported in steel mill operations, with much of the upturn in steel output built around increasing automotive demand.

More coal was mined in Indiana during the last month than in any other February since 1930, the report showed.

NAVY BILL READY FOR CONGRESS APPROVAL

Measure Expected to Meet Favor of Both Houses.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, March 20.—The Vinson-Trammell bill providing for building the American navy up to treaty strength was ready today for final approval by congress.

House and senate conferees agreed on an acceptable form of the measure last night. The bill provides for construction of 102 ships at a cost of $400,000,000 to $900,000,000 and 1,184 airplanes at a cost of $96,000,000.

Both houses are expected to approve the measure before the week is out.

INSULL HOPES GET SETBACK

Abyssinia Puts Its Ban on Fleeing Utilities
Magnate.

By United Press
ADDIS ABABA, Abyssinia, March 20.—One of Samuel Insull's hopes as a place of refuge seemed illusory today when authorities told the United Press he had not obtained a passport visa and would be refused one if he asked for it.

It was said that Insull would not be permitted to enter the country without a visa and that it had been decided not to give him one because of the legal complications involved.

Still on High Seas

By United Press
ATHENS, March 20.—Samuel Insull continued his Mediterranean cruise in unpleasant weather today, while he sought a place of refuge in a world that seemed smaller each day as additional countries denied their ports to him.

There was no specific word of him. Private advices were that the Magnate had been forced to take shelter among the Aegean islands because of rough seas and so was delayed.

Egypt's Bars Are Up

By United Press
PORT SAID, Egypt, March 20.—Egyptian authorities watched the Mediterranean closely today to prevent a secret landing by Samuel Insull at an Egyptian port.

FEDERAL MEN AID DILLINGER BREAK INQUIRY

U. S. Grand Jury May Act
in Investigation, Lutz Declares.

Entrance of federal authorities into the Dillinger jail break case in Lake county was reported today by Attorney-General Philip Lutz Jr., upon reception of a letter from Edward Barce, deputy attorney-general, who is conducting the investigation for Governor Paul V. McNutt.

"Mr. Barce reported that he now is working with federal men in the case, but gave no details in the letter," Mr. Lutz said. He suggested that there might be federal grand jury action.

Meanwhile, "politics" was being offered as the keynote to the mystery surrounding the so-called "kidnaping" of Ernest Blunk, Dillinger jail guard, by state police on orders of the attorney-general's office.

This idea advanced from the first was given increased support today when two stenographers from the office of Attorney-General Lutz went to Lake county to appear before the grand jury investigating the escape of John Dillinger from the Crown Point jail.

They are Mrs. Virginia Thornbohn and Miss Lorraine Uphouse, who are said to have typed some testimony wrung from Blunk when he was in city prison here with officials denying knowledge of his whereabouts.

Leach Defends Move

Back of all this mystery is the long standing battle between Captain Matt Leach of the state police force and Prosecutor Robert G. Estill of Lake county.

Captain Leach, whose home is in Gary, today staunchly defended the right of his men to bring Blunk here for questioning and of the attorney-general's office to refuse to explain why.

"This is state police headquarters and we can bring any one here that we arrest in any section of the state," Captain Leach said.

Estill Criticized McNutt

After the capture of Dillinger by Tucson police, Mr. Estill criticized both Captain Leach and Governor Paul V. McNutt as "publicity seekers." He then announced that he was a candidate for re-election. The Governor's forces were not popular in Lake county.

Then Dillinger got away and Mr. Estill's photograph with his arm around him put him in the hole. Today he is quoted as saying that he still is a candidate.

State Senator Fred Egan has the backing of McNutt against him.

Factions in Party

Then there is Judge William J. Murray of the Lake criminal court, who took the blame for not putting Dillinger in the Michigan City prison, representing another Democratic faction.

So the three factions within the party in the normally Republican county have caused a political brew which was being blamed today as the reason for wanting to bring Blunk here.

Any forthright answers in the matter can not be obtained from either the Governor's office or Mr. Lutz, who during the Blunk business has developed the perfect poker face.

15 NEW CARS ARE ORDERED

New Trolleys to Be Placed in Service July 1,
Officials Say.

Purchase of fifteen additional modern street cars for use on the Central avenue line was announced today by Charles W. Chase, Indianapolis Railways president. The new cars will be in service about July 1.

This order brings the total of new street cars to be installed in the city during 1934 to sixty-five. Although it originally was intended to use the fifty cars purchased in September on the Washington, College and Central lines, improved business conditions made it necessary to use the entire group on the Washington and College lines.

Cost of the fifteen additional cars will be approximately $300,000, making the aggregate cost of improvements and additions made in 1934 approximately $7,850,000. Total improvements cost since the reorganization of the company in July, 1932, is approximately $4,100,000.

First of the eighty new trackless trolley cars are due to arrive here during April. The company's improvement program calls for replacement of street cars by trackless trolleys on thirteen present street car lines.

Eight new projects, employing approximately 300 men and with an estimated total pay roll of $96,622, were approved today by the state civil works administration.

MATHERS ASKS VENUE CHANGE IN DEATH TRIAL

Alleged Slayer of Pastor
Seeks Delay, Claims
Judge Prejudiced.

Change of venue from Marion county was sought yesterday by Judson L. Stark, attorney for Theodore Mathers, alleged trigger man in the $10 murder of the Rev. Gaylord V. Saunders, former Wabash Methodist minister.

Mathers signed a change of venue petition alleging that Criminal Judge Frank P. Baker, before whom the case was to be tried March 27, was prejudiced against him.

A change of venue is mandatory in a murder case, if charges of prejudice by the judge or by residents of the county are made.

Mr. Stark, however, stated publicly that he was demanding the venue change because Judge Baker would not grant him sufficient time in which to prepare for trial.

Judge Baker, in granting the petition on the prejudice charge, pointed out that Mr. Stark had declared that the "real reason" for the request was his complaint that he had not been afforded sufficient time to prepare his defense.

Declaring that Mr. Stark has known the date of the trial since March 2, Judge Baker flayed tactics of defense attorneys in criminal cases in taking changes of venue "at the last minute" and in taking other dilatory measures to delay trials.

The judge announced that Mrs. Neoma Saunders, widow of the slain minister, will face trial in criminal court March 27, original date of Mathers' trial, for her alleged part in the crime.
