AMERICA STILL FREE, SAYS EMMA GOLDMAN, ATTACKING DICTATORS

By United Press

CHICAGO, March 23.—Emma Goldman, the radical firebrand of the mauve decade, came back with a message of "thrilling American freedom" last night to the scene of the bloody Haymarket riots where she first espoused the cause of anarchy.

Emma still clung to the framework of her anarchistic philosophy. Last night, however, she politely rallied her indignations against dictators in Italy, Germany, and Soviet Russia. She spoke most bitterly against Russia, the land she once hailed as Utopia.

It was at the close of her formal lecture in which she denounced Mussolini, Hitler and Stalin that Emma expressed her changed view of this country.

"You are still free in America," she said. "You are free to come here and listen to me with no army of police descending on you. They won't drive you out for subversive activities because of it. No spies enter your homes for incriminating documents. No legalized assassins shoot you down on the streets."

man and Clay county Democratic chairman, is in charge. He is Mr. Minton's campaign manager and was termed by Pleas Greenlee, McNutt patronage secretary, as "the best political organizer in the state of Indiana."

Mr. Minton is the second full time headquarters to be opened here.

R. Earl Peters, Ft. Wayne, former Democratic state chairman, has for some time maintained headquarters for his senatorial campaign in the Union Hotel and Trust building.

Mr. Minton is public counselor with the public service commission. He formerly was an attorney at New Albany and still has his home there.

ADAMS BETTER BUT CONSENTS TO 'FURLOUGH'

Stotsenburg Stays in Road Post: Difference With McNutt Recalled.

James D. Adams, Columbia City, was back at the state house today, following a critical illness, but he will not at once take up his duties as chairman of the state highway commission.

This announcement came from Governor Paul V. McNutt, following a conference with Mr. Adams in the chief executive's office.

Evan Stotsenburg, New Albany, acting commission chairman, will remain in charge, the Governor said. He stressed the point that this arrangement was agreeable with Mr. Adams, who "wants to get his strength back."

The continuance of Mr. Stotsenburg in the chairmanship revived the reports of several months ago that Mr. Adams and the Governor were not seeing eye to eye on both commission and political affairs.

That relations are strained was denied by the Governor's office. Mr. Adams, who is a banker and publisher, was one of the speakers at the opening of the senatorial campaign of R. Earl Peters at Ft. Wayne. Mr. Peters, former state chairman, and Governor McNutt are at loggerheads.

Several weeks ago Mr. Adams went to Florida for a winter vacation. Since his return he has been in the hospital, having been stricken on the train en route here.

Third commission member is John Wheeler, Crown Point, a "McNutt Republican."
