

BEECH GROVE CLUB TO STUDY LIGHT PROBLEM

Civic League to Consider Municipal Plant at Session Monday.

Discussion on the advisability of establishing a municipal electric plant in Beech Grove will take place at the meeting of the Beech Grove Civic League Monday night.

Bryon Saunders, president of the organization, said that there was some feeling that the rates charged by the Indianapolis Power and Light Company were too high.

Although Indianapolis residents recently received an 8 per cent reduction in rates, Beech Grove residents received only a 5 per cent reduction, it was said.

The league has investigated municipally-owned plants in other Indiana cities. Results of the survey will be discussed at the meeting.

The league also will discuss means of obtaining improved street car and bus service in Beech Grove.

ZIONIST CHIEF HONORED IN KIRSHBAUM MEETING

Group Marks 70th Birthday of Menahem Ussishkin.

"Hope for the future has enabled Jews to survive persecutions for 2,000 years," said Rabbi S. Swirski, rabbi of B'nai Abraham, Terre Haute, last night in a meeting at the Kirshbaum Community center sponsored by the Indianapolis district and the Senior and Junior Hadassah.

The meeting celebrated the seventieth birthday of Menahem Ussishkin, world head of the Jewish national fund and leader in the Zionist movement which has caused nearly 200,000 Jews to settle in Palestine. The Jewish national fund has purchased 90,000 acres of land in that country.

STATESMANSHIP and RELIGION

By ...
Henry A.
Wallace

The ninth of a series about the creed of a new and greater America.

CHAPTER NINE John Knox

JOHN WESLEY more than a hundred years ago perceived the essential nature of this dilemma when he said in one of his sermons, "I fear whenever riches have increased, the essence of religion has decreased in the same proportion. Therefore, I do not see how it is possible, in the nature of things, for any revival of true religion to continue long. For religion must necessarily produce both industry and frugality, and these can not but produce riches. But, as riches increase, so will pride, anger and love of the world in all its branches." Wesley's solution was to exhort the brethren to gain as much as possible and then glorify God by giving.

John Knox of Scotland more definitely felt himself to be a prophet than either Calvin or Luther.

He was a close student of the more violent parts of the Old Testament and inasmuch as he suffered on various occasions, he spoke from time to time about Jezebel. When Mary Tudor was ruling England and Mary of Guise was an exile from home, he wrote out of the indignation of his heart a blast against the monstrous government of women, saying, "I am assured that it is more than a monster in nature that a woman shall reign and have empire over man. . . . Cursed Jezebel of England with the pestilence and detestable generation of papists, make no little brag and boast that they have triumphed not only against Wyatt, but also against all such as have enterprises against them or their proceedings." I fear not to say that the day of vengeance, which should apprehend that horrible monster Jezebel of England, is already appointed in the counsel of the Eternal."

WHEN Mary of England died and Elizabeth came to the throne, John Knox immediately wanted to come to England, where under Edward VI, he had been active in the Anglican Church, but it happened that Elizabeth, though a Protestant, was also a woman and she looked on the Knox document as traitorous.

Because of the fact that it was published in Geneva, she let Calvin know about it. He thereupon became exceedingly annoyed with what he called the thoughtless arrogance of one individual. Knox was thinking about his own feelings relative to the British and Scotch situation and not giving a thought to the peril he was causing French Protestants.

One of these, a minister, wrote to Calvin in regard to the Knox statement, "Women are unworthy to reign. Christians must protect themselves by arms against tyrants" as follows: "I fear that Knox may fill all Scotland with his madness. He is said to have a boon companion at Geneva, whom we hear that the people at Dieppe have called to be their minister. If he be infected with such opinions, for Christ's sake pray that he be not sent; or if he has already departed, warn the Dieppe people to beware of him."

KNOX, like Luther, hated the Anabaptists fully as much as the Papists. They had a ten-

HOME SHOW TO BE READY FOR OPENING FRIDAY

Several Hundred Attend Pom Pom Dinner at Fairground.

Several hundred men and women, interested in success of the 1934 Home Complete Exposition, attended the annual "Pom Pom" dinner and preview of the show last night in the Manufacturers building at the state fairgrounds.

Visitors were assured that, although the model home was uncompleted, as were the gardens and exhibition booths, Friday, the opening day, would find every detail complete.

WALTER M. EVANS, president of the Indianapolis Home Show, opened the program, and Lawrence V. Sheridan was toastmaster.

tendency toward pacifism and socialism together with a belief in the natural goodness of man and of nature. They did not believe it necessary to rely on the Scriptures as the sole objective source of religious inspiration.

Doubtless you and I would much prefer associating with Anabaptists to Knox and Calvin, but I am Calvinistic enough to believe that it may have been a part of divine Providence to permit Calvinism to triumph because it had in it more driving power to conquer the new world rapidly than would have been the case with a gentler, more humane faith.

Of all the reformers, Knox seems to have been the most violent. He refers to an Anabaptist adversary as a liar, a blasphemer and a devil incarnate. Calvin furnished John Knox with many of his intellectual weapons but not with his extraordinary capacity for emotional fury. When he returned to Scotland, he preached against the idolatry of the Baptists and nowhere in all Europe were the statues of Christ, the Virgin and the Saints more completely destroyed.

The Scottish mobs felt that only by destroying the symbol of the papacy could they destroy the affection of the people for a ritual in which they had once had faith.

RADIO SINGER NAMED IN ALIENATION ACTION

Frank Parker Sued for $60,000 by L. G. Christy.

By United Press

NEW YORK, April 4.—Frank Parker, radio singer, is expected to enter a general denial to the affidavit filed yesterday by Louis G. Christy, suing him for $60,000 charging alienation of affection.

Mr. Christy alleged that his wife Anna Green Christy, former stage star, is living with him "because she has no other place to go." But that she is "madly infatuated and in love with the defendant."

In his affidavit Mr. Christy said: "She listens to him daily on the radio, never missing a program, and has ceased, failed and refused to act as my wife. She openly avows that she no longer professes any love or affection for me. She remains in my home as a housekeeper and as a matter of convenience."

HAYES PRAISES VETO DEFEAT

Pension Restoration Saved Nation $100,000,000, Legion Head Says.

Passage of the law restoring veterans' pensions saved the country $100,000,000 in special bills which would be passed during the last days of congress, Edward A. Hayes, national commander of the American Legion, declared last night.

The legislation, passed over the President's veto, merely restored $9,312,500 presumptive World war service cases, Commander Hayes declared.

"The representatives and the senators are the spokesmen of the people," Mr. Hayes declared. "Their action in overwhelmingly passing this just legislation has done other things. It is the most effective answer to the traducers of the legion and the veteran, because its decisive

FORGER PUNISHED BY AMPUTATION OF ARMS DIES IN GUN MISHAP

By United Press

GUADALAJARA, Mexico, April 4.—Jesus Nino, a forger-counterfeiter of such superlative skill that authorities had both of his arms amputated as the only means of stopping his activities, died last night, victim of an accidental shooting.

After his arms were amputated Nino learned to write by wielding a pen with his teeth. He became a well known author. His book, "Oregon's Place in History," was a best seller.

The amputation, perhaps the most unusual legal punishment inflicted since the middle ages in the western world, was decreed by Guatemalan courts.

veto indicates the will of the majority of American citizens."

Commander Hayes was honored guest at a past post commanders dinner at the Antlers hotel last night. The meeting was presided over by Wayne M. (Army) Armstrong, state commander.

CITY WOMEN REQUEST BAN ON WOODEN GUNS

Cause Children to Imitate Gunmen, Council Declares.

Indianapolis Council of Women meeting today at the Irvington M. E. church urged the adoption of a law prohibiting the manufacture or sale of wooden guns or pistols. The resolution asserted the use of wooden or toy weapons caused children to imitate gunmen or gangsters and had unwholesome influences on their later life.

Origin of the resolution was the sensational escape of John Dillinger, public enemy No. 1, from the Crown Point jail with a wooden stick resembling a pistol.
