'Better Have Criminals Out
Than Officials In,' He Says.

By Times Special
GARY, Ind., April 10.—"Better to have known criminals break out of prison than Governors and other trusted public officials breaking in," Sherman Minton, public counselor with the public service commission, told the Junior Democratic Club here last night.

Mr. Minton's speech was part of his campaign for nomination for the United States senate.

"The glory of Indiana rapidly will survive the day when a few convicts escaped prison, but it will never live down the ignominious era in which public officials broke into penitentiaries and surrendered their trusts to an invisible tyrant," Mr. Minton declared.

"The disgrace which forever will besmirch the pages of Hoosier history tells how one of our Governors broke into the penitentiary, not for robbing one or two banks, but for victimizing hundreds of them; it tells how a former Republican state chairman likewise went to prison and of how the dictator to another Republican state administration was convicted of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment, and of how the Governor who was his closest friend, pleaded the statue of limitations to avoid trial on criminal charges.

"Besides those disgraceful chapters—perpetually a blot upon the state of Indiana and an unending source of shame to all Hoosierdom and all posterity to come—the episodes of the 1932 prison break and John Dillinger's wooden gun are mere incidents in a revolving account of criminal adventures. I have no apologies to offer for the conditions of law enforcement which have made it easy for desperate men to escape. That has happened in other states and it has been a warning for authorities to clamp down and for taxpayers to give them better support.

"But I do apologize wherever I go for the shame of McCray, of Jackson, of D. C. Stephenson and for that once honorable political party which capitulated to the forces of corruption, bigotry and oppression; that party which forever lost its right to be trusted with privileges of the people; that association of selfish interests and special privilege which now seeks to discredit honorable public officials by stooping to low tricks of prejudice.

"Providence knows that had not the Democratic party stepped in to the rescue of public rights when it did, this country would have seen something much worse than Dr. Wirt's 'bloodless revolution.'

AUTO STRIKERS ACCEPT TERMS OF JOHNSON AID

Settlement Permits Return of 18,000 Workers in Hudson Plant.

By United Press

DETROIT, April 10.—The turbulent caldron of automobile industry labor problems calmed to a simmer today as a second major strike threatening a partial shutdown of the industry came to a settlement.

The pinch-hitting of Edward P. McGrady, assistant to General Hugh S. Johnson, helped bring about an agreement between 5,000 strikers and the Motor Products Corporation, sending all but 200 of the strikers back to work at a 10 per cent increase in pay.

With the resumption of work in the Motor Products Corporation, 18,000 employees of the Hudson Motor Company expected to return to work within twenty-four hours. Their plant was forced to close down yesterday when the flow of parts from the products company was beginning to threaten the output of other companies. The strikers were members of an American Federation of Labor union.

President Roosevelt's newly created Automobile Labor Board was forced to retire in favor of Mr. McGrady before the final settlement was reached. In addition to the pay increase the workers were assured of arbitration of piece work rates and protection of the seniority rights of strikers.

The 200 holdouts voted to seek a separate agreement. They are members of the tool and die workers division of the Mechanics' Education Association of America. This society has informed the officials of sixty tool and die plants that it will order a strike Thursday midnight unless its demands for a 20 per cent wage increase and a thirty-six-hour five-day week are met.

The society claims 18,000 members. A prolonged strike of tool and die workers would cripple the automobile industry in its boom period. Officials of the society and plant operators have arranged a conference for Wednesday.

The automobile labor board, meanwhile, learned that 1,700 employees of the Campbell, Wyant and Cannon foundry at Muskegon, Mich., have walked out. The foundry supplies castings for automobile plants.
