

I. C. C. SHOULD RUN AIR MAIL, SAYS EXPERT

Investigation Calls Brown's Action on Bids 'High-Handed.'

By Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance
WASHINGTON, April 12.—Recommendations that control of air mail be transferred to the interstate commerce commission were made today by the Brookings institution in an exhaustive study of the entire subject of air transportation.

The recent action of President Roosevelt in ordering cancellation of air mail contracts is not commented upon specifically by Dr. Paul T. Davis, author of the study, but he says former Postmaster-General Walter F. Brown disregarded the intent of congress relative to competitive bidding in a "very flagrant, and high-handed manner." Dr. Davis is convinced there was collusion in the bidding for the two transcontinental routes.

Pending the removal of control over air mail from the postoffice department to the I. C. C., Dr. Davis recommends that the interstate commerce commission pass temporary legislation that will remove the ban on mail carrying by the former operators.

His analysis, "The Economics of Air Mail Transportation," is the latest scientific treatise on public problems to be published by the Brookings institution, an organization of economists devoted to the study of public questions. It discloses that the net deficit on air mail service has reached $75,000,000, largely through subsidies paid to operators, many of a secret nature.

While Dr. Davis admits that any plan for the resumption of air mail service under private operation will probably involve some element of passenger subsidy, he says that recent payments to contractors were excessive. One of the main defects of the postoffice department's operation was its failure to make sufficient investigations into operating costs or to require carriers to publish financial reports.

Dr. Davis says that the safeguards requisite to protecting the public from too high subsidies and improper charges by air mail operators present such a complex administrative problem that he is convinced the postoffice department is not equipped to handle it properly.

FATHER SPURNS BOY WHO LURED BABY TO DEATH

'Let Him Hang,' He Says as Son Repeats Story to Grand Jury.

By United Press

CHICAGO, April 12.—George Rogalski, 13, schoolboy who lured Dorette Zietlow, 2½, to a livery stable loft, where she suffered fatal exposure, was held in Cook county jail today for a sanity hearing and possible murder charges.

Young Rogalski seemed unworried while his father, Michael Rogalski, showed even less concern. After a coroner's jury recommended that the boy be held on murder charges, the father said he could not afford a lawyer.

"I make only $18 a week in a bakery shop. Let them hang him, if that's what he deserves. I haven't any money to hire a lawyer," Rogalski said.

The boy repeated his story of beguiling little, golden-haired Dorette from her grandmother's home to the stable for the grand jury. He was worried at the officials' warning that anything he said would be used against him, but only hesitated a minute until some comprehension of what was meant came to him.

He retold of leading the child by the hand to the loft of the building where he understood her "to look at her because she was pretty."

Assistant State's Attorney Richard Regan said that if a complete mental examination shows that the boy is sane, that regular procedure for murder will follow. In Illinois a possible electrocution might follow.

Dorette died in St. Elizabeth's hospital after fifty-one hours of exposure, hunger and thirst. Young Rogalski claimed he was afraid to care for her because he previously "got in trouble" because of molesting a 5-year-old girl. He was held in a detention home for five weeks and then released as "cured."

David Zietlow, the baby's father, said he would not ask that the boy be prosecuted for murder.

"He's too young for that," Zietlow said.

ADVANTAGES OF FORD CLEAR-VISION VENTILATION
1. Greater safety and ease in driving because there are no exterior parts to obstruct vision.
2. Convenient individual control—front and rear.
3. Windshield can be opened to give more air as needed. This means cooler driving in summer.
4. Eliminates excessive fogging of windshield or windows in cold or stormy weather.
5. No "roar" of air when ventilation system is in use.
6. No rain-splash inside the car.
7. Effective at all speeds and temperatures.

A HAT TRICK THAT ISN'T A TRICK

Try this yourself and you'll see why there are no drafts in the New Ford V-8

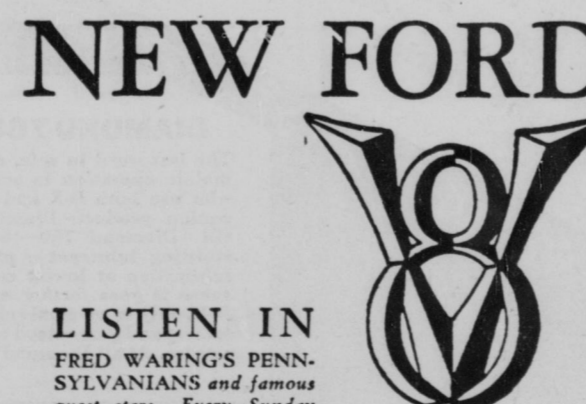

Just raise the windows—front or rear—until they are all the way up and then give the handle an additional half-turn. This slides the glass back into the ventilating position, as illustrated.

There's the hat, against the window opening. No need to hold it there, because it will stay there by itself. No drafts because the air is drawn out the windows by the forward motion of the car.

As you drive along, take off your hat and put it against the window opening. The air goes out the windows—not in. Greatest safety because there are no exterior parts to obstruct view.
