

HOME SHOW TO END TOMORROW

Friday 13th Is Lucky Day for Women Visitors at Exposition.

Every thirteenth woman visiting the Home Complete Exposition today at the Manufacturers' building in the Indiana state fairground was to receive a flower. Announcement of this tribute to "Friday, the thirteenth," was made yesterday by J. Frank Cantwell, director.

Today was designated as Exhibitors' day, and demonstrations were to be made at each booth of the products displayed.

Members of garden clubs and landscape architects will be guests tonight at a black bass dinner to be held on the lawn in front of the model house. The dinner will be given by members of the Allied Florists of Indianapolis, Inc.

Tomorrow, last day of the show, will be school day. Groups of pupils from various schools about the state already have attended the show, and others are expected tomorrow.
