Tax Problems to Be Topic at Three-Day Parley in Fairground Here.

Annual convention of the Indiana Funeral Directors Association will open May 22 at the Manufacturers building, state fairground, for a three-day session, the first state meeting since the profession placed itself under code provisions.

Vice-chairman serving with Mr. Wald are Fred W. Vehling and J. Paul Ragsdale, both of Indianapolis. Publicity is being handled by three city men, Roscoe Conkle, Albert J. Voigt and Thomas J. Blackwell.

NEWS OF FATHER'S HEROIC DEATH KEPT FROM STRICKEN GIRL

By United Press

CHICAGO, May 11.—At Jackson Park sanitarium Patricia Redmond, 7, played happily today, awaiting the weekly visit of her father.

Her mother visited her yesterday.

"Daddy couldn't come," she told the little girl. "He was busy."

Then for more than an hour the two laughed and chatted.

Outside, after leaving the child with a happy smile, the young mother broke into hysterical sobs.

Because of acute heart disease,

Patricia can not be told that her father, patrolman Patrick Redmond, was killed Tuesday by four bandits who attempted to hold up a currency exchange he was guarding.

Physicians said it might be necessary to keep the fact from her for several years.

Prohibition enforcement cost the lives of seventy-nine officers and 175 private citizens.
