

CRIMINAL LAW CODE BRANDED AID TO CROOKS

Anti-Crime Group Meeting
Attended by Out-of-Town
Representatives.

Representatives of many Indiana cities met Thursday at the Claypool with the Indianapolis committee, an organization dedicated to the purpose of strengthening the fight against crime in the state. Purpose of the meeting was to promote similar organizations throughout the state which may be welded with the local group in one potent state-wide anti-crime unit. The three immediate and definite purposes of the committee are to simplify the criminal code to permit speedy and effective justice, to reorganize police forces on a permanent basis remote from politics, and to revise prison management methods.

Chief speaker was Kenneth L. Ogle, chairman and founder of the Indianapolis Committee. He urged immediate action in behalf of a state committee which would be powerful enough to arouse interest in and educate the average voter in the crime problem.

Pointing to the fact that similar organizations have sprung up spontaneously in other states, and to the immediate and wide-spread support which has greeted the Indianapolis committee, he urged speedy promotion of the state organization.

He said that the present time was especially favorable because the public is aroused by the Dillinger affair and recent escapes from the Michigan City penitentiary.

He said that police problems had become no less than those of an army fighting skirmishes, but notwithstanding this, patrolmen and officers were woefully underpaid and undertrained.

He asserted that the criminal code has become nothing less than a vehicle for the protection of the criminal. Mr. Ogle expressed hope that immediate nonpartisan political action could be taken to improve prevailing crime conditions, and announced that the Indianapolis Committee had received responses from more than two-thirds of the Indiana county seats in its request for formation of allied organizations.

BABY ORANG-UTAN SUCCUMBS; VICTIM OF MOTHER'S LOVE

CHICAGO, May 12.—Betty Orang-Utang was dead today, victim of a too ardent love on the part of her own mother.

The two-pound infant, fourth orang-utan born in the United States, died of malnutrition. At ten days old, the Lincoln Park zoo said that nervous concern of Nancy, the baby's mother, caused a failure of milk.

Artificial feeding was impossible because of the zealous manner in which the 100-pound parent guarded her offspring against intruders. Keepers feared the baby would be killed if they attempted to take it from the cage.

Floyd Young, zoo director, said that Nancy had attempted to feed Betty yesterday by carrying milk in her mouth from a pan provided for "her" own use.

"The baby seemed to take the milk," said Young, "but it probably was the wrong kind or insufficient in quantity. After the baby died Nancy stared at her in her arms awhile, laid her down, then picked her up and rocked her almost as a human mother would. It took us almost two hours to entice her to an end of the cage so we might get the body."

CHICAGOAN DOES HIS COURTSHIP AT AIRPORT

Wooling Stewardess on Airplane Proves Public Affair.

CHICAGO, May 12.—John Mooney has to do his courting in public.

Until his sweetheart, Miss Marguerite Brennan, got a job as stewardess on an American Airways plane flying between Chicago and Memphis, Mooney had the pleasure of her company several evenings a week in St. Louis.

But after that things were changed. Marguerite had to make her home in Chicago. Her duties, however, took her through St. Louis regularly. Her ship stopped for five minutes each trip.

Mooney now keeps a careful record of the airplane schedule and since Marguerite moved away he hasn't missed her plane a single time. For the few precious minutes that she's on the ground he is pouring words of endearment into her ear while interested passengers look on.

Neighbors look into the gaping hole (lower) made by the explosion of the hot water heater in the apartment house. William F. Hurd, city building commissioner, issued a warning after the accident to apartment and hotel firemen to be sure that valves on hot water heaters are set properly before placing the heaters in service for the summer.

Indiana in Brief

Lively Spots in the State's Happenings Put Together 'Short and Sweet.'

NOBLESVILLE, May 12.—Joseph Manning, Peru, has filed suit for $100 in Hamilton circuit court here against Carl Heilman, a name under which an automobile believed to have been used by John Dillinger, desperado, was purchased in St. Paul, Minn.

Mr. Manning's car was damaged on April 7 when it was struck by the other car on a road in the northwestern part of Hamilton county. Following the crash, the other car left the road and plunged into a woods, where it was abandoned by two men, both reported to have been armed with machine guns.

The crash occurred during a week-end Dillinger is said to have spent at the home of his father in Mooresville.

Efforts to find the owner of the car have failed thus far. Authorities believe the name given at the time of the purchase was false and that the transaction was made by Dillinger or an aid.

1 Hour, 27 Minutes.

By United Press

NEW YORK, May 12.—A new flight record between Detroit and New York was claimed yesterday by Colonel Roscoe Turner, speed flier. He flew from Detroit to Floyd Bennett field in 1 hour 47 minutes and 21 seconds. The previous record, between Detroit and Newark airport, was 2 hours 26 minutes.

Turner said his Wedell-Williams monoplane, with a new 1,000-horse power Hornet motor, reached 340 miles an hour for a considerable distance.

Roscoe Turner, holder of both east and west coast-to-coast flight records and many other speed honors, has accepted the post of official starter for the 500-mile race here and will send the thirty-three cars away on their search for gold and glory Memorial Day.

"I will be delighted to send your men of speed on their way on Decoration Day with plenty of luck because I know how much they need it," said Turner in accepting the position of official starter.

Famous men of speed have always been called upon to handle the main flags for the 500-mile race. Gar Wood, holder of the world's speedboat record, officiated as starter last year.

ANOTHER $500 REWARD!

SECOND BOMBING ATTEMPT IN 10 DAYS

An attempt was made Thursday midnight to dynamite the home of R. F. Radcliff, 1125 North Dearborn Street, an employee of Real Silk Hosiery Mills.

The cowardly act may be assumed to be another attempt to intimidate a worker who is exercising his inherent right to work and support his family.

A second reward of $500 is offered by Real Silk Hosiery Mills, Inc., for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons guilty of this outrage.

This reward is in addition to the reward of $500 offered by the Company in connection with the bombing of the home of John Madden, another employee, which occurred the night of May 3.

Additional information to that which is already in hand about either or both of these attempts to destroy life and property, will be treated confidentially and may be revealed either to police authorities, or to officials of Real Silk Hosiery Mills, Inc.

The indignation of all good citizens of Indianapolis is aroused by these inexcusable attacks on person and property. The good name of our city is being blackened by this lawlessness and any assistance rendered to the law enforcing authorities in discovering the perpetrators will be an act of good citizenship.

There is a growing public feeling that those who are directing the strike could put an end to this violence. Strikes are not settled by force and public opinion does not support such un-American methods.
