

Fathers Go With Pupils on Journey

Orchard School Boys in Montgomery County for Week-End.

BY BEATRICE BURGAN
FATHERS of Orchard School upper grade pupils will share the rugged life of campers this week-end at Pine Hills in Montgomery county.

The fathers, Elias C. Atkins, Noble Dean, John Gould, Benjamin Hutz, Clarence Merrell, Clyde Osborne, Jasper P. Scott, Frederick T. Holliday, and Dr. Leon Zerfas swung their duflies over their shoulders today and set out on a pilgrimage with Hills L. Howie, head master; Gordon Thompson, Phillip Sweet, both teachers, and the eighteen boys.

The boys were allowed to choose the location of their annual outing. For four successive years they have preferred the adventure of exploring in the same territory. A gold-panning expedition to Brown county was their second choice this year.

The party arrived at the camping scene in time to set up a tent village around the community truck, which Mr. Howie has used on his expedition to the southwest. As soon as the boys set up their tents, they planned to lead their fathers on an exploring and collecting trip among the pine and hemlock timber, high cliffs and brooks.

The boys left with the determination to find as many geological specimens as the Orchard girls and their mothers found last week-end on a similar trip. On such trips the school scientific and nature study curriculum is supplemented.

The boys will add to their data on an old wooden mill built in the sixties on a site on Clifty creek nearby. In their historical research they have studied remnants of the dam. They have examined the solid rock where the water generating power for the mill had cut through.

As part of the recreation program the boys will swim at the mouth of Indian creek. The boys tempted fathers who had never accompanied them on their trips with enthusiastic praise of their "chef's" cooking. Several of the boys are well known for their coffee-making skill.

The school has issued invitations to its first folk dance festival at 4 o'clock Tuesday. Pupils have made linoleum block invitations, with a central decoration of figures dancing around a Maypole. Lettering is in brown, and a border in orange is stamped on tan paper.

NATIONAL MEETING OF SORORITY SET

Mrs. Robert Lanham and Mrs. Herman Kortepeter are in charge of the program to be held at the annual convention of Xi Delta Xi sorority Saturday, June 2, at the Marriott.

The luncheon will be followed by a business meeting and election of officers. Mrs. Windsor T. Waits is in charge of reservations; Mrs. George Vestal, decorations, and Miss Mary Ruth Martin and Mrs. Virginia Parr, favors.

Miss Josephine Ragsdale, member of Alpha chapter, will play a group of musical selections and accompany Misses Lillian Buchanan and Charlotte Tacoma, members of Beta chapter, who will sing the sorority song.

Club Group Completes Decoration

Women's Locker Room at Hillcrest Made More Inviting.

BY HELEN LINDSAY
WHEN the members of the City Golf Association gather at Hillcrest Country Club Monday, for their tournament, women members will listen with pride to praise of new decorations in the women's locker room. For those decorations represent far more than just an attractive scheme. Like members of one family, members of a special committee worked together all day Wednesday to complete the decorations.

Portable electric sewing machines were brought from homes, and while committee members talked of improvements at the club, the increasing number of new members, and plans for social activities in the future, women members worked.

Mrs. Guy Craig developed a real upholsterer's technique, as she tackled shining black saten on dressing table stools, though she had to pause frequently to see that her Boston bulldog, which she brought with her, hadn't gotten into mischief. Mrs. Curtis Butler, who was in charge of the work, spent almost the entire day at the sewing machine. But they were not the only busy yones. Every woman on the committee had her own part to play in the day's activities.

Included on the committee were Mrs. Butler and Mrs. Craig, and Mesdames James Brady, Charles Campbell, Frank Jones, C. E. Cox, S. H. Greenburg, Gerald Timmons and Harry Gompf.

At noon the workers were served a fried chicken dinner, but after traying over it only a short while they returned to their labor.

Enthusiasm for the decorating was increased by recent news that approximately fifty new members had been added to the club since its reorganization.

The locker room has been decorated in a color scheme in which mandarin red and black predominate. New drapes have been made of bright colored blocked chintz. B. J. Smith, club member, donated red lacquer for the locker room furniture, which Mr. Gompf had refinished. Stools for dressing tables and a comfortable lounge were covered in black saten, with pipings of mandarin red and yellow. The walls have been painted ivory and buff.

Plans for redecoration of the grill at the club are being made. A color scheme of yellow and black has been suggested.

BRIDE-ELECT TO BE HONOR GUEST

Mrs. Naomi Harlan of Beech Grove will entertain with a miscellaneous shower tonight in honor of Miss Ruth Suzanne Adams, a bride-elect. Assisting Mrs. Harlan will be Mrs. Bertha Garrison Riley and Miss Margaret Smith.

Phyllis Jean Templar will present gifts to the bride-elect. Among the guests will be Mesdames Hubert Terrell, John Clapp, Herman Templar, Mark Parker, William Geshwiler, C. V. Kinsey, Leslie Garrison, Charles Adams, Savannah Brandon, Charles Lacey, Mack Houghland, William Boles, George Bicknell, Joseph Greenfield, R. J. Menell, R. A. Foreman, Charles Clapp, R. O. Shimer, Lee Benner, A. Wood, R. Monroe, Q. Abercrombie and Misses Grace Terhune, Anna Mae Barrett, Helen Terrell, Cora and Clara Triplett.

Others are Misses Dorcas Lower, Mildred Geshwiler, Lora Mae Hendricks, Marie Gilliland, Mildred Smith, Lois and Hazel Carter, Ruth Harlan, Agnes Postma, Florence Mendenhall, Helen Mudd, Julianna Smith, Isadora, Catherine and Magdalen Mason, Esther Fuchum, Josephine and Martha Brandon and Earline Rae Foreman.

MRS. BROWN WILL BE CLUB HOSTESS
