TUGWELL WINS IN SENATE BY 53-24 MARGIN

Confirmation Comes After Norris Flays Opposition to Nominee.

SENATOR SMITH ROUTED

'Li'l' Arthur Splits With Pal Huey by Attack on Brain Trust.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—If President Roosevelt gets around to signing the necessary papers, it will be "Mr. Undersecretary of Agriculture" some time today when colleagues address Rexford G. Tugwell, most publicized of brain trusters. The coveted appointment which carries a $2,500 raise in pay was voted by the senate, 53 to 24, after acrimonious debate in which several Democrats and one Republican attacked Dr. Tugwell, each for a different reason.

The confirmation was bitter defeat for Senator Ellison D. (Cotton Ed) Smith (Dem., S. C.), who opposed Dr. Tugwell so strongly that he quit holding meetings of the agriculture committee in the vain hope that by this device the appointment could be defeated.

He finally gave in when the senate ordered him to report the nomination.

Principal defense of Dr. Tugwell in senate debate was made by Senator George W. Norris (Rep., Neb.), who ridiculed the agriculture committee examination of Dr. Tugwell as surpassing "any street corner crowd I have ever heard."

'Marine Band Lacking'
"Only the marine band was needed to make it a real show," said Senator Norris.

Senator Hugo L. Black (Dem., Ala.), described Dr. Tugwell as "a man who is not content with looking backward."

Senators Thomas P. Gore (Dem., Okla.), and Harry Flood Byrd (Dem., Va.), claimed that Dr. Tugwell had usurped the powers of congress and was unequalled to hold a post of greater responsibility.

Mr. Smith renewed his assertion that Dr. Tugwell was not a "dirt farmer" but "a very handsome gentleman who would starve to death" if he had to make a living on a farm.

Democrats who opposed the nomination in the ballot were Senators Bailey, Byrd, Clark, Dill, Gore and Smith. Dr. Tugwell was supported by Senators Capper, Couzens, Cutting, Frazier, Johnson, La Follette, Norbeck, Norris and Nye, Republican, and Shipstead, Farmer-Labor.

Long Backs Brain Truster
The vote came two hours after Senator Arthur R. Robinson (Rep., Ind.) had "warned" his colleagues that to approve the promotion would be to "endanger the Constitution and doom the country to dictatorship or chaos."

Oddly enough, Senator Robinson followed his Democratic supporter, Senator Huey (Kingfish) Long, in the Tugwell debate. Senator Long was on record in the public prints as praising the Hoosier for being a "progressive."

In his speech, Senator Long supported Dr. Tugwell for the same reason. But Senator Robinson saw in the new undersecretary a great menace to "American traditions for 100 years."

Robinson Shut Off
Each senator was limited to fifteen minutes on the floor and Senator Robinson was in the midst of castigating the professor when the gavel fell. "I was afraid of that," he said, halting his windmill delivery and resuming his seat.

Senator Cutting arose to point out that Senator Robinson had misquoted Dr. Tugwell. He excused this on the grounds that "undoubtedly the senator from Indiana has not read the entire speech."

"I merely arise to point out that Dr. Tugwell is a man of education, character and ability," Senator Cutting concluded. "He shouldn't be used as a target of attack for those who are really shooting at persons higher-up in the administration."

'KISS SLAYER' SMILES AT LIFE PRISON TERM

Alleged Killer of Sweetheart Beats Death Penalty.

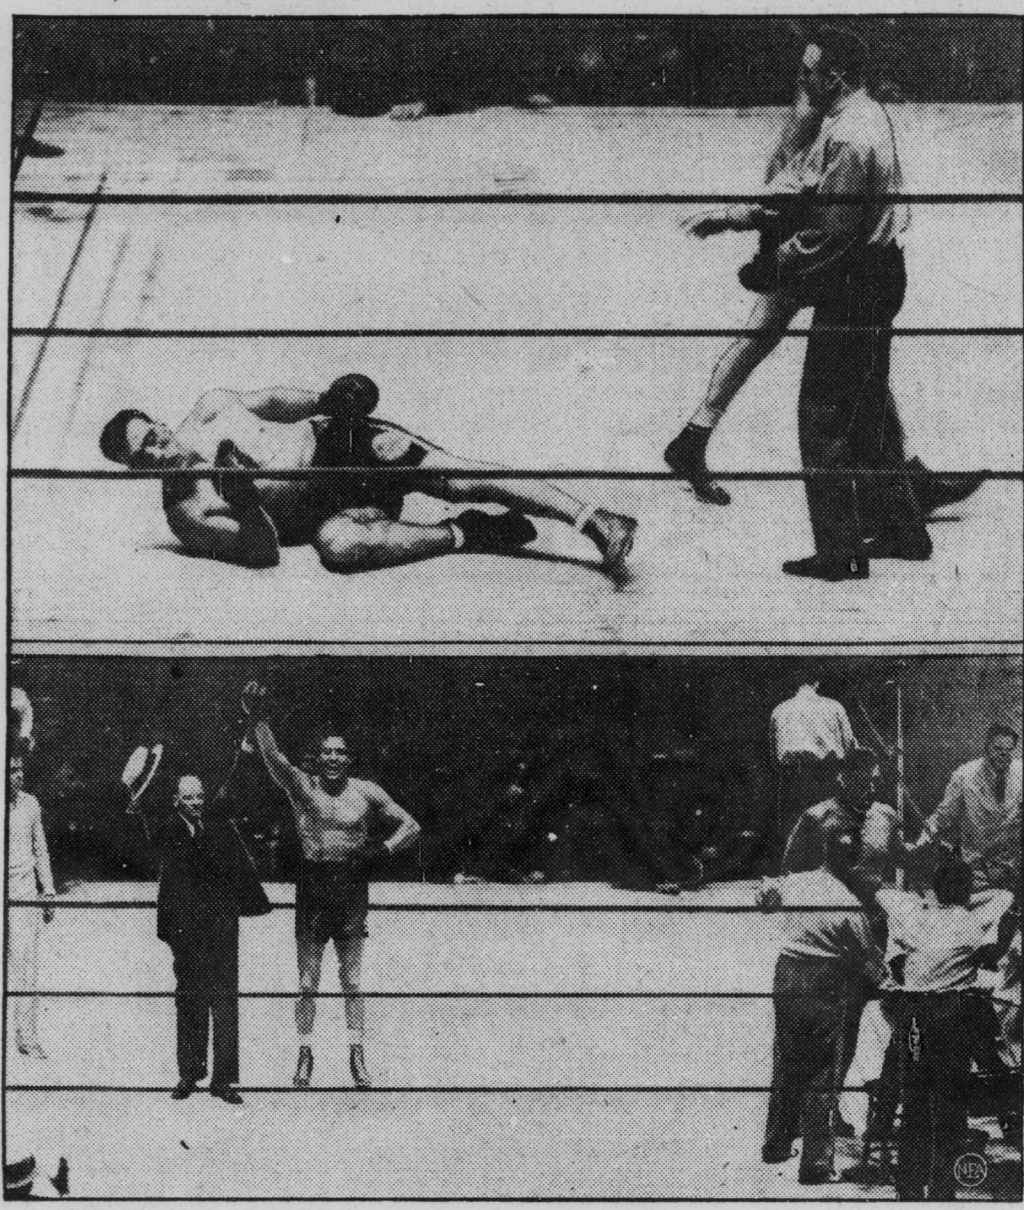

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—Charles E. Johnston, 23-year-old chauffeur, smiled with relief today at escaping the death penalty for the "kiss slaying" of his former sweetheart, Dorothy Smith, 18.

A superior court jury recommended life imprisonment in finding Johnston guilty. Sentence will be imposed Monday. Johnston's defense to the charge was that he shot the girl on an impulse after calling at her home and asking her to kiss him to patch up a quarrel.

Trio Kidnaped by Texas Desperado Is Released

Fugitive Killer Caught After Holding Three Iowans as Hostages for Twelve Hours.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 15.—Three kidnaped Davenport (Ia.) men were released unharmed here today after spending twelve hours in the hands of a Texas desperado, who later was captured by police.

Police said the kidnaper was Joe Palmer, 30, fugitive Texas desperado whose escape from Eastham farm at Huntsville, Tex., was engineered by the notorious Clyde Barrow.

Palmer confessed the murder of Major Cronson, prison guard, who was slain in the outbreak. Raymond Hamilton, Barrow associate, was sentenced to death in the electric chair at Huntsville this week.

Lieutenant J. W. Reynolds told the United Press that Palmer confessed a series of Iowa bank robberies and "several murders" in the southwest.

Iowa officials were hot on his trail, Reynolds said, and he kidnaped three men in his flight to Missouri.

The abductor was arrested on a St. Joseph street a few minutes after he released his captives just before dawn. At Davenport, Palmer kidnaped traffic patrolman Elmer Schleuter and Al Schultze, secretary of the Davenport baseball club, commandeering their automobile. Fifteen miles west of Davenport,

PARIS IS TERRORIZED BY BOMB OUTRAGES

High Explosives Mailed to Leading Factories.

PARIS, June 15.—Dynamite bombs, mailed by a madman with deadly hatred of present political conditions and trends, seeped today through a cordon of 3,000 police, secret service and postoffice detectives and terrorized industrial Paris.

A bomb exploded in the office of the Citroen Automobile Company—the French Ford equivalent—as the mail clerk unwrapped the package which contained it.

Other bombs were discovered at the Pathe Cinema Company offices, and Venus lead pencil office, where there are several American officials, and at the branch postoffice in the Place de La Bastille.

Police authorities planned a watch on all mail boxes in Paris if necessary to stop the plague of the deadly bombs, some strong enough, if exploded properly, to destroy a building.

CITY MAPS WAR ON VICIOUS DOGS

Action Follows Attacks on 10 Persons; May Ask Quarantine.

Steps to declare a quarantine in Marion county in which all dogs not muzzled or on leash will be impounded today were being taken by city and state health officials as result of an outbreak yesterday when ten persons were bitten. One of the dogs, which bit six persons on West McCarty street, is believed to have been rabid. A little girl was bitten by three dogs.

Dr. Herman G. Morgan, health commissioner, conferred with state health authorities and planned a conference for next week at which the state and city health boards, the safety board and the state veterinarian's office will be represented.

State authorities indicated to Dr. Morgan that if a dog quarantine was wanted here it would be declared. Dogs would be held at the pound five days, and if not claimed, exterminated.

Police Chief Mike Morrissey said his men would do everything they could to prevent further attacks by dogs.

City Attorney James Deery said his office would have ready for presentation at city council's next meeting an ordinance to require anti-rabies vaccination of all dogs before licenses are issued.

The ten persons bitten were Mary Beck, 13, of 5716 Washington boulevard, victim of the three dogs; Herbert Dean, 9, of 815 Birch avenue; Clarence Rather Jr., 12, of 1017 West McCarty street; Robert Bohannon, 20, of 1017 West McCarty street; Joseph Pahey, 9, of 817 Birch avenue; Lucille Smith, 4, of 1066 West McCarty street; Joe Barbour, 12, of 1350 Oliver avenue; Kenneth Bailey, 10, of 926 North Bancroft street; Louis Hammelgarn, 7, of 409 Parkway avenue, and David Anderson, 4, Negro, 3127 East Minnesota street.

CANCEL STEEL STRIKE PLANS, IS PLEA OF GREEN TO DELEGATES; THREE-POINT PEACE PLAN GIVEN

NAZIS FACING REPRISAL FOR DEBT HOLIDAY

Britain Plans to Seize All Credits; United Front Is Probable.

By United Press
Germany's six months moratorium on all foreign obligations, effective July 1, met with quick reprisal today.

In the British house of commons, Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, announced that unless Germany made a satisfactory offer to British bondholders and commercial interests before July 1, he would set up a clearing house to seize German credits in Britain and pay debt services that way.

In Paris the government protested officially against suspension of payment on the Dawes and Young reparation loans and the foreign office prepared to ask the United States, Britain and other creditors to take joint action.

The foreign office will communicate with the state department, with Great Britain, Switzerland and Holland its views regarding the six months moratorium, and will seek a united front of creditors.

It was thought France meantime would not imitate the British action of making arrangements for a clearing house to seize German credits and apply them to the sacred reparations loans.

There had been suggestions France might bar imports from Germany as a retaliatory measure, but Germany could retaliate by barring French goods.

It was understood, however, that the government was preparing to block private payments of French business men to Germans—which would be practically equivalent to halting commerce.

This would represent the severest possible pressure, as France is Germany's best customer.

U. S. May Be Loser

LONDON, June 15.—Great Britain today announced that German funds in England to compensate British creditors for the moratorium declared by Germany on all her foreign debts.

Business men will receive compensation for commercial debts as well as holders of German bonds, including the "guaranteed" Dawes and Young plan loans.

Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, announced the plan in the house of commons, adding that if Germany voluntarily made good before July 1—in other words, abrogated the moratorium as far as Britain is concerned—it would not be put into effect.

The seizure would be accomplished by establishing a clearing house which would sequester German funds in London obtained through export balances, etc.

Britain's move, it was believed, would react unfavorably on the United States by making it more difficult for American creditors to get any payment. Lack of German funds in New York makes a move similar to the British one impossible.

Some financial men believed the British arrangement would provide that traders buying goods from Germany should pay the sum due into the clearing house instead of remitting it to Germany. Those selling goods to Germany would be reimbursed from the clearing house fund. The balance of receipts over payment would be used to meet the claims of investors in Germany bonds.

British investors hold about $217,150,000 in Dawes and Young bonds, on which $10,847,500 in interest is due July 1.

Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall

Mrs. Dale on Way to Reno; Second Marital Rift in First Family.

By United Press
RENO, Nev., June 15.—The second divorce in the nation's first family since President Roosevelt took office impended today.

Anna Roosevelt Dall, only daughter of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, left Washington yesterday for Reno to establish residence, preparatory to divorcing Curtis Dall, New York and Chicago broker.

Only a little more than a year ago, Elliott Roosevelt, the second son, went to Reno to divorce his wife, the former Elizabeth Donner, Philadelphia.

Mrs. Dall, who has lived at the White House almost continuously since her father was inaugurated, took her two children with her. She is understood to plan to establish residence at a cottage on Lake Tahoe, on the border between Nevada and California.

The children are Anna Eleanor, 7, (Sislie) and Curtis Jr., 4 (Buzzie). Both are familiar figures around the White House and have been attending a nearby school.

Mr. Dall was said to be in New York.

Solution of Difficulties Through Government Suggested by A. F. of L. President; Union Studies Proposal.

FEDERAL MEDIATION BOARD URGED

Employees' Elections Recommended; Time Is Not Ripe to Walk Out, Labor Chief Tells Parley at Pittsburgh.

By United Press
PITTSBURGH, June 15.—The three-point program offered to the steel workers today by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, will be submitted to a special workers' committee for consideration and disposition, the United Press learned today.

The special committee of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers—A. F. of L. affiliate—probably will be named shortly after the convention reconvenes at 3:30 p. m., Michael F. Tighe, union president, said.

The proposal was considered in question and answer form in executive session of the convention after Mr. Green outlined it at an open meeting.

"The questions asked were very pertinent and fair," Mr. Green said at the noon adjournment. "I am very pleased with my reception."

President Green urged at least a ten-day postponement of the steel strike, it was learned, to give President Roosevelt and congress an opportunity to evolve a solution to the workers' problems along the lines he suggested.

He pleaded with embittered steel workers to cancel their plans for a general strike, and offered them a solution, through the federal government, of the difficulties which have brought the industry to a crisis.

Three conditions outlined by Mr. Green, which he said, if accepted by mill owners, would lead to the strike being called off, were:

1. A board of three, appointed by the President to receive complaints of violations of Section 7-A, to mediate any differences, and to act if necessary.

The board would mediate and conciliate in code disputes, and would arrange for collective bargaining by employees, if they requested it.

The board also would act as arbitrator under the steel code, providing all questions to be arbitrated were voluntarily submitted by both parties, and it would hear and determine the merit of any complaints of violation of Section 7-A.

2. The employees shall have the right to bargain collectively, and the board would have the authority to order and supervise elections, off company property. Representatives chosen by a majority of the workers would act for the whole.

3. The management of each plant shall meet workers or their elected representatives to settle all disputes. As a last resort, the impartial board would have the final decision in the dispute.

Mr. Green based his argument against a strike at the present time on the grounds that the workers "can not afford to let the steel operators choose the battle field of the hour on which the battle is to be fought."

"I firmly believe," he declared, "that if they will not yield to the law, they will yield to the more powerful force of public opinion. We can not afford to play into the hands of these autocratic barons. We must use strategy."

"In my judgment, it is my firm opinion based on my own interest in the workers and my own experience that the time will come when your wrongs will be righted. But I do not believe the time is here at this moment."

Mr. Green's proposals were acclaimed loudly by the delegates. He was interrupted while they applauded and cheered, in contrast to the jeers and shouting that marked yesterday's sessions as President Tighe sought to avert a strike.

When he was allowed to continue, Mr. Green said:

"I feel confident that the President will accept your proposal if you adopt it and send it to him as an ultimatum of this convention. It will do two things: 'Throw consideration into the ranks of the steel owners, and mobilize public opinion behind you.'"

President Green earlier told the delegates that he knew the public would support them in any strike, provided the public was acquainted with their problems. He said, however, he did not believe the public presently was thoroughly aware of conditions in the steel mills.

Republicans Agree to Back Roosevelt's Labor Legislation

By United Press
WASHINGTON, June 15.—Republican senators, in formal party conference today, agreed to support President Roosevelt's new labor disputes legislation if that they described as "minor changes" are made. The measure is aimed at the current steel industry dispute.

The party was not bound to vote as a unit on the legislation but majority sentiment was in favor of helping the administration put through the joint resolution.

Minority Leader Charles L. McNary planned to confer with Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson. It was indicated Senator Robinson would introduce the resolution, which has been the subject of numerous conferences during the last two days, within a short time. The changes desired by the Republicans were revealed by the United Press yesterday. They concern principally a definite connection with the national industrial recovery act, assuring that the labor disputes legislation shall not continue beyond the life of the NRA, and guarantees against any effort to force the closed shop on industry.

It has been ruled repeatedly that Section 7-A of the industrial recovery act could not be interpreted as meaning a forced closed shop.

Mustached Middies Escape Scrutiny by Hair

By United Press
NEW YORK, June 15.—Mustached sailors of the fleet were saved from mobilizing for scrutiny today for the very good reason that Florence Swinney, 16, had a date with one of them last night and didn't want to be disturbed by renewal of search for a kidnaped girl, police disclosed.

Miss Swinney's appearance at a police station blew up the search for Grace Budd, kidnaped here six years ago at the age of 10. Her picture published in a newspaper aroused it. Simultaneously, it set off a manhunt for the unidentified mustached sailor who posed with her in Riverside park.

The hunt resulted in a fleet order last night for every hirsuted sailor boy to appear before his commanding officer today.

Miss Swinney, original of the photograph, begged police please to call off the hunt. She said the sailor's first name was Howard, and that she might know his last name soon.

"I think it's Howard I don't have with tonight, and I don't want detectives jumping out at us."

Turn of the search again blasted the hope of Mrs. Della Budd, who thought Miss Swinney's picture resembled her kidnaped daughter,

Long rows of army coats stood in the plant of the Illinois Steel Corporation, largest employer of any men who wish to work, but fear to run the gamut of pickets.
