CRIMINAL ACTS ARE CHARGED IN BANK'S FAILURE

Negligence Blamed for Loss of $4,000,000 in Suit at Hammond.

By United Press
HAMMOND, Ind., June 15.—Criminal acts of employees and negligence of officers resulted in loss of $4,000,000 to depositors and stockholders of the First Trust and Savings bank of Hammond, it was charged today in a suit on file in Lake superior court.

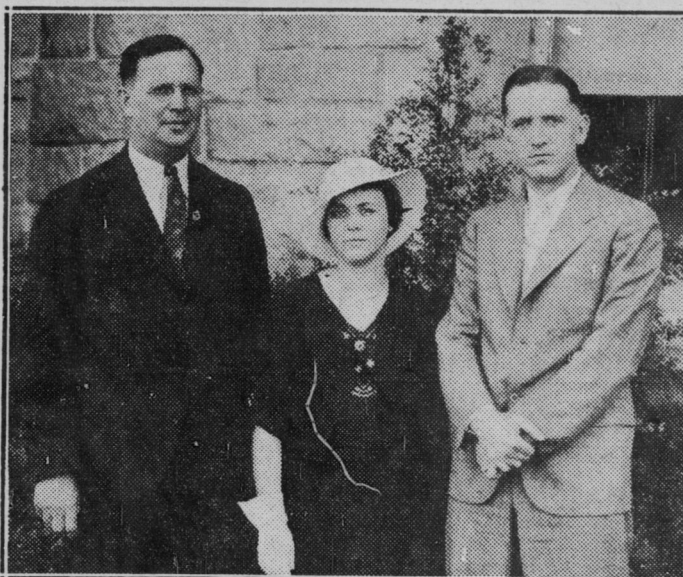

The suit was filed by Harry E. Folk, receiver for the bank, and asked an accounting of the bank's losses to determine personal liability of each of the bank's directors. Defendants in the action are Peter W. Meyn, former president of the bank; A. Murray Turner, chairman of the board; William C. Belman, Albert Maack, Charles S. Fletcher, Julius H. Meyn, David Emery, John E. Fitzgerald, Charles H. Wolters, Frank Hammond, W. Norman Bridge and Charles A. Etling.

Etling and Bridge served as assistant secretaries and treasurers of the bank. The others were directors between January, 1936, and the date of the closing, Feb. 21, 1931.

Mr. Folk charged that the directors declared dividends "by which they themselves most benefited" at a time when the bank did not have a legal reserve balance with the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago, and that Peter Meyn and his son, Walter, were permitted to carry on business of the bank without investigation "which would have revealed misconduct of officers and employees."

COX ASKS REPORTS ON DEFUNCT BANKS

Probability of Dividends Is Sought.

Letters asking receivers of four Indianapolis banks in receivership to inform the court as to the probability of early dividends for depositors were sent yesterday by Circuit Judge Earl R. Cox.

Judge Cox asserted that bank depositors are entitled to know whether they are going to receive any dividends soon.

Banks in receivership in circuit court are the Washington Bank and Trust Company, City Trust Company, State Savings and Trust Company and the Meyer-Kiser bank.
