

SHIRLEY TEMPLE FILM RETAINED FOR SECOND WEEK AT APOLLO

5-Year-Old Girl Scores Triumph in First Role

Talented Youngster Receives Capable Support From Excellent Cast, Including James Dunn.

Five-year-old Shirley Temple, heralded as the darling of the nation, has added to her list of triumphs. Enacting her first role in "Baby Take a Bow," now appearing at the Apollo theater, this charming little girl has been so unanimously accepted by the public that her picture is being retained for a second week.

Shirley, vivacious as she is sweet, is said to find it great sport to make pictures. The freshness and innocence of her personality being of prime importance, the director and the cast were faced with the necessity of devising the acting each day into a game. Shirley loves to play at acting—which to the members of the cast is work.

"Baby Take a Bow" is the story of a young man just out of prison, a girl who marries him because she believes in him, and the result of their union, an adorable baby girl who is the pride and joy of their hearts.

In the picture enters an escaped convict and the theft of some valuable pearls from the home of the boy's employer. Suspicion and persecution by a self-styled detective cloud the happiness of the little family. The thief, passing the flat, gives the jewels to the baby in order to avoid being caught with them in his possession.

The denouement grows more exciting as the criminal returns and takes the jewels and the baby to cover his escape.

After an exciting sequence of events, the gems are recovered, the culprit captured and Shirley, heroine of the hour, removes all suspicion from her daddy.

A great deal of comedy and human interest has been injected into the scenes showing the camaraderie and affection between the father and baby and the episode of the child's birthday party affords Shirley another opportunity to show her talents as a singing and dancing entertainer.

Included in the cast are James Dunn and Claire Trevor as the young father and mother, Alan Dinehart, and other prominent screen stars. Short subjects supplementary to the main attraction include the comedy, "No Sleep on the Deep," a cartoon entitled "Joe's Lunchwagon," a Romantic Journey reel and Fox Movietone News.

'Dr. Monica' at Circle

Kay Francis, Warren William, Jean Muir bring "Dr. Monica" to the Circle theater this week, presenting a beautiful love story of a talented doctor's fight to hold her husband through a childless marriage from a young and beautiful girl who has inadvertently fallen in love with her husband.

The husband, played by Warren William, has written a number of successful novels and is exceedingly popular with the younger set. He returns the infatuation of Jean Muir for a time and later finds that he is only attracted by her youth and beauty and is in reality in love with his wife.

Davies' Film at Palace

Folding the pages of history is "Operator 13," an exciting Robert W. Chambers story which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer presents as Marion Davies' newest starring vehicle with Gary Cooper as her leading man and which opened yesterday at Le's Palace.

"Operator 13" is a love story for which the Civil War serves only as a background. It is the story of an all-powerful love involving a beautiful woman spy of the Union army and a gallant spy of the Confederate forces.

Marion Davies is cast as Gail Loveless, the federal spy who is sent into the southern lines to destroy the most dangerous spy of the confederacy. Gary Cooper is the southern spy whom Miss Davies is sent to destroy—and with whom she falls in love.

On the short subject program is the latest Charley Chase comedy, "Another Wild Idea," a Mickey Mouse cartoon, "Playful Pluto," and completed by the latest minute views of current news as pictured by Hearst Metrotone News.

Paul Lukas Starred in Lyric Film

Baer-Carnera Fight Also Featured on This Week's Bill.

Two unusual attractions comprise the Lyric theater's screen fare for the current week. They are "Affairs of a Gentleman," a romantic mystery drama starring Paul Lukas and Leila Hyams, supported by a big cast of favorite players, and the official motion pictures of the Baer-Carnera world's heavyweight championship boxing contest.

"Affairs of a Gentleman" presents the suave and polished Lukas in the role of a famous author who has "affairs" with not less than a half dozen beautiful women, and who engages in the dangerous practice of making each romantic adventure the basis of a new book.

That such a practice would serve to create enemies is only natural, and so, when the literary Don Juan is found dead in his apartment under mysterious circumstances each of the women to whom he has made love is suspected of being implicated.

Several jealous rivals and an assorted group of others including a publisher, a butler, and a secretary are subjected to police scrutiny as the plot unfolds, but the solution of the mystery provides the picture with a most surprising climax.

Lukas and Miss Hyams have the support of such popular screen players as Patricia Ellis, Phillip Reed, Onslow Stevens, Dorothy Burgess, Lillian Bond, Joyce Compton, Dorothy Libaire, Richard Carle, Sarah Hadden and others. Directed by Edwin L. Marin, "Affairs of a Gentleman" was adapted from the stage play, "Women in His Life," by Edith and Edward Ellis.

The Baer-Carnera fight picture provides spectators with a ringside view of the most spectacular prize ring encounter in a decade.

All the drama and thrills that developed during the eleven hectic rounds of the fight in which Max Baer, the California Lothario, won the championship from the gigantic Italian, Primo Carnera, are reproduced in every detail.

The fight pictures are being shown exclusively at the Lyric.

Severin's Roof Garden Opens Outdoor Club

William H. Wells, Severin manager, announces the opening of the roof garden with dinner and dancing for the summer season.

This rendezvous received generous acclaim in former years and is expected to satisfy an urgent demand for a cool, smart supper club in downtown Indianapolis.

The roof garden is unique in that the ballroom is located on two sides with a spacious terrace, thereby providing the choice of dining either in the open beneath the stars or in the roofed inclosure.

A border of subdued colored lights lends charm and enhances the gala effect of the improved decorative scheme.

The service kitchen has undergone complete rearrangement and refurbishing and has been equipped with a service bar complete in its appointments.

Dance music will be provided by the Severin Serenaders under the direction of Walter A. Jackson, well known in local music circles. A varied assortment of singing and dancing will complete the program.

(1) Natural beauty spots of California are used as background in several scenes in "Doctor Monica," which stars Kay Francis. This scene shows Miss Francis and Warren William enjoying a second honeymoon. The star is cast as a lady doctor who specializes in children. Now on view at the Circle.

(2) Leila Hyams is one of the several women who figure in the life of a popular novelist who always makes heroines, good and bad, out of his lady friends in real life. Paul Lukas does that in "Affairs of a Gentleman," now at the Lyric.

(3) You will want this cute picture of Shirley Temple and James Dunn. They romp this way in "Baby Take a Bow," now in its second week at the Apollo.

(4) Marion Davies goes in for simple pleasures in "Operator 13," which is now on view at Loew's Palace. Gary Cooper is pictured here making love to Miss Davies in an old-fashioned swing.

City Girl Will Make Balloon Trip at Park

At Riverside amusement park tomorrow afternoon Opal Thompson, an Indianapolis girl, will attempt her first solo balloon ascension and parachute leap.

It will be her first time to take the trip into the clouds alone. Some weeks ago she made her first ascension with the big Riverside balloon, but on that occasion she was accompanied by a veteran aeronaut, who supervised the cutting loose of the multiple parachutes.

Tomorrow afternoon the daring young woman will be on her own. The ascension will be under the direction of Mile High Ruth, well known to the Riverside balloon fans.

Tomorrow night the Smoky Mountain Boys, a quartet of hillbilly musicians from Tennessee, will entertain in the Riverside beer gardens. A public address system has been installed in the park, and the entertainment features are reproduced in various parts of the resort.

The Dolly Gray orchestra continues to provide the dance tunes in the moonlight dance palace, and E. W. Mushrush, manager, is staging a weekly "Jodies" night each Tuesday, when all ladies are admitted free.

The usual roller skating sessions are being continued right through the summer in the big rink, where a special cooling system is in operation.

The children's playground has been covered with a new coating of tanbark, and many additional tables and benches have been installed in the free picnic grove, making Riverside an ideal spot for family outings.

Fox to Offer New Type of Modern Film

Fox film will be the first motion picture company to inaugurate its 1934-35 season with a pre-release showing of "The World Moves On" at the Criterion theater, New York City, Thursday, June 28. It will be released throughout the country shortly after its New York opening.

Madeleine Carroll and Franchot Tone play the stellar roles as lovers who survive the mad destruction of conflicting forces in modern civilization, finding at the end that only spiritual values are sound and constant.

The picture boasts a cast of tried and popular performers, and has been endowed with lavish and spectacular production.

Among the supporting players are Louise Dresser, Raul Roulien, Siegfried Rumann, Reginald Denny, Dudley Digges, Brenda Fowler, Lumsden Hare, Frank Moran, Stephen Fichtel, Ferdinand Schumann-Heink, and a score of others.

The film, a Winfield Sheehan production, was directed by John Ford who will be remembered for "Four Sons," "Pilgrimage," and more recently "The Lost Patrol." Reginald Berkeley, who adapted Noel Coward's "Cavalcade" for Fox, wrote the original screen play.

The Fox Film Corporation has leased the Criterion theater for the run of the picture which is expected to be one of the outstanding productions of the year.

British Casts

The importance of having an English player in all American pictures is fast being recognized by the Hollywood producers. Fox and other large companies have used the system for some time with success, featuring such players as Heather Angel, Clive Brook, Diana Wynyard, Pat Patterson and others. Monogram is the latest to adopt the practice. Two of its recent pictures, "Jane Eyre" and "Shock," featured almost complete British casts. Among the players were Ralph Forbes, Colin Clive, Gwenllian Gill, Aileen Pringle, Jameson Thomas and Beryl Mercer. Now Trem Carr, Monogram vice-president, has taken yet another English player for an important role in "Monsters." Wilkie Collins' English mystery. She is pretty Evelyn Bostock, and her first picture will be in the nature of a test to determine whether or not she will catch the public fancy. In case she does, she will be groomed for stardom.

Mrs. Wiggs

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," the novel which delighted fathers and mothers of the present generation, went into production at Paramount this week.

Pauline Lord, distinguished stage star who played in such notable productions as "Anna Christie," "The Late Christopher Bean," "Strange Interlude" and "They Knew What They Wanted," makes her screen debut as "Mrs. Wiggs." Evelyn Venable and Kent Taylor, who have been teamed several times, are cast as the young lovers, Miss Lucy and Mr. Bob. W. C. Fields has a leading role and Zasu Pitts will play the vapid Miss Hazy. Norman Taurog directs.

Plenty of Nuts Here

George Burns and Grace Allen, "nut" comedians in Paramount's "We're Not Dressing," are convinced that there are at least 3,000 persons in the United States who admit insanity. "Every week," explains George, "we get at least twenty radio scripts from contributors. We have an insane act, so we figure that anybody who thinks he can write gags for us must be insane, too. We've been on the air three years, and in that time have received more than 3,000 offerings. And I haven't seen a gag I can use yet."

Carole Wants to Paint

Carole Lombard is trying to teach herself to paint by copying the colored sketches made by Travis Banton, Paramount fashion designer.

GREAT MONTE CARLO BALLET TO APPEAR HERE THIS YEAR

Monte Carlo Ballet Russe

Sometimes people really get a gift when they don't realize it. One of the chief attractions on the concert series of Mrs. Nancy Martens next season at English's is the Monte Carlo Ballet which now is in Paris after its first American tour which was a triumph.

Film Studio Dressing Rooms Serve Many Uses for Stars

What's a dressing room for? That depends upon the star. Some use them strictly for dressing. Some use them for resting places, some for entertaining, some for business and some for clubrooms.

Sylvia Sidney and Gary Cooper, who occupy rooms at opposite ends of Paramount's dressing room building—No. 101 and No. 122 respectively—are among those who use their rooms for dressing quarters only.

This is particularly true of Cooper, who dons his linen suits for "Now and Forever" there in the morning, and removes them at night, and nothing more.

Oakie uses his quarters for a lounging and entertaining room. He and business matters peculiar to stars. Brissan has a piano in his room, but seldom has time to play it. Crosby has a shortwave radio and a phonograph, and one or the other is in almost constant use.

Carole Lombard's room is the studio hangout. Cooper, Crosby, Oakie, Banton—somebody always is visiting Carole, and usually there are a dozen people there at once. When Carole is working, her secretary-companion, Madeline Fields, is in charge, and the door always is open.

Cary Grant doesn't spend much time in his room. His secretary keeps the place rigidly in order. Cary dresses and makes up there, lounges during his lunch hour (without dropping ashes on the floor) but otherwise is seldom around.

No Author Needed

Actual dialogue and circumstances of the sensational robbery of Mae West, in which she lost $17,500 in gems and cash, are being re-enacted by her and her leading man, Roger Pryor, in "It Ain't No Sin," Mae's original screen story.

Dog and Pony Show Is Ripple Park Feature

Monte Beehler's Dog and Pony Circus will be the feature attraction this afternoon and tonight at Broad Ripple park. The circus is composed of several acts of trained dogs and ponies and will appear in the park also tomorrow afternoon and night.

Tomorrow afternoon, the Broad Ripple pool will present the World's Fair champion log rollers. The art of log rolling originated in the lumber camps where lumberjacks rode logs which were floating in the rivers.

The object in log rolling is to unbalance the other person on the log so that he will fall into the water. The exhibition will be staged in the pool in front of the grandstand.

Arno Wade, pool life guard, will do some of the burlesque dives into the pool for which he is becoming famous, as a part of the afternoon water show.
