

FARLEY SLAMS LI'L ARTHUR IN ADDRESS HERE

Senator Worthy Only of Retirement, He Tells Democrats.

him. All were cheered with great enthusiasm by the crowd which, according to Mr. Jackson, was the greatest any organization ever attracted to the hotel.

Robbie Played for a "Chump"
Mr. Farley told them all that Senator Robinson was being "played for a chump" by his smarter Republican colleagues.

He charged that Republicans, who had aided the President in an emergency and whose aid had been acknowledged by him, now found themselves without anything to campaign about and were casting about for an issue—"any issue"—on which they might go to the people next November.

"They are beginning to catch their breath after the stunning popular rebuke of 1932," Mr. Farley commented.

"The real leaders of the Republican party did not dare assail the President, for they knew that the country is behind him," he explained of Senator Robinson's plight.

Recalls Robinson Attacks

"So they cast about for somebody rash enough and foolish enough to jeopardize his own political future by doing the thing they dared not do or were ashamed to do themselves, and the choice fell on your senator, perhaps on the theory that his political future was not worth worrying about in any case."

Mr. Farley then traced Senator Robinson's varied views on just what the present administration is pointing out that Li'l Arthur had likened it with a very few days to Russian monarchism, Russian Communism and Italian Fascism in that order.

This led him to his first mention of Sherman Minton, Democratic candidate for senator, who had received a remarkable ovation when he was introduced earlier in the evening.

Mr. Farley, who glossed over the bitter pre-convention and convention fight between Mr. Peters and the McNutt forces, said that all Indiana democracy was united behind Mr. Minton and that the party nationally would be proud to have him in the senate.

No Ordinary Campaign

"This is no ordinary congressional campaign," Mr. Farley thundered. "Our President has been belittled and misrepresented and our political adversaries are boldy proclaiming that their object is to elect a national legislature that will repudiate what this administration has offered."

"They would set aside the processes that have made our progress out of the depression a world marvel; they would put in reverse the car of progress and re-establish the system that brought the richest nation in the world to a plight none of us would have deemed possible."

"They want a congress typified by Arthur Robinson," he added, reminding his hearers that the senate press gallery recently had voted Senator Robinson the senator who best could be "dispensed with."

Scuffs at G. O. P. Boasts

Mr. Farley scoffed at Republican boasts of progress and said that, privately, the Republicans know they are doomed to defeat this fall. "Indiana," he declared near the end of his speech, "had been out of election rescued her to a large extent from the affliction of her congressional delegation."

"Now it is up to you to complete the job and substitute for your time-serving, opportunistic, do-nothing senior senator, the independent, able nominee of our party. Take out Arthur Robinson and put in his place the Honorable Sherman Minton."

Mr. Farley left Indianapolis for the west immediately after his speech.

MACEDONIANS OF CITY PROTEST DICTATORSHIP

Cablegram Sent to King Boris Pleads for Prisoners.

The American Macedonian Political Organization's central committee, 20 South West street, today made public the text of a cablegram to King Boris III of Bulgaria protesting "unwarranted persecutions which the new Bulgarian dictatorial government of Dictator Kimon Georgiev has started against the Macedonian Bulgarians."

The cablegram, signed by P. G. Shanef, organization president, asks King Boris' intervention on behalf of imprisoned Macedonians and punishment of those responsible for "assaults and arbitrariness over the people of Petrichke and Kustendil provinces."

"The state of seige in these provinces is a black spot in the government of your prime minister and the enlightened world energetically opposes such ways of terror," the cablegram says in conclusion.

It was a Ford coupe and was stolen in front of the Duesenberg plant at Washington and Harding streets.

Crawfordsville Bathers Brave Disease, Death in Sugar Creek, Polluted by Acid and City's Sewage

Sulphuric Solution From Wire Mill Found in Stream.

DANGER SIGNS MISSING

Engineer's Report Urging Disposal Plant Is Ignored.

$25,000 and loaned the remainder over a period of twenty-five years with an average annual retirement of the loan at $3,000 plus $1,500 interest at 4 per cent.

The same plant built in normal times would cost $150,000, with no grant from the federal government. Crawfordsville residents point with pride to the new $150,000 city hall. Furniture in the offices ranks with the finest in city halls of Indiana.

Pollution Is Reported

In that city hall is the record of Mr. Hurd's pollution survey, filed deep among other "unfinished business."

Councilmen, seated in the rich interior of the council chamber, can read these quotes from the survey: "Iron wastes, resulting from the discharge of pickling liquor, that is, partially spent sulphuric acid, into the sewer system is indicated. Pickling liquor in large volumes is destructive to fish life, and what is worse, from the standpoint of the nuisance created and the hazard to public health, is inhibitive to the natural bacteriological processes of self-purification," says the survey.

"The water of sugar creek, below Crawfordsville, is unmistakably polluted by the discharge of sanitary sewage and industrial wastes of the city."

Unsafe for Bathing

"For at least a distance of six miles below Crawfordsville, Sugar creek waters are unsafe for drinking, bathing and wading purposes, unsafe for livestock watering, and decidedly deleterious to fish life."

The report points out that it is almost impossible to swim without taking water into the body.

"This represents a hazard which can not be ignored. There have been numerous examples of typhoid fever, para-typhoid, cholera, dysentery, and other intestinal disease, contract through bathing in contaminated waters."

"Blood and skin infections, and throat and nasal disorders originating in this way are not uncommon. Fish taken from the stream as well as milk produced by cattle which have access to the stream are subject to contamination and are regarded as unsafe for human consumption."

Hazard to Health

"Sugar creek below Crawfordsville must be regarded as a potential hazard to the public health. It is apparent that modern sewage treatment facilities must be installed within a few years."

Lex Clore, city engineer, differs with Mr. Hurd's findings and similar findings by engineers of the sanitary division of the state board of health on the stream's ability to carry its load of pollution.

"Sugar creek has a high dilution and aeration with a good rock bottom which aids in purification. And there's the cost. A plant for proper disposal with intercepting sewers would cost $100,000 or $150,000," says Mr. Clore.

When it is pointed out to him that children swim in the stream near sewer outlets, and that fishermen attempt to catch fish at the same spots, he replies with the customary Crawfordsville answer: "They know better. They can swim safely above the dam."

C. of C. Urges Plant

The Crawfordsville Chamber of Commerce, headed by Forest Ward, ice cream manufacturer, favors a disposal plant. The chamber and Mr. Ward understand the futility of attempting to bring tourists to one of the state's most beautiful creeks, with acids and human wastes pouring illness and obnoxious bacteria into the stream.

The chamber desires that the signs pointing "This Way to General Lew Wallace's Home," always be kept well painted. But it also desires to see the time when the lack of signs below the dam on Sugar creek will not find: Boys diving off rocks into a creek tainted with sulphuric acid and sewage bacteria.

Gills of dead fish lying on the sandy creek islands, colored a rust-red by the iron wastes from the wire mill. Sewage odors emanating from the creek penetrating the town's garden spot, the Spring Ledge Golf and Country Club.

The once beautiful Sugar creek (upper) in the vicinity of Crawfordsville, is reddened by wastes, including sulphuric acid from a wire mill. Swimmers behind the dam (center), are bathing in safe waters in Sugar creek at Crawfordsville, but the Times found many uninformed swimmers who dove below the dam and within a short distance of a town sewer. A boy who has the nerve to fish within 100 yards of a sewer on Sugar creek (lower) is deserving of something better than scavenger fish, but the chances are against him.

VAN NUYS SAVES MADISON PWA WATER PROJECT

Senator Stops Rescinding Order in Time; U. S. to Help.

By Times Special

WASHINGTON, July 14.—A $60,000 Public Works Administration loan and grant for a municipal water works at Madison, Ind., was saved from being rescinded today through the intercession of Senator Frederick Van Nuys.

Action of the city in getting plans under way were handicapped by a suit launched in the name of a citizen, but said to be inspired by interests opposed to public ownership. Meanwhile, Interior Secretary Harold F. Ickes, PWA administrator, announced that sums already allocated and upon which prompt action was not being taken would be rescinded. The Madison project was placed on this list due to the delay caused by the pending suit which had been set for trial July 2.

Just before the trial date, a change of venue was asked.

Senator Van Nuys wrote Secretary Ickes setting forth the complications causing delay and received a prompt reply that the allotment would not be rescinded and PWA attorneys will aid the city in pushing plans.

The financing calls for $48,000 in revenue bonds to be retired through water company profits and a federal grant of $12,000.

Indiana in Brief

By Times Special

ALEXANDRIA, July 14.—Frank Greenlee, who has been a blacksmith for forty-four years, recalls the days when a capable smith could earn $15 to $20 a day shoeing horses. Today there is little shoeing, the bulk of a shop's work being repairs, and sharpening sickles and plow shares and tightening tires of wagon wheels.

However, an average of five to six horses still are shod daily. With the increased demand, shoeing prices have risen, running from $2 to $3 depending upon the size of shoes. Horseshoes also are higher. Formerly, the price was $2.50 for a 100-pound keg. Now it is $9.
