

RIZES OFFERED FOR TITLE FOR NEW PAGEANT

Playground Playwright Is Stumped for Name of Latest Work.

By William McLaughley Times Staff Writer.

Norma Koster, prolific playwright of the recreation department, realized that she was stumped one day this week.

With her fertile pen she just had turned out another summer masterpiece, a playground pageant. With the manuscript completed, there was nothing left to do but name it. There was the catch!

Although she thought and thought no name was forthcoming. Rushing frantically over to this department, she explained that a pageant without a name was worse than no pageant at all. So, we decided to sponsor a contest and offer prizes to the readers of this column who turn in the best names for the pageant.

If you are 17 years old, or younger, you may enter this contest by sending your name and address and your choice for a title to the Playground News Editor, The Indianapolis Times.

Here is a brief synopsis of the pageant. Read it over and decide what name you think is most appropriate for it. Your guess may be as good as any one's.

Synopsis: In the kingdom of King Abdul lives a wicked witch, Natoma, who sets out to make mischief for the king and his three daughters, Triella, Daphne and Anitra.

Rounding up her imps, the witch dashes down on the king's fair ladies and carries them off. Triella falls into the hands of a Mahmood, a monster, a giant, Guinere, grabs up Daphne. The youngest daughter, Anitra, falls into the clutches of a huge spider of Bahman.

Grief-stricken, King Abdul issues a proclamation that any man who can bring back his daughters will receive in marriage the hand of the daughter he rescues, and one-fourth of the kingdom besides.

Three suitors for each daughter present themselves. In each case, the first two get killed in seeking to rescue their particular beloved one. The third fellow in each instance proves the lucky one and comes back for his bride.

When the suitors return to the court, there is great rejoicing and, after a triple wedding they all live happily ever after, according to Miss Koster—and she should know.

Like the king, we will offer prizes. The prize for the girl winner will consist of two tickets to the theater. The boy who submits the best name will receive two tickets to see the Indianapolis Indians play at Perry stadium.

Contestants may submit more than one name if they desire. All names must be in to this department by Monday, Aug. 6.

Today we complete the current list of playground helpers at the various parks.

Brookside—Ben Brown, Earl McMeary, Bobby Brown, Arvinia Pearson, Ray Stiff, Bonnie Brown, Rosalind Campbell and Ethleen Mocas. Indianapolis—Betty Welker and Bob Harmon.

Brightwood—Louise Williams, Jean Smith, Marjorie Goolsby, Pauline Smith, Joseph Patterson, Billy Smith, John Baker and Donald Robbins.

Rader and Udel—Billy Crawshaw, Esther Winkley, Joan Frenzel, Louise Reynolds, Betty McGuire, George Sileo, Mary Reynolds, Betty Churchill and Emma McGuire.

Finch—Ben Dennison, Ralph Hittle, John Hittle, Helen Newsome, Robert Harmon, Betty Rohman, Harry Robbins, Harlan Hittle, Betty Newsome, Helen Daily, John Henry Schnall and Mary Daily.

Highland—Mary Frances Jones, Benny Stratton, Thelma Metherd and Harry Higgins.

Several rehearsals for the pageant at Garfield park on Aug. 24 have been scheduled for next week.

At 3 o'clock Monday the children will rehearse at Garfield. The rehearsal will be held at Rhodus at 2 o'clock Tuesday. At 2 o'clock Wednesday the rehearsal will take place at Elmhurst and on Thursday at Brookside at the same hour.

When Old Sol "cracked down" on Indianapolis last week, he drove 72,432 people into municipal pools and beaches. This figure is nearly 25,000 more than the number bathing here the same week last year. McClure beach played host to 30,172, while 10,943 swam at the Elmhurst pool.

GOVERNOR REQUESTS ESTIMATES ON TAXES

Move to Aid Determination of Property Values.

Governor Paul V. McNutt has ordered the state accounts board to instruct local taxing units as to how much money may be expected from the state for the remainder of the year and for 1935.

This move will be made in order that local units may estimate how much money must be raised by property taxes. W. P. Cosgrove, state examiner, said that the state estimates would be based on present laws and might be subject to change.

Mr. Cosgrove also stated that the estimates would be conservative.

Indiana in Brief

DANVILLE, July 28.—Lieutenant Dwight Harvey, U. S. A., in Danville visiting relatives while on furlough from his station in the Panama Canal zone, has filed suit for divorce against Mrs. Jane Harvey. He alleges infidelity.

Conduct of Mrs. Harvey, the complaint states, caused her to be compelled to leave the canal zone. The husband asks custody of two small daughters.

Mrs. Harvey was in jail here recently overnight after she had taken the children from the home of the father's relatives here. She was located in Indianapolis with the children and forced to return home. The couple was married Jan. 15, 1930, while Lieutenant Harvey was stationed at Ft. Harrison, Indianapolis, and Mrs. Harvey attended Tudor Hall, exclusive girls' school.

BUSINESS NEWS FOR THE WEEK

TROLLEY CARS KEPT ON MOVE BY SUPERVISORS

Schedule Maintenance and Other Problems Solved by Traffic Staff.

The twenty-two Indianapolis Railways supervisors are vital factors in directing street car schedules, solving traffic snarls and aiding the public.

They are located at strategic points throughout the city and are in constant touch with the main office by private telephone lines.

Recognized by the white peaks on their caps, the supervisors reroute cars and buses in case of parades, fires and other situations arising in a metropolitan transportation system.

During a downtown parade, which tangles traffic for many blocks, the supervisors are alert to keep the routes open in such a way as to not interfere with the line of march.

One duty of the supervisor is to give information to the public. In order to be able to do this the supervisor must have a wide knowledge of the city, its streets and their proximity to lines of transportation.

Supervisory stations are located at Illinois and Washington streets, Pennsylvania and Maryland streets, Alabama street and Massachusetts avenue, Forty-sixth street and College avenue and Thirtieth and Illinois streets.

RISE IN TREND IN BUSINESS NOTED

Roy Stringer Declares Best Outlook Since 1929 Prevails Now.

That business conditions on a whole are showing marked improvement is attested by Roy Stringer, president of the Roy Stringer Company, Ltd., 621 North Noble street, manufacturer of the Ko-Pak-Ta nut warming machines and various other articles.

Mr. Stringer, who returned recently to the city after making an extensive survey in connection with his business, reports the outlook is much better now than it has been since 1929.

The general public, according to Mr. Stringer, appears to have much more confidence. There appears to be a general feeling that the New Deal is showing results, and more persons are anxious to invest money in substantial businesses than has been the case for some time.

"Since Jan. 1 we have seen an increase of approximately 40 per cent in the number of machines sold over the corresponding period last year. Within this increase a great extent is from distributors who are expanding their business, the number of new distributors that are being appointed also has shown a gain."

CHIEF MORRISSEY IS ANXIOUS FOR DRIVE ON STATION VERMIN

Every time the slobber hulk of the "black maria" swings into the rear of the police station with a new load of passengers, the vermin loudly lick their chops at the prospect of fresh meat, police legend declares.

If a recommendation of Police Chief Mike Morrissey is proved by the safety board, however, the vermin must find a new place to eat.

A local company has offered to render extermination services to roaches, bugs and other vermin at police headquarters for one year, guaranteeing satisfaction.

Under the present system, attached at headquarters for the vermin with spray guns and other devices which give only temporary relief at best, Chief Morrissey told the board.

650 MILES OF U. S. AIRWAYS CROSS STATE

283 State Pilots Hold Commerce Department Licenses. Beacons along 650 miles of federal airways flash each night in Indiana, according to information released today by the air commerce bureau of the commerce department in Washington.

These lights are part of the federal system which extends to every section of the country to guide night fliers along forty-six routes, including six in or through this state.

There are 140 Indiana planes bearing commerce department licenses and 283 state pilots hold department licenses. Ten physicians in eight Indiana cities have been designated to examine applicants for pilots' licenses and for renewals of such licenses. Dr. Wilbur F. Smith and Dr. Charles W. Roller are the two examiners in Indianapolis.

INDIAN VILLAGE BEER TAVERN PRESENTS NOVEL APPEARANCE

The novel appearance of the new Indian village, above, beer tavern and dance hall at 1654 Roosevelt avenue has attracted interest.

Totem poles stand outside the entrance. Over the bar is a large mural painting depicting a meditative Indian chief surrounded by his tribe. The background shows Indian tents on the shore of a lake. "Much time was spent on research to make the decorations authentic," Don Demree, proprietor, stated. "The plaques around the walls of the dance floor are copies of weapons pictured in books describing Indian life."

Bordering the painting is a swastika design which dates back to the Aztecs. This design, taken from the position of a group of stars at sunset, is translated as meaning, "Greetings and best wishes for a new day."

Ends of the booths are shaped to resemble a tepee and the table legs are made of birch logs. Ceiling lights are contained in old style lanterns and give off a firelight glow effect.

Nine-Star lager beer, distributed by the American Beverage Company, is served at the tavern.

Bermuda's Climate and English Airsts Attract

Luxurious Liners Afford Pleasant Voyage to Islands.

NEW YORK, July 28.—It was inevitable that the islands of Bermuda should become popular as a summer resort. Climatic conditions could not long be ignored. Residents of large northern cities began to be aware that these coral islands had no sweltering heat waves; that the temperature there varied little from winter to summer, that the ocean breezes were constant and the humidity consistently low. Naturally, then, the prospect of vacationing on an island of surpassing beauty, where every conceivable sport and diversion had been developed to an unusual degree, appealed strongly to the summer traveler.

But there was—and is—another important factor in the attraction of Bermuda. Bermuda is British besides being subtropical. It therefore offers not only the complete change of scene which is so desirable to the vacationer, but a tone, an atmosphere, that always have signified informal smartness. There is about this British resort a sort of conventional negligence that contributes delightfully to its many pleasures—on the golf course, at the beach, on tennis courts or coral lanes.

Nor is this charming way of doing things altogether like the England of today. In part it is solely Bermudian. Those who ride bicycles, those who play tennis, those who go to the left, as in England. But there is this essential difference. There are no automobiles in Bermuda, no heavy traffic and no excessive speed. To drive through the narrow streets of seventeenth century St. George's town, therefore, is an experience rather like the seventeenth century might have presented in England—peaceful, unhurried, relaxing.

With these and innumerable other charms does Bermuda attract the summer visitor. And as important, surely, as Bermuda itself, is the voyage there. Such liners as the Monarch and the Queen of Bermuda give the traveler the joys he seeks, from the moment he steps aboard at the New York pier: sports on wide decks, swimming in magnificent pools, dancing to famous music on a $250,000 dance deck. And either of these liners offers such luxurious living as has rarely been known on the seven seas—these

A new plan of deferred payments to enable motorists to have repairs made on their cars without money on hand has been instituted by the Don Herr garage, 122 Kentucky avenue.

"Following the same sound basis used on home or auto loans, we have worked out a deferred payment plan whereby the car owner may have the necessary repairs made to his automobile, and pay on convenient terms at the same time having the satisfaction of knowing the repair work is not inferior," Mr. Herr stated.

ASBESTOS ABOUNDS IN PROVINCE OF CANADA

One-Fifth of World's Supply Mined in Section of Quebec.

SHERBROOKE, Quebec, July 28.—They never worry about the heat in the eastern townships section of the province of Quebec for this picturesque country known as the "New England of Canada" produces more than half of the world's supply of asbestos.

In an area less than fifty miles square, the eastern townships mine more than 55 per cent of the world supply. This production comes chiefly from the region extending from Danville, through Thetford mines and Black lake to East Broughton, in a district renowned also for its lakes, trout streams, resorts and general scenic charm.

Priming Coat Important

The priming coat, since it is the foundation for all future paintings, should be carefully applied with the best quality materials, paint experts declare. Use of old or leftover paint for priming usually results in a poorly finished surface.
