

EULOGY, POEM
AND SONG FORM
DRESSER RITES

Close Friends to Attend Simple Ceremony for Beloved Star.

HOLLYWOOD, July 31.—With the simplest ceremony, Marie Dresser will be buried today.

Only a few of her closest friends, ranging from producers to property boys, will attend services at Forest Lawn Memorial park. Police were prepared for a crush of thousands expected to fight for a glimpse of celebrities—as they did at the funerals of Lon Chaney and Rudolph Valentino.

The film industry's farewell to the famous star will consist of a poem, a song and a eulogy, just as she would have wished it.

The poem will be placed in the casket beside her body, ravaged by disease to the point that none was permitted to view it. It runs:

Perhaps she learned the truth when time was young—And knew her gods and goddesses were not To die with a little while on earth.

Jeannette MacDonald, screen star, will sing "Abide With Me" and "Face to Face." Then Miss Catharine Lewis will play the organ for the last time for the kind veteran who employed her as a "sideline" pianist during making of the old silent pictures.

Six pallbearers, all director-friends of long standing, will carry the simple bronze casket to the grave. The pallbearers will be W. S. Van Dyke, William K. Howard, Mervyn Leroy, Charles F. Riesner, Jack Conway and Clarence Brown.

Miss Dresser died last Saturday at 65 after a lingering battle against cancer of the stomach.
