

—Playground News— CITY PLAYLOT PAGEANT STILL WITHOUT NAME

Contest, Open to Boys and Girls, to Pick Title
Is Started.

BY WILLIAM H. M'GAUGHEY
Times Staff Writer.

Like a victim of amnesia, the playground pageant still wanders about the recreation department without a name.

In this particular case, the victim never had a name and must rely upon the readers of this column for a title.

Two tickets to see the Indianapolis Indians play at Perry stadium will go to the boy with the winning title and some bright girl will get two passes to the theater.

Send in as many suggestions as you like to Playground News Editor, The Times. Miss Norma Koster, author of the pageant, with the conductor of this column, will judge the titles.

To be eligible to qualify for the tickets, entrants must be 17 or under. Turn in the names before Monday, Aug. 6.

Here is a short synopsis of the pageant, which will be presented in several weeks at one of the parks. Synopsis: King Abdul awakened one morning to find his eldest daughter kidnaped by the witch, Natoma. As he prepares to call out the guards, his two youngest daughters are spirited away.

Deciding that the witch has carried the joke too far, the king offers one-fourth of his kingdom and his daughters hands in marriage to the young men bringing them back.

The boys have quite a time before they carry the blushing young damsels back to their papa. In fact, the first two suitors in each case are killed by dragons, giants and other irritating impediments in the path to matrimony.

With the help of fairies, the third suitor for each daughter's hand is able to accomplish his mission and returns for a share of the kingdom.

Highland playground was chosen by supervisors as the cleanest in the city last week. The names of the helpers who worked to keep it spic-and-span are Benny Strattan, Lucy Fenton, Emma Strattan and Buddy Jones. Other playground helpers are:

Pleasant Run—Freddie Benson, Leroy Ditchley, Ruby Benson, Arthur Ditchley, Joan Wortman and Orville Ditchley.

Garfield—Norma Skillman, Raymond Burns, Phyllis Duderman, Denny Donovan, John Emrich, Evelyn Skillman, Paul Duderman, Leta Bruggner and Margaret Burnett.

Brightwood—Kenneth Bergdoll, Ethel Donahue, Beatrice Patterson, Bob Bergdoll, Joan Bear and Robert Cave.

Willard—Virginia Fish, Irene Burkart, Mary Ellen Isaacs and Marie Knoops.

Brookside—Betty Jean Broden, Indiana—John Grimes and Rose Tahacs.

In the senior girls' baseball leagues, Rhodius beat Riley, 10 to 6, last week to win the west side league championship.

Brightwood and Christian are fighting it out for the championship on the east side. The winner will meet Pleasant Run, the south side champion, to determine who competes with Rhodius in the finals at Willard Aug. 14.

SCIENCE FIGHTS BOY'S FATHER TO SAVE LIMB

Parent Protests Leg Operation;
'Against God,' He Cries.

By United Press

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.—Science moved a step nearer today toward straightening the crippled limb of Johnny Hoffman, 16, whose father believes that "faith and not medical aid cures all ills."

Johnny was operated upon at General hospital yesterday. Dr. J. R. Moore removed a decayed bone from the boy's left leg, said the operation was successful.

"It is against God's will," John Hoffman Sr., the boy's father said. "It isn't right to take matters like this out of God's hands. Somebody will have to answer for it on Judgment day."

Judge Theodore Rosen, who ordered the operation, said the court would assume responsibility for the operation.
