

HUNDREDS OF CITY WORKMEN TO GET JOBS

Influx of Federal Funds Gives Heart to PWA Projects.

Several hundred jobs will be provided Indianapolis workmen as the result of additional public works grants announced over the weekend.

The new grants are $62,000 to the Indianapolis sanitary board for new cookers at the city garbage disposal plant, and $195,000 for completion of the World War memorial shrine.

These grants, together with several announced last week, bring a total of $1,721,000 in federal funds to Indianapolis.

Grants made last week include $1,300,000 from the treasury department for construction of a wing to the federal building; $38,500 for the proposed Flower Mission tuberculosis hospital building at city hospital, and $126,000 to aid in construction of a $450,000 addition to the sewage disposal plant.

War memorial trustees will raise additional funds, the total cost of the project being $676,000. The project will take eleven months to complete and will employ 250 men, it is estimated.

Some doubts as to the authenticity of the garbage plant grant to the sanitary board were expressed today by Maurice E. Tennant, board president, who said that a previous request for a PWA grant had been refused because the city could not meet the government's requirement that 70 per cent of the amount be raised by municipal bonds.

GOLD FOUND IN CANADIAN WILDS

Airplanes Prepare to Dash to Great Bear Lake in Northwest.

By United Press

OTTAWA, Ontario, Aug. 13.—Indian prospectors have made a sensational gold strike in the Great Bear lake district of the northwest, radio messages to the government indicated today.

Surrounded by his five children, his 41-year-old brother, Robert, and his 65-year-old sister, Mary Teester, told with solemn pride how he "licked the serpent with the most powerful of all weapons—faith in the Lord."

The arm which the snake's fangs penetrated twice before the eyes of his congregation a week ago Sunday was still swollen today but appeared much improved.

"I'll be all right in a few more days," he drawled. "Then I'm goin' back to my farmin'."

Teester, a sturdy mountaineer of Scotch-Irish ancestry, arose from the bed where for several days he had tossed in agony, and walked nine miles yesterday over the winding trails of the Great Smokies to deliver two sermons.

"I'll take the word of God today and preach on it," the 39-year-old "Holiness" preacher told his flock, augmented by mountain folk of other sects who had come to witness the "miracle." "I want to tell you and I want it to go out to all the world just why I picked up a serpent and let it bite me last Sunday."

"I'm doing this for God and I explain from His book. In the name of Jesus I took up the snake and let it bite me. I have the best physician in all the world. I'll tell you who it is. It is Jesus Christ."

A hoarse cry of "Hallelujah, praise the Lord," interrupted.

"I will never need any medical attention, for I believe in God and take Him as my healer. That is why all the suffering did not matter to me. If I die, I won't be ashamed of having picked up the snake for God."

"Hallelujah! The Lord be praised! Amen!"

"I used to believe in doctors," the preacher said at another meeting.

"But when I gave my heart to the Lord fourteen years ago, I stopped going to doctors and started going to church."

"The Holiness church (as the Lord of God is familiarly known) teaches that we should trust God for the healing of our bodies and this includes protection from diseases."
