

Women of All Classes Feel Strike

Textile Labor Disturbance Affects Workers and Fabric Buyers.

BY ELEANOR GUNN
Times Special Writer

LABOR news usually is regarded by women as dull reading, but, believe me, it is no longer dull. Strike news may not have much reader appeal to women, but this great textile strike, which affects more women directly and indirectly than any other strike in history, strikes home. And that's where woman's heart is, whether she is a mill worker or a millionaire. Woman's part is no longer passive. In the great strike of today and in many to come she plays an active part. She is a co-worker, a striker in her own right, not merely an innocent victim dragged into the fray at the heels of her militant husband.

Men, confident that the children would be cared for some way, somehow, by women, were free to hurl themselves into the broader issues. They marched on to achievement or destruction, unhampered by much personal concern. But women are scared differently. They are incapable of any burning interest in which there is no personal element. Justice, in a broad, impersonal sense, leaves women cold. They can be galvanized into action only by something which touches them personally or greatly affects those for whom they care.

Affects Consumers.

Even the women spectators of this great tragedy which touches them only as an obstacle in the path of obtaining the purple and fine linen which it pleases them to wear are affected vitally. The chances are that these women will register only annoyance not because they are cautious to the sufferings of their less fortunate sisters but because they are entirely ignorant of the conditions under which they work—conditions which, rightly or wrongly, have brought about this catastrophe.

How many women have ever seen the inside of a cotton mill, or any other kind for that matter? How many have the slightest conception of how these workers live or work? How many of any of us, in short, have the slightest idea of how the other side of the world lives?

Women, by and large, are not given to exposing causes in which they have no personal concern. But in no strike, save that which affects food, are women more vitally concerned than with this textile strike, which touches women more closely than any other strike. Not only the workers in the mills but these women who are the final consumers of the fabrics on which they labor are affected.

Courage to Strike Amazes

The great textile mills throughout New England and the south employ hundreds of thousands of women. Were they content to let well enough alone or were they too impelled by their desires to hurl themselves against the opposing forces? Was the vision of bread and honey to come enough to make them loosen their hold on the crust they clutched in order to grasp at a shadow?

If so women have changed greatly with the march of time. Here, therefore they have shown a curious apathy toward the sufferings of the world at large and an intense, even fierce, interest in the comfort and welfare of the family group.

CERTAIN broad generalities exist in the play of bridge hands, which have gradually grown into oft-repeated axioms for guidance of the beginner. These are such as "Return your partner's lead," "Cover an honor with an honor," and several others.

There are, of course, exceptions—exceptions so numerous that one might say the rule is a fallacy. A further feature in today's hand is the selection of trumps of the four-four combination in spades rather than the five-three combination in hearts.

While the bidding may seem aggressive, suffice it to say that, with only normal defense, six hearts can not be made. But it requires masterful defense to stop six spades.

SOUTH opened the king of diamonds, and followed with the ace, East ruffing with the nine of spades. East then led the jack of hearts, but South declined to cover with the queen and East's jack held.

East next led the queen of clubs and again South refused to make the mechanical play of covering with the king, permitting the club queen to take the trick. Declarer is reduced to three trumps, and, while the outstanding trumps can be drawn, East is without an entry to bring in the heart suit after the trumps have been led.

East's technique of play was the best, but careful analysis will reveal that he must create, if possible, an entry to his hand to make twelve tricks.

Had South covered with the queen of hearts or king of clubs, the ten of hearts or jack of clubs would have become the needed entry, and after leading three rounds of trump, West's two losing clubs could have been discarded on East's two good hearts, completing the contract of six spades.

Opportunity for Study Presented

Irvington Union of Clubs Will Open Classes on Sept. 21.

Mrs. Walter W. Ward, president of the Irvington Union of Clubs, has announced that the union activities will begin with the Sept. 21 opening of the study course sponsored for the fifth year. Co-chairmen of the course are Mrs. Walter Montgomery, Mrs. James E. Loudon and Mrs. Edgar Renne.

These classes are organized for personal culture and civic betterment, and are available to every woman in the city regardless of residence or club affiliation.

A new course is a class in sewing by Mrs. W. E. Brasington. The sewing classes have been planned in two groups of six: On the six successive Fridays from Sept. 21 to Oct. 26, inclusive, Mrs. Brasington has taught sewing in the public schools in Marion county, has worked with clubs and parent-teacher associations and has given lectures throughout the state on the technique of weaving, designing and fabric making.

The committee for the sewing classes is Mrs. Edgar T. Forsyth, chairman, Mesdames Raymond Stiltz, Roger Beem and P. W. Ross. Lectures Scheduled
Another feature of the study course will be the monthly lectures by Mrs. Demarchus C. Brown on "Picturesque Figures in American History." George Rogers Clark, Aaron Burr, Andrew Jackson and John C. Fremont are among the characters to be discussed and the lecture for March, "The Romance of the Panama Canal," will be of outstanding interest. The committee for these classes include Mrs. H. E. Barnard, chairman; Mrs. Walter S. King and Mrs. Austin V. Clifford.

Studies in contemporary literature will be given on the fourth Tuesday in each month by Kathryn Turney Garson. The committee is Mrs. C. E. Donnell, chairman; Mrs. Charles Cunningham and Mrs. Victor Jose Jr.

Class in world affairs will be given the second Friday in each month starting in October. These lectures will be given by Professor John J. Haramy and Harold E. Fey. Professor Haramy is teacher of history at Indiana Central college and Mr. Fey is connected with the United Missionary Society. The committee for this course is Mrs. Charles A. Harris, chairman; Mesdames J. Ladd Moxley, Harry Linstadt, and Harold E. Fey.

Psychology lectures headed, "A Child's Garden Story Course," will be given by Mrs. C. M. Cunningham. In connection with the lectures, Mrs. Cunningham will conduct a period of open discussion with a question box, and will arrange for a library reference and bibliography.

Cooking Course Offered
Mrs. Cunningham has studied psychology at the University of Chicago, and Ohio State university and formerly was principal of Tudor Hall. The committee includes Mrs. Harold H. Arnholter, chairman; Mrs. H. A. Henderson, and Mrs. E. J. Thompson.

Technique in cookery will be given by Miss Stenora Marie Holdahl. Miss Holdahl, graduate of the School of Domestic Science, Boston, was instructor in foods at Wellesley college during the World War, has visited the food markets in Europe and Mediterranean countries. She was home economics director for the Corn Industries Research Foundation.

The committee for this course is Mrs. Robert Reed, chairman; Mrs. M. J. Reese and Mrs. Russell Bostart.

The advisory committee for the study course includes Mrs. Charles A. Harris, Mrs. Robert Hall and Mrs. Ward. All the classes will meet in the Irvington Presbyterian church, corner of Johnson and Julian avenues.

Ticket sale for the study course will be started at 2:30 Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. Montgomery, 128 Downey avenue. Mrs. Ward will preside at a meeting at Mrs. Montgomery's home and those in attendance will include the officers, the study class committees and one delegate from each of the member organizations.

A Woman's Viewpoint
 By MRS. WALTER FERGUSON
 THE men have a brand new grouch, and it strikes me as perfectly legitimate. They can't find drinking places that are not cluttered up with women. "The girls are underfoot like cockroaches," complains one who is fond of his beer and yet remains reasonably sober, "and they won't stay put in the swankier places built especially for them. No, they've got to tag along with us. Just hang a sign 'Stag Bar' on the window, and all the women and girls in town will break down the doors getting in. Frankly, I don't care for the new drinking deal. I want my beer, but I don't want women ganging up on me while I'm taking it." I belong to the old order, too. Having been reared in an era when nice little girls not only did not go into saloons, but walked primly on the opposite side of the street to avoid their contagion, I confess to an uncomfortable feeling when my foot is on the rail. Half-drunken girls draped over either bars or tables do not appeal to the esthetic sense, and a bunch of bleary-eyed matrons playing the role of female waitresses is not an inspiring sight. So when it comes to tomboy drinking I'm all for segregating the sexes. Mainly because, in my opinion, the ladies are not going to be able to elevate the manners of the barflies, whether those barflies be rich and distinguished or just plain low-born thugs. The tonier places for mixed and polite cocktail rendezvous are o. k., but when it comes down to the old sawdust-sprinkled joints, why not have them sacrosanct to men? Anyway, drinking is an art in which the gentlemen seem to outshine us. And it's one art in which we should not strive to compete with them.

For good digestion

—there is nothing that can take the place of your own gastric, digestive secretions. Frequently, poor digestion is due to lack of tone in the stomach walls—because of low blood strength. S.S.S., the great, scientifically-tested medicine, is specially designed to fill a two-fold purpose in this respect... it aids in stimulating the flow of natural stomach secretions... and by building up deficient red corpuscles, with their hemoglobin, it restores to a more normal functioning the secretions of the stomach digestive juices... so necessary for good digestion. This double value of S.S.S. is important. By all means try S.S.S. for better health and more happiness. Its benefits are progressive... accumulative... and enduring. Unless your case is exceptional, you should soon enjoy again the satisfaction of appetizing food and good digestion... sound sleep... and renewed strength. This is why many say "S.S.S. makes you feel like yourself again." Do not be misled by the efforts of a few unethical dealers who may suggest substitutes. You have a right to insist that S.S.S. be supplied you on request. Its long years of preference is your guarantee of satisfaction.
