

G. O. P. WILL GO TO COURTS IN KYLE FIGHT

Election Board Rules Gary Republican's Name Off Ballots.

Republican leaders planned today to carry to the courts the refusal of the state election board to place the name of Joseph B. Kyle, Gary, on state ballots as Republican candidate for Lieutenant-Governor.

By a two to one vote, the board ruled against the Republican theory that the office of Lieutenant-Governor has been vacated by M. Clifford Townsend when he accepted a state administrative position.

Governor Paul V. McNutt and W. W. Spencer, Democratic members of the election commission, voted against placing Mr. Kyle's name on the ballots. Fred C. Gause, Republican member, voted to accept him as a candidate.

Application of Don B. Irwin, Republican state chairman, for a hearing was rejected on the ground the court is the proper place to decide the controversy.

Solon J. Carter, Republican legal committee chairman, said he would confer today on arrangements to take the case into court.

Minton Denies Charge

Promises to continue his present campaign of ridicule of "those self-appointed defenders of the Constitution" was made by Sherman Minton, Democratic nominee for United States senator, at a meeting of Negro Democratic clubs in the Walker casino last night.

Charges that he himself had been ridiculing the Constitution in his speeches vigorously were denounced by Mr. Minton. He declared that he never had done such a thing, that he studied the Constitution under William Howard Taft and that he was a member of the American army fighting in defense of the document.

Superior Judge John W. Kern, nominee for mayor, asserted that it is the duty of patriotic citizens of Indianapolis to continue the Democratic municipal administration because it has given "efficient and honest government."

Introduction of a bill to raise the maximum old age pension to $25 a month and reduce the age requirement from 70 to 65 years was promised by Walter E. Paul, formerly assistant state safety director of the civilian works administration.

Ralph Scott to Speak

Ralph A. Scott, Eleventh district Republican congressional nominee, will speak at a meeting in the Cumberland community house at 8 Wednesday night. The meeting will be under auspices of the Warren Township Republican Club and Cumberland Republican committee.

John Shearer, township chairman, will preside. Township and county candidates will be introduced.

Senator Raps M'Nutt

SOUTH BEND, Sept. 22.—Permanent employment for the 11,000 men and women out of work is the only solution of the present economic situation, Senator Arthur R. Benson told St. Joseph county Republicans at a meeting here yesterday.

National as well as state issues were discussed by the senator. Center of his attack was on the "brain trust" surrounding President Roosevelt.

The spoils system in Indiana penal and welfare institutions also was denounced by the speaker, who assailed the domination of Governor Paul V. McNutt's political machine.

LABOR CO-OPERATES IN IMPROVING TEXAS CITY

MASS MEETING HELD TO PLAN CIVIC ENTERPRISES.

RANGER, Tex., Sept. 22.—Labor will co-operate with city leaders in promoting enterprises here which will benefit the city in the future.

This was the expression heard at a mass meeting here recently when plans were discussed for improving the city, bringing in new industries and adding to payrolls.

Charles Hutchinson outlined the purpose of the meeting.

The group discussed improving unpaved streets which pass by schools, and considered plans to provide for increased water supply needed for industries which later may locate here.

RADIOPHONE INSTALLED TO FRIGHTEEN BURGLARS

Alarm Costs $250; Dog Barks, Voice Asks 'Who's There?'

LONDON, Sept. 22.—A woman has just paid $250 for a radiophone to play one record only.

When it is played, a dog's bark is heard, followed by a man's cry of "Who's there?"

The purchaser is a widow, living with an elderly maid in a district which has had epidemics of burglaries.

With her new radiophone loudspeakers will be installed in every room, the radiophone will be connected with "invisible light" alarms across each window, and any would-be thief will get the shock of his life if he tries to enter.

PREPARE FOR SADDLE CLUB'S ROUNDUP OCT. 14 AT GREGG FARM

Preliminary arrangements are under way for the Indiana Saddle Horse Association's second annual roundup and "fun fest" to be held Oct. 14 on the Charles F. Gregg farm, North Meridian and One Hundred and Sixth streets.

Members of the public safety committee, headed by Adjutant-General E. F. Straub, met yesterday to discuss safety measures, policing of the grounds and traffic problems. Members in the picture include Al G. Feeney, state safety director; Charles (Buck) Summer, Marion county sheriff; Frank Hattery, Noblesville, Hamilton county sheriff, and E. A. Cassey, Lebanon.

Officer Pleads Guilty to Attempt to Defraud

Fourteen Indiana National Guardsmen Deny Charges, Eight Face Trial in Federal Court Nov. 4.

Eight of fifteen Indiana national guard officers arraigned before Federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell yesterday on charges of attempting to defraud the government will be tried in federal court here Nov. 14.

Fourteen of the group pleaded not guilty, while one, Harry R. Piles, Greensburg, 63, retired guard captain, pleaded guilty. He was released on his own recognizance until next Saturday, when he will be sentenced.

Those in the Indianapolis division pleading not guilty were Bine Plunkett, Bernard Rome, William A. Sebastian, Ira C. Lee and Albert Neff, all regular army sergeants attached to the guard; Captain James C. Gabriel and Archie J. Everett, retired captain.

The dubious distinction of being the first persons in the United States sentenced under the new federal law prohibiting transportation of a kidnaped person across a state line went to Fletcher W. Rooker, 27, Brooklyn; Harlan A. Marshall, 24, Indianapolis; and Ralph F. Shideler, 23, Indianapolis.

They were sentenced to ten years each in Atlanta penitentiary. After pleading guilty to hijacking a truck driven by Voyle Sewright, Indianapolis, loaded with 300 automobile batteries, near Camp Knox, Ky., and then driving it, with Mr. Sewright a prisoner, to near Spencer, Ind., where Mr. Sewright was released.

A fourth defendant in the case, Millard J. Rooker, Brooklyn, pleaded guilty to charges of possession of the stolen batteries, which had been taken from officers of the Fletcher Trust Company by threatening letters. He will be sentenced Oct. 29.

Others in Indianapolis division who pleaded guilty, the charges against them and their sentences follow: Leland Earl Pelton, corner Indiana and Ohio streets, counterfeiting, three years; James F. Manley, counterfeiting internal revenue stamps, six months and $10 fine; Homer and Robert Goodale, both Negroes, transporting liquor on which the tax had not been paid, to be sentenced Sept. 25; Kenneth Lane, possession of unlicensed still, thirty days and $100 fine; James Morgan, narcotic law violation, to be sentenced Sept. 29; John Schultz, interstate transportation of a stolen car, two years; Leon Oscar Smith, interstate transportation of a stolen car, to be sentenced Sept. 29; and Jobe Davis Jr., transportation of a stolen car, three years.

Cherra Punji, in the hills of Assam, is now said to be the wettest spot on earth. The average rainfall for the town, based on records gathered for forty-nine years, is 428 inches annually.

Indiana in Brief

COLUMBUS, Sept. 22.—Arrests on intoxication charges in Columbus during the past summer were more than 100 per cent greater than during the same period of 1933, according to figures taken from police records.

The city does not have a beer sales regulatory ordinance, and the city council showed little interest in enacting such a measure when the subject was broached recently by Mayor H. Karl Volland.

Beer dispensing places are open until 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning. At least 50 per cent of the intoxication arrests are made after 11 at night, according to police. As many as twenty persons appear in city court on drunkenness charges six was considered unusually large.

Fight Coal Ordinance

BLOOMINGTON, Sept. 22.—Armed with a remonstrance signed by more than three hundred persons, Rolla Morgan, Bloomington attorney, told the city council a proposed ordinance regulating coal sales, favored by Bloomington dealers, that the measure is unconstitutional and in direct violation of a state law forbidding licensing of coal and coke dealers by cities.

Advocates of the ordinance state it is designed to protect local dealers from coal haulers who bring loads of fuel into the city from the Greene county mining districts.

Former Official Dies

LAFAYETTE, Sept. 22.—Funeral services were held today for William M. Jackson, 65, who had held two Tippecanoe county offices and had served twice as Republican county chairman. He died at his home of heart disease.

Mr. Jackson served two terms as county clerk and one as county commissioner. He was engaged in the contracting business and had built many roads in Indiana.

YOUTH TO FACE TRIAL IN DEATH OF SWEETHEART

'American Tragedy' Case Will Be Heard in Eastern Court.

By United Press

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 21.—The "American Tragedy" murder case of Bobbie Edwards will be called for trial soon.

Bobbie, according to police charges, by his own confession, spun a triangular web about himself. He killed his childhood sweetheart in order to be free to continue another romance.

Theodore Dreiser's novel, "An American Tragedy," was re-enacted in almost every detail, police say, by the 23-year-old mining engineer, although the youth contends he never has read the story.

Childhood Sweethearts

Robert A. Edwards and Freda McKeechie, 26, an Edwardsville church worker, were childhood sweethearts. They had planned to marry and Freda was to become a mother in four months.

But Bobbie met another girl while he was attending college and carried on a dual courtship.

Edwards, like Clyde Griffiths in the novel, posed as a sophisticated, masterful youth who knew much of life. But when he found out that Freda was "in trouble" he was at a loss.

The Lake—a Boat

Like Dreiser's Roberta, there was Miss McKeechie, facing motherhood, pleading for marriage. Then Edwards, police charge, planned, much like the novel—the lake—a boat—told her you intend to marry her—and if necessary strike a light blow so as to stun her—so that falling into the water she will drown the more easily.

Bobbie, according to police, said in his confession that he was torn between two desires. The other "girl" in the triangle was Margaret Crain, 23, a music teacher of East Aurora, N. Y.

Thomas M. Lewis, Luzerne county prosecutor, charges that Bobbie wanted to get rid of Freda so he would be free to marry Margaret.

On the night of July 30, police charge that Bobbie and Freda drove to Harvey's lake, a summer resort near here. Despite a storm they charge that Bobbie had hidden a blackjack in his bathing suit.

First Admission

Lewis charges Edwards now admitted he "walloped her on the head." In his first confession, police say, the youth claimed Freda fainted in a row boat and he then hit her, intending to make her death appear accidental.

Then, like Sandra in the novel, Margaret Crain rushed to Edwards' aid. At the time of her sweetheart's arrest she was visiting a brother in Rochester, N. Y. He drove the girl 225 miles to the Wyoming state police barracks so that she could talk with and comfort Bobbie.

"I'll stick by him no matter what happens," Miss Crain said when she left Edwards. They kissed and embraced and she promised to return. Bobbie hasn't heard from her since.

Final Chapter Unwritten

The final chapter in Pennsylvania's own "American Tragedy" will be written in the courtroom here. Dreiser's mythical character "Clyde" was electrocuted.

The commonwealth announced it would demand the death penalty for Edwards, following a grand jury indictment for murder. The defense has given no intimation of what case it will present.

Edwards has shown no remorse for the act with which he is charged and which he freely admits. His one concern, according to keepers, is whether Margaret will attend the trial.

WILD FOWL REFUGE IS STOCKED IN UTAH

Two Artificial Lakes Built, Filled With Bass.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 22.—Utah nimbros are looking forward to some great shooting within a few years.

Saxon Authorities Explain Suspect's Escape.

KAMENZ, Saxony, Sept. 21.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, held in New York in the Lindbergh case, escaped in dramatic circumstances from prison here in 1933. Saxon criminal authorities told the United Press today. They described Hauptmann as "sly and clever."

Hauptmann was taken before authorities to be examined on a robbery charge, they said, while he already was serving five years on two previous charges.

During an interim in the examination, they said, he escaped.

"We simply found his clothes in front of the prison door one morning," a spokesman said. "We saw neither hide nor hair of him thereafter."

RADIO MAY BE USED IN AFRICAN SCHOOLS

Ruler of Gold Coast Plans Unique Courses in English.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Wireless will be used to teach English to dusky young native of the African Gold Coast.

Nana Sir Ofori Atta, the paramount chief of the Gold Coast, visited the great radio show at Olympia, and bought a seven-tube set for experimenting among the more advanced pupils in this country.

Sir Ofori is well known for his modern outlook in the matter of education. Nevertheless he clings to tradition in the matter of dress. He never appears without his gold crown, flowing robes, and large, fringed umbrella held over him.

GETS INTO WRONG CAR

Alleged Drunk Wants to 'Go Places'; Taken to Jail.

BELLINGHAM, Wash., Sept. 21.—"Move over, we're going places!" commanded a young woman as she climbed into a car occupied by two men. She went to jail on a drunk charge. The men were Chief of Police Max L. Laase and Sergeant George Sullivan.

HE RAN FROM HER—SHE RAN FOR TRAIN

"Ridiculous," was all Mrs. Ellen Tuck French Astor would say after publication of reports of a spat between the pretty New York socialite and her husband, John Jacob Astor III. The couple, shown above, are reported to have separated after their dispute.

SMEDLEY BUTLER TO ATTEND V. OF F. W. PARLEY

James Van Zandt. Smedley Butler.

Van Zandt Also Slated to Give Address at Night Meeting Here.

Thirty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be celebrated at a meeting at 8 Sunday night in Tomlinson hall and a picnic earlier in the day at Northern Woods beach.

General Smedley Butler, fiery, hard-fisted former marine officer, and James Van Zandt, V. F. W. commander-in-chief, will be the speakers at the night meeting.

Governor Paul V. McNutt, with whom Mr. Van Zandt has conducted a bitter speaking feud, has been invited to attend the meeting and speak. Following a meeting at Marion at which time, according to Mr. Van Zandt, he was squeezed off the program because the Governor "spoke more than his allotted time."

OIL ATTENDANT DONS SUNDAY BEST ON JOB AFTER RANSOM TIP

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The man who trapped the Lindbergh ransom recipient didn't wear his overalls to work today.

Walter Lyle usually wears his overalls when cranking out gasoline at a filling station in the Bronx, but today he was dressed in a fresh shirt and neat trousers.

Mr. Lyle was the man out of many who handled thousands of dollars in ransom money who was quick enough to suspect its source and who had presence of mind to jot down a clue to the identity of the man who passed it.

Part of the reward money for information leading to the Lindbergh kidnappers may go to him if the case against Bruno R. Hauptmann is a success.

Two Get Death Sentences

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill., Sept. 22.—Mrs. Gertrude Puhse, 42, and Thomas J. Lehne, 43, former policeman, today were under sentence to die in the electric chair Oct. 12 for the slaying of the woman's husband.

The baby clothes of the Hauptmann child were hanging on a line in the back yard when curious persons first began assembling at the house upon word that the owner had been arrested for possessing the Lindbergh ransom money. The 10-months-old boy's name is Manfred.

Mrs. Anne Hauptmann, who before her marriage was a waitress at a place on the Boston Post road, is a native German, like her husband. She is blond, buxom and pleasant appearing.

"Hauptmann never did much talking," one neighbor said. "Usually, when you met him, he'd just say, 'Hello,' and let it go at that. He was an enthusiastic drinker, often going to Canada, and played a good hand of pinocle."

PEACH WEIGHS 1 POUND

LIQUOR STATUTE CASE WILL BE HEARD MONDAY

3 Out-of-State Breweries Ask Injunction Against State Officials.

Two cases of major importance and possibly a third will be heard in Indianapolis district federal court Monday before three judges.

Most prominent in the public eye will be the attempt of three large out-of-state breweries to obtain an injunction restraining state officials from enforcing the state liquor laws. The breweries charge that the state laws are unconstitutional in that they interfere with interstate commerce. They also charge that they are discriminatory and tend to set up a monopoly.

The three plaintiffs are the Anheuser-Busch Company, St. Louis; the Schlitz Brewing Company, Milwaukee, and the Premier-Pabst Sales Corp., Chicago.

At the same time the Rockport Water Company will seek to enjoin the state public service commission from enforcing recently established rates.

MRS. MORROW SILENT ON SUSPECT'S ARREST

Jon, Victim's Brother, With Grandmother at Maine Home.

NORTH HAVEN, Me., Sept. 21.—Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, grandmother of the victim of the Lindbergh kidnaping, withheld comment today on new developments in the case.

Baby Jon Lindbergh, 2-year-old brother of the late Charles Jr., has spent the summer at the Morrow home here, with Shirley Grant, a local girl, as his nursemaid. When the family returns to its winter home at Englewood, N. J., next week, it is understood that Miss Grant will remain here. Betty Gow, nurse to the slain Lindbergh infant and later to Jon, has been reported vacationing in her native Scotland, but is expected to resume her duties at the Englewood home shortly.

STATES MUST HELP RELIEF CHIEF WARNS

Withdrawal of Aid to Be Penalty, Hopkins Says.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Heavy pressure will be exerted by the government on states that have failed to provide their just share of relief funds, Administrator Harry L. Hopkins said today.

"I am convinced," said Mr. Hopkins, "that many states are not putting up all the money they should, and we are going to insist they do so. That applies also to cities and counties."

If necessary, it was said, the FERA will cut off relief allotments to the negligent states to force co-operation. Tolerance will be shown, however, Mr. Hopkins said, toward states unable to raise necessary funds.

NEW JERSEY STANDS BY $25,000 REWARD

Sum to be Paid on Conviction, Governor Indicates.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 21.—A reward of $25,000 offered by the state of New Jersey for information leading to the apprehension and conviction of the kidnappers of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was still in effect today.

The reward was proclaimed by Governor A. Harry Moore under a state law authorizing rewards not exceeding $25,000 in kidnapping cases. Who, if any, gets the reward will depend on whether there is a conviction.

NEWLYWEDS TO GET BEEHIVES AS PRESENT

Honey Production Falls Off, Leading to Action.

BUDAPEST, Sept. 22.—Newly married men of Keskemet may be satisfied they were not stung on the deal, but the city fathers are going to prove them wrong.

The town is famous for its honey, but production has been falling off. So the municipality is giving a present of a beehive with a swarm of bees.

CURTIS IS 'DELIGHTED'

Lindbergh Hoxner Awaits Further News With Interest.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 21.—John Hughes Curtis, the boat builder who duped Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh into a search at sea for his kidnapped son, today expressed "delight" at new developments in the case.

"I am delighted that the matter is being cleared up," Curtis said. "I will await further developments with a great deal of interest."

Modernize Your Home

—BY ROGER B. WHITMAN—

One day last winter, with the temperature at zero and the wind howling, a neighbor asked me what to do about a room on the exposed side of his house that was too cold to use. I said that one trouble was the leaking in of outdoor air around the window sash.

He thought the sashes were too tightly fitted for that, and felt that he proved it by showing me there was no looseness.

But I took a yard-long piece of thread and pinned it by one end so that it hung in the angle between one side of a sash and the frame. If he had been right the thread would have hung motionless. But it did not. It was in a continual flutter.

With cold air leaking in around all the windows of the room—three of them—it was no wonder that the room was cold, that the radiator could not deliver enough heat to warm the outside air as fast as it was coming in.

One part of the remedy is in weather stripping and the rest in a storm sash. Any of the weather strips on the market will make window joints tight, when new and if carefully put on.

Applying these is a job for a professional, because of the special tools that are needed and the various forms of stripping that must be used for different parts of windows and doors.

Good metal weather strips should make a saving of from 15 to 20 per cent in the fuel bill. With storm sash added, the saving should run up to 30 per cent.

Air also is likely to leak into a house through the joints between the window frames and the walls. These joints should be air-tight when a house is new, but they may open with settlement and the drying out of woodwork.

Such joints should be closed on the outside with what is called calking compound, which is like putty but does not become hard.

Another usual air leak is between the top of an outside wall and the under side of a roof. This can be closed with plaster, rags, or anything else that can be stuffed in.

Next—Repairing the furnace.
