FINES ASSESSED FOR COAL LAW VIOLATIONS

NRA Code Authority Lists Recent Prosecutions in State.

The NRA divisional code authority, retail solid fuel industry, today announced several recent convictions for violations of the 1931 coal law.

Two coal truckers, Meril Anleiter and William M. Kidwell, both of Vincennes, were fined $18 each in Noble county court for violation of the coal law. If all violations had been pressed against them, according to the code authority, the fines against each man would have totaled $79, the costs $26, and each would have had to serve ninety days in jail.

They were accused of selling a cheap grade of Indiana coal for a good grade eastern coal. The authority also reported that Leonard Snipes, Bloomington, was assessed a $10 fine and $19 costs yesterday when he pleaded guilty to violation of the state coal and coke laws. He was charged with failure to leave a delivery ticket and duplicate giving weights and name of mine and vein.

BELGRANO RAPS BUTLER HINT OF FASCIST 'PLOT'

Commander Absolves Legion of Complicity in Alleged Conspiracy.

The American Legion is involved in no way in any proposal of an organized minority to march on Washington, unseat President Roosevelt and establish a dictatorship to preserve the existing order.

With that firm statement, Frank N. Belgrano Jr., national commander of the American Legion, answered late yesterday the statement of an investigating congressional committee that Major-General Smedley Butler had told it he refused an offer to lead a revolutionary army of 500,000 on the capital, "most of them veterans."

"I can speak officially only for the American Legion," he said, "but I am sure I voice the sentiment of every American veteran when I say that if such an absurd movement ever got started the first citizens who would spring to arms to crush it would be the World war veterans."

The implication that the men who offered their lives to defend their country would stoop to treason was termed by Commander Belgrano as an insult to every American war veteran.

"It may be a publicity stunt or an ill-conceived political coup," Mr. Belgrano suggested. "I can not vouch for the accuracy of the statements which were made before committee. But they should be investigated thoroughly. If the charges are substantiated, it seems

SHIRTLESS WASHINGTON IN HIDING

The twenty-ton statue of George Washington without a shirt, shown here, an outcast in the nation's capital for ninety-three years, has found a resting place at last—in an obscure chapel of the Smithsonian institution. The work of Horatio Greenough, noted British sculptor, it cost more than $20,000, delivered in Washington, in 1841. A great assemblage was shocked when the unveiling showed the first citizen garbed after the fashion of a careless Roman senator. After resting in a shed for years, it was sent to the Smithsonian, and finally relegated to its new hiding place.

that there is a clear case of treason and it should be treated as such.

"The American Legion is mobilized down to the last man to crush such subversive movements. Whatever their motives may be, these movements must be stamped out permanently by an aroused and indignant public. We must no longer temper justice with mercy in dealing with un-American influences. There is room for Americanism alone . . . we of the legion shall fight without rest to attain that objective."
