

BOND-JUGGLING PLOT REVEALED BY CONFESSION

Gang Schemed to Loot Three City Banks, Youth Tells Police.

Thompson and Healy, that he plotted with Karatz and others to buy a controlling interest in the insurance company and in the Indianapolis banks with money obtained by cashing spurious checks on the insurance company.

They induced Van Derk, clerk in the Amalgamated bank, to help them. They had agreed to pay $400,000 for the company, and made a $3,000 first payment.

Tells Police All He Knows

After gaining control of the company, according to Thompson and Healy, Sanders and his associates planned to flood the portfolios of the company with stolen bonds, which they hoped to buy from criminals at 10 and 15 cents on the dollar, selling them to the company at face value.

The Indianapolis banks were to be used to further the stolen bond scheme.

The alleged plot was revealed when Van Derk, urged by his fiancée, walked into police headquarters and told as much as he knew. Three fraudulent checks already had been cashed at the bank without detection, even though a state bank examiner checked its records after the first theft.

Three sensational steps of the conspiracy were revealed by Sanders, according to the state's attorneys.

Bonds Brought Here

He and another man, they said, collaborated in drafting checks against the insurance company to be cashed by Baiaita with Van Derk's aid.

Checks for $25,000, which were halted after Van Derk confessed, were to be used, Sanders was said to have confessed, to purchase stock of one Indianapolis bank.

Negotiating for purchase of this bank, Sanders was said to have taken $35,000 of the insurance company's bonds to Indianapolis to prove that he was financially responsible. He retrieved the bonds after revelation of the conspiracy and returned them to the insurance company vaults.

Baiaita "Brains" Is Claim

Baiaita, accused of concocting the entire scheme, was convicted in 1924 of looting the First National bank of Warren, Mass., of $203,000. He served three years in the Atlanta federal penitentiary and three more in Massachusetts. Police said he wrecked a half dozen banks and an insurance company in Buffalo, N. Y., before he was convicted in Massachusetts.

He joined hands with Barry about a year ago in operation of a loop saloon and two world fair concessions. Barry was involved because one of the $25,000 checks drawn on the Abraham Lincoln company was deposited to credit of his concern, Barry Inc., and another check drafted on it to obtain the illegal cash.

Barry was the only one of the accused trio who was able to make bond. Sanders and Van Derk are held in the county jail, unbooked with Karatz and Baiaita.

NAZI WAR AIMS MENACE PEACE OF CONTINENT

Report of French Alliance With Russia Evidence of Distrust.

BY WEBB MILLER United Press European General News Manager

(Copyright, 1934, by United Press) LONDON, Nov. 24.—Germany's rapid re-arrangement in deliberate violation of the treaty of Versailles, and the danger of it forcing a regrouping of continental powers for the eventuality of the next major war, were drawn sharply to the forefront of Europe's fears today.

Attention was focussed on a long serious situation by this almost casual statement in the French chamber of deputies yesterday by Leon Archimbaud, reporter of the budget.

"Russia has a solid, well-equipped army which she offers in case of conflict between Germany and us."

There had been disagreement whether Archimbaud was disclosing officially a long rumored alliance between France and Russia.

Perhaps he intended to fix the world's attention on the fact that Germany is rearming swiftly and soon will be among Europe's strong military powers despite treaty restrictions to prevent her re-arming.

Some military observers predict that Germany by 1937 will regain her place among the strongest military nations.

Diplomatic observers for many years doubt that France and Russia have yet reached the stage of alliance or military understanding.

Conversations have been proceeding between France and Russia regarding the situation created by Germany's rearmament, and it is well within the bounds of possibility that there eventually will be an entente.

If and when it occurs it will be among the most important diplomatic developments since the World war, because it will constitute a reversion to the pre-war balance of power system with Europe grouped into hostile armed camps. It also will mean the virtual end of the phase of attempts by collective security treaties to prevent war.
