

WORLD COURT ACTION URGED BY ROOSEVELT

Move Foreshadows Renewal of Bitter Opposition to League.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—President Roosevelt has asked Senate leaders to bring to a vote a resolution calling for American participation in the World Court, it was learned today.

The World Court fight is expected to be a lengthy one and advocates of the League of Nations hope to follow in immediately and press for American membership in the League as soon as the Court battle is decided.

The World Court resolution is in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The subject was discussed yesterday at a meeting of the Senate steering and policy committees but no decision was reached.

A resolution calling for American participation in the Court was passed by the 73rd Congress but carried safeguarding amendments which were rejected by Geneva.

Japan's Attitude Recalled
Revival of the League fight brought assurances from League opponents that they would make every effort to block American membership in that international tribunal.

At the same time advocates of participation in the League pointed to the attitude of Japan toward the Washington Disarmament Treaty as further evidence of a need for readjustment of America's approach to world problems.

The Senate, overwhelmingly Democratic for the new session which begins Thursday, contains three Republican Senators who were among the "irreconcilables" responsible for defeat of the League proposal in 1919.

All three—William E. Borah of Idaho, Hiram W. Johnson of California and George W. Norris of Nebraska—indicated in conversation with the United Press that they would continue their opposition when the League issue is brought again to the Senate floor. They declined to comment as yet on the present proposal.

Pope Sponsors Measure
The League issue is to be placed before the Senate "when circumstances warrant" by Senator James P. Pope (D., Ind.), who is now being assisted by the State Department in drafting a joint resolution calling for American membership.

"I have long been convinced that international co-operation and a permanent organization for the amicable conciliation of international complications is essential to world peace," Mr. Pope said in announcing his intention to introduce the League resolution.

"Traditionally, I realize, the foreign policy of the United States has been shaped along nationalistic lines. The isolationist point of view has permeated the expressions on foreign relations of our statesmen for many years. Among these early traditions is avoidance of alliance with European powers and the abstention from political consultation with those powers."

"There are a number of factors, however, in modern life which must be reckoned with in formulating the foreign policy of modern America."

"I feel that (1) the network of international communication facilities, (2) the economic interdependence of states, (3) the tremendous destructiveness of modern warfare, (4) the influence of public opinion upon international relations and, (5) the growth of international unions and organizations of all kinds have established a trend toward a world community, socially, economically and politically."

Mr. Pope declared that "the unsuccessful attempts of the United States to collect war debts and the failures of the world to bring order out of chaos created by the World War are strong indications that our foreign policy is in need of a change."

CITY POLICE ROOKIES EXCEL WITH PISTOLS

Five Who Joined Force in December Boost Average.

Indianapolis police rookies have excelled their elders in pistol marksmanship.

Turning in an average card of 88, five policemen who joined the force during December, raised the average record 6 points.

The marksmen, trained by Sgt. Harry Canterbury, are Raymond L. Porter, Elmer Thompson, Spurgeon Davenport, Elbert Burns and Paul Blackwell.

CROW KILLING CONTEST IS RENEWED IN STATE

46 Clubs, Two More Than Last Year, Already Enrolled.

The second annual Indiana crow-killing contest got under way today with 46 clubs throughout the state already enrolled.

Only 44 clubs were enrolled last year, the group turning in 68,670 crows' feet to the State Conservation Department, contest sponsor. The Sandborn Conservation Club took first place with 17,318 feet last year.

RULES ON '7-A'

A court decision of vital importance to the national recovery program will be handed down by Judge John P. Nields, above, in Wilmington (Del.) United States District Court, when he rules on the Weirton steel case, involving constitutionality of Section 7-A, the NRA collective bargaining clause. Final arguments are set for Jan. 14.
