SECURITY AIDS ARE OUTLINED BY ROOSEVELT

Work for All in New Relief
Setup Urged in Talk to Congress.

now on relief with provision for tapering off as private jobs develop. Public works projects shall be located where they will serve the greatest unemployment needs.

Mr. Roosevelt said he would submit cost figures for this program in his budget message Monday.

"I assure you now," he added, "that they will be within the sound credit of the Government."

He said Federal emergency credit activities would be tapered off gradually.

Mr. Roosevelt said approximately 5,000,000 unemployed persons now are on Government relief rolls. About 1,500,000 of these previously were cared for by local effort and for the most part are unemployable.

"It is my thought," he said, "that in the future they must be cared for as before."

The remaining 3,500,000 employable, able bodied recipients of Government relief in cash or markets baskets are to be given jobs.

Need Jobs for 3,500,000

"We have assumed this task," he said, "and we will not shrink from it in the future."

"It is my duty dictated by every intelligent consideration of national policy to ask you to make it possible for the United States to give employment to all these 3,500,000 employable people now on relief, pending their absorption in a rising tide of private employment."

Slum clearance, reforestation, national highway construction for modern traffic and elimination of grade crossings are typical of the projects suggested by Mr. Roosevelt to effect his Federal job-making plan.

Applause Is Frequent

Applause, which repeatedly interrupted Mr. Roosevelt's slow, impressive language, swelled to a crescendo as the message ended with assurance that 1935 would be a year of "purposeful progress."

Congress seemed to be voting "Aye."

Legislators heard Mr. Roosevelt's plea massed in the spacious hall of the House of Representatives. The Cabinet sat before him. In the galleries members of the Roosevelt family and their guests sat with crowded hundreds of lesser folk.

As the President left the chamber, holding his son James by the arm, he said: "Well, it took three minutes longer than I figured."

Mrs. Roosevelt wore a black dress and a black hat.

President's Mother Present

The President's mother, in a caracul coat with a black and white scarf; his daughter, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, in black; two daughter-in-laws, Mrs. James Roosevelt II, wearing matching hat gloves of two tones of red with a black coat widely collared in mink, and Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt in a green suit; his granddaughter, Sistic Dall, in a green coat and hat over a bright red dress, completed the family party.

25th Anniversary.

The banquet at the Claypool Saturday night marking the twenty-fifth anniversary of the State Board of Accounts will be addressed by Gov. Paul V. McNutt.

Other speakers will be James W. Noe, Indianapolis attorney, and Evans Woollen, Indianapolis banker, who aided in organizing the first board; William F. Cosgrove, chief examiner; Lawrence F. Orr, former chief examiner and now a deputy, and W. A. De Hority, another former chief deputy, who has been on the board since its organization.

Officers of the Field Examiners' Association, which is sponsoring the dinner, are O. L. Hayes, president; Ralph S. Hesler, vice president, and Ure M. Frazier, secretary.

ASKS POLICE FOR RIDE,
GETS IT, AND $25 FINE

Parks Truck Illegally: Refuses to Go to Station Except in Wagon.

Jack Arvesti, proprietor of a candy store at 144 N. Alabama-st., asked for a ride in a police patrol wagon and got it.

That all happened a few days ago and yesterday, from Municipal Judge Dewey Myers. Arvesti got something he hadn't asked for: a fine of $25 and costs for obstructing the sidewalk with an automobile.

Ernest Heller, traffic policeman, told Judge Myers that Arvesti had a truck parked nine feet out into a 15-foot sidewalk and that he then refused to do anything about it when policeman Heller protested. This led to talk of court and Arvesti said he would go to court only in a patrol wagon, according to the policeman, who obligingly provided the wagon.

TWO STATE UTILITIES SEEK RATE REDUCTION

$105,000 Will Be Saved for 38,000
Consumers, It Is Claimed.

Voluntary rate reductions providing annual savings of approximately $105,000 for more than 38,000 electric consumers in northern Indiana were filed today by two companies with the Public Service Commission.

The Indiana General Service Corp., which serves Delaware, Madison, Blackford, Grant and surrounding counties, filed a new schedule of electric rates which it claims will result in annual savings of $34,000 to its 14,600 customers.

The Indiana-Michigan Electric Co. filed a petition for voluntary rate reductions for its 23,700 customers in the vicinity of South Bend, Elkhart and Mishawaka.

Both companies are subsidiaries of the Associated Gas and Electric Co.

Clothing Store Looted

Burglars who last night entered through a skylight, looted a second-hand clothing store at 417 W. Washington-st. Louis Alboher, manager, reported that items valued at $200 were taken.

ESSAY LAUDED

Nellie Keeling

"Sacred Ceremony," an essay by Nellie Keeling, a copy editor of the Technical High School newspaper, was included in the current issue of the Scholastic, national high school weekly. The essay also will appear in the second annual issue of "Siftings," literary magazine of the Technical English Department.

The measure would protect the bulk of the New Deal measures passed by Congress, and other progressive legislation, from assaults on constitutional grounds.

It would confer on Congress specific power to legislate on hours, wages and conditions of labor, and to regulate and prevent unfair methods and practices in industry and commerce.

Court interpretations of the so-called "due process" clauses of the Constitution would be limited to the procedure methods used, as distinguished from the substance of the legislation itself. This would prevent courts from attempting to void New Deal enactments by declaring the emergency at an end.

Four other progressive bills were introduced by Senator Costigan. They included:

A constitutional amendment to subject tax-exempt securities to federal and state taxation;

The anti-lynching bill which he and Senator Robert F. Wagner (D., N. Y.) sponsored last session;

A bill to increase the present authorized bond issue for the Home Owners Loan Corp. by one and one-half billion dollars, and to enable that corporation to use accrued payment of interest and principal on loans already made as a revolving fund for additional loans;

A bill for small crop seed loans for 1935.

NEIGHBOR FIRES ON FLEEING MARAUDER

Attracted by Sound of Breaking Glass in Unfinished House.

Shotgun fire greeted a housebreaker who last night attempted to enter a country home now under construction by J. A. Rentsch, realtor, at 90th-st and State Road 29.

Attracted by the sound of breaking glass, Chesley Hill, a neighbor, approached the unfinished house armed with a shotgun. Deputy Sheriff Howard Skaggs, who investigated, said he was told that a man emerged from the basement as Mr. Hill neared the house and fled to a nearby woods. Mr. Hill is said to have fired twice at the fleeing figure.

Authorities today were checking hospitals, believing the house-breaker may have been hit and would appear for treatment.
